ANDERSON FIRM GETS BIG BOOST

Local Hardware Concern Gets Praise in National Publication

The Harvester World, national publication of the International Harvester company, in its August number, has an illustration of the store room of the Anderson Hardware Company. This magazine has thousands of readers over the country, the "boost" for Anderson is duly a prelude.

Accompanying the illustration is an article entitled "A Business-like Place of Business." The Anderson Hardware company is doing a splendid business and has sold numerous reapers and tractor engines this year.

The article in the World says in part: Published on this page is a photograph of one of the several headquarters of business firms that are making the south of today different from the south of yesterday. The old south was a land of one crop and one method of farming. The new south is one which realizes its resources of soil and brains and which is learning the soil preservation and improvement contingent upon crop rotation and diversification.

The name over the door is rather emphatic and it reads to passersby, Anderson Hardware Company. This progressive firm is located at Anderson, S. C., an ideal location from the point of being in the center of a very fertile and promising farming district. The ecclesiastical-looking gentleman toward whom the threatening arrow points, and who stands at the left, is the well known manager and president of the Anderson Hardware Company, D. C. Brown.

The Anderson Hardware company is not only a good friend of the Harvester company, but it is also a good customer. The Deering line offers the line of least resistance, and in the neighborhood of fifty Deering binders were contributed to the grand gathering of the harvest of 1914.

The new south is a land of new possibilities. Business men who are business men may not only get profits, but give service.

HUNOR DENIED

Rome, Aug. 19.—A report of the Pope's death was circulated this afternoon and gained strength by the fact that church bells began to ring. The Vatican immediately denied the report and explained that the bells were ringing only to call the faithful to a prayer for the recovery of the Pope.

DRAINAGE WORK SOON TO BEGIN

Final Hearing Upon Report of the Board of Viewers Will Soon Be Held By Clerk

Those people affected by the proposed drainage work in the Hammond swamps will be glad to learn that the proposed work will soon be started, provided no additional obstacles are encountered before the final hearing which is to be held before James N. Pearson, clerk of court. Provided no objections are raised at this hearing, the district will be formed, the land owners will be assessed their share of the expense and the work will be under way. This will mean that people of the Hammond section will command some of the most valuable agricultural land in the state, whereas it is now impossible to cultivate the property at all. The following notice was sent out yesterday to the interested land owners:

Notice is hereby given that a final hearing will be held upon the report of the board of viewers, appointed to examine and report their findings upon the feasibility of draining the Rocky River swamp lands on September 8 at 11 o'clock a. m., at the county court house.

James N. Pearson, C. C. C.

COMMUNITY HOUSE FORMERLY OPENED

WELFARE WORK FOR RESIDENTS OF RIVERSIDE COMMUNITY

A MODEL KITCHEN

Miss Leila Moseley of City Schools Will Be In Charge of the Work

(From Thursday's Daily.) The inauguration of a splendid welfare work in the Riverside and Toxaway community was given an auspicious opening last night. This work has been planned for months by B. B. Gossett, the president of these mills, but nothing had been said about it in the public prints until the whole work was ready to be thrown open to the public.

Such a work has been conducted for some months with great success at the Brogon mills of which Jas. P. Gossett is president, and the new undertaking proves the success of the work at Brogon. Miss Frayser, the field agent of Winthrop College, who is promoting this kind of work, was especially delighted last night when some 30 or more persons came over from Brogon to take part in the opening exercises at Faverside.

Pretty Home. There has been built at Riverside a neat and attractive "community house" where the work of helping the mill people in their domestic life will be undertaken under expert supervision. The work is to be in charge of Miss Leila Moseley, a successful teacher of the city schools system, and a young woman of ability and tact who will carry this work to success by her very enthusiasm and her devotion to her calling.

There were about 300 present last night for the opening exercises. The community house, spick and span, sits under a big post oak tree covered with ivy, and all of the surroundings are charming. The home is within a few yards of the office of the Riverside mills.

The building has been planned to house all of the various lines of activities of the community work.

One room is devoted to library work there are built-in shelves on which a modest number of books already appear, on the center table there are current magazines, and over it drop lights, and around it comfortable chairs. The next room there will be for floor games, such as crokinole, dominoes, etc., and this room will also be used for sewing classes. The third room is equipped as a modest kitchen.

The Exercises.

When the hour of 8 arrived last night, Pres. B. B. Gossett presented Rev. W. T. Belvin, pastor of the Methodist churches in this community, who made a very appropriate prayer. Mr. Belvin is accomplishing a splendid work in Anderson although he is called away frequently on evangelistic work at which he is especially successful.

There was a recitation by little Gertrude Hughes, one of the pupils of Miss Moseley's school last year. This little lady quite surprised the audience with her clever reading, and it is evident that the work of the school at Toxaway is doing good.

Secretary Whaley of the Anderson chamber of commerce, made a very earnest talk, upon invitation of Mr. Gossett, and explained carefully and in an impressive manner the necessity for employer and employee working together for the upbuilding of a community. His plain talk was thoroughly appreciated.

Miss Nell Hellams then gave an enjoyable reading, "Here Comes the Bride," after which the audience was again entertained with a solo by Miss Nina Russell, "Sunbeams" by Ronald. "The Dark Brown Diplomat," a reading by Miss Carrie Fretwell, also delighted the audience.

Miss Frayser was there. Mr. Gossett then called upon Miss Mary E. Frayser to explain the scope of the welfare work of this community house. This was done in a plain, graceful and effective manner, and all of the people of the community were given to understand that there is no mystery about the place, but that they are to be welcome at all times that the home is open. She explained the reading room and the room for games and finally the domestic science room where tired mothers will be taught easy ways of taking care of the housekeeping.

Miss Frayser has done a vast amount of good in Anderson county already with her missionary work among the men, teaching them how to make life sweeter and troubles lighter for their good wives. Miss Frayser is accompanied to Anderson by Miss Bostick, her assistant, who is also doing good work in this state. They have been invited to do a great deal of work among the people of Anderson county and will probably do so.

President Gossett wished to call upon others present, but as the night was fearfully warm, he announced the community house formally turned over to the people for their enjoyment and improvement. He then read the list of prize winners in the contest for the best gardens and the best yards. The mill company plows the gardens, furnishes the seed and furnishes the fertilizer at actual cost and gives $50 worth of cash prizes to the persons who make the best showings.

MOVING PICTURES OF PIEDMONT SECTION

SHOW SCENES IN THIS SECTION OF THE STATE

ANDERSON VIEWS

South Carolina Industries and Agricultural Conditions To Be Pictured For Exposition

When Anderson people get to 'Frisco in 1915 for the Panama Exposition they will gaze with delight upon the moving pictures of "home sweet home" and they will feel very proud indeed of the Anderson county scenes to be shown there.

Albert Blum, of New York, a publicist of note, is in Columbia for the purpose of arranging the industrial film which it is proposed to show at the San Francisco exposition in connection with the South Carolina exhibit. The film that will be shown, according to the plans of the commission, will be 7,500 feet and space may be procured at $3 a foot. The film method is one of the several plans which the commission has in mind for raising the fund with which to provide the building and prepare the exhibit. The "movie" exhibition will take place in the auditorium that will be constructed along with the building proper. The show will last two hours, not as long as some of the other industrial films, but the commission took into consideration the fact that the visitors will be busy sightseeing and will appreciate a story that is briefly but at the same time completely told.

The pictures are designed to give specific examples of industrial South Carolina. A factory will be shown both inside and out, with machinery in motion and the manufactured products being turned out. The operators will be seen engaged in their daily occupation. The receipt of the raw material and the finished article leaving the factory for the transportation lines. There will be scenes of the employes on their way to work and on their way home after the blowing of the whistle or the ringing of the bell that announces the close of the day.

The "movie" has already demonstrated its usefulness in the advertising world and many of the great concerns of the industrial centers of the world have introduced themselves to the public by means of intimate scenes of the factory and the forces that go into the making of the articles.

The commission will provide as an extra attraction at the movie show what might be termed a trip through industrial and agricultural South Carolina composed of 1,000 feet of farm views, 1,000 feet of manufacturing concerns in general and 500 feet of random views. This film will be shown once a day while the regular industrial film feature will be on the screen continuously.

The 2,500 feet film will in itself be a comprehensive picture of South Carolina and there will be scenes from the piedmont to the ocean. No section will be neglected, and each community will with any characteristic industry or resources will have a place in the life picture of the Palmetto State which will be viewed by the passing thousands, who come to the great exposition to learn of the wealth of the nations as well as be amused and entertained.

The commission's plans are going ahead with unabated vigor, despite the war, since it was announced that the exposition would be held at the time originally determined upon. The public has manifested a keen degree of interest in the proposed exhibit and at the offices of the commission many encouraging letters have been received from those who feel that South Carolina should have adequate representation in the display of the resources of the nation collectively and as individual states.

ROBERT A. GENTRY MAKES STATEMENT

Denies Report That Dr. Tripp Is Running for Treasurer's Office for Him

(Political Advertisement) To my friends in Anderson county: I understand it is currently reported over the county that my father-in-law, Dr. Tripp, is running for the county treasurer's office, not for himself, but for me. I wish to correct this report and say there is absolutely no foundation for same, as I expect to return to Ridgeville in September to resume my duties as principal of the Ridgeville High School. (Signed) ROBERT A. GENTRY August 18, 1914.

FREIGHT RATES REDUCED

Rates on Fertilizer Pronounced Exorbitant and Reductions Ordered. Washington, August 19.—The interstate commerce commission today held existing freight rates on fertilizer, Norfolk, Va., to points in North Carolina, north and east of Hamlet, to be unreasonable and prescribed new tariffs ranging from $1.50 per ton for a 50 mile haul to $2 for 100 miles, $2.60 for 200 miles and $3.05 for 300 miles. The new schedule will become effective October 15.

A petition of carriers to continue commodity rates on fertilizers from Norfolk to Wilmington, N. C., lower than those in effect to intermediate points was denied and readjustment ordered.

PROSPEROUS FARMER OF ANDERSON COUNTY

PRICE OF COTTON DOES NOT WORRY HIM

A CALF ORPHANAGE

J. W. Bradley Living Seven and One-Half Miles From City Has Ideal Orphanage

Living seven and one half miles from the city of Anderson, J. W. Bradley has thoroughly demonstrated in the past six years what thrift and the proper conception of farming will accomplish. Six years ago Mr. Bradley bought the place he now occupies for $33.00 per acre, it was then considered a poor investment. Today it is worth many times the price paid for it, having been improved in every conceivable way, swamps cleared up, timber cut out of swamps, and the dwelling now occupied by the Bradley family having been built with lumber sawed from trees on the place. In talking with a reporter for The Intelligencer yesterday, Mr. Bradley unfolded a new but profitable scheme that he has put into effect, namely a "Calf Orphanage." The enterprising owner of this farm buys all the young calves to be had in his immediate vicinity, at prices ranging from 40c to $2.00 each and keeps them from 12 to 18 months in which they are ready for market and will bring from $35.00 to $40.00 each. Mr. Bradley explained that the cost of raising them was very light as he has an excellent pasture and ten milch cows on hand practically all the time. There were 17 calves all practically the same size in Mr. Bradley's pasture yesterday and to say that it was a pretty sight expresses it mildly. Of the 60 acres in this farm, there are only about 20 acres planted in cotton, ten acres of which will make a bale to the acre. Seventeen acres of bottom corn will easily yield 75 bushels to the acre, which is without doubt as fine a field of corn as is to be found in any section of the State. In addition to the splendid crop in view Mr. Bradley has 150 bushels of corn and enough to last him for some time to come that have been stored away for over a year. There is also a store that does a good business belonging to this enterprising farmer, who stated that he employs no help on the farm, himself and family, plant and gather the entire crop, which by the way consists of as fine a pair of five year old Missouri mules as can be found anywhere. Their condition proves conclusively that they were looked after by Mr. Bradley's family and not hired help.

It would no doubt be a revelation for a great many to get out and see the results that have been obtained in six short years on this farm by using a little elbow grease and modern methods. Also doing away with the idea that one must raise cotton to live. This one instance if positive proof that the farmer that raises the necessities of life at home, will in the future be the man that is able to enjoy peace and plenty, in spite of wars and other calamities.

JOHN A. HORTON A WINNER

This Statement is Coming Daily From All Quarters of the District

John A. Horton is receiving letters and messages, wholesale, from every nook and corner of the third congressional district, telling him to put up a stiff fight for the high honor to which he aspires, saying that he will be the next congressman. This his friends believe to be true. Every man in the race realizes that John Horton is the logical man for the position. They realize that Horton, through the hardships of his youthful life—when he was forced to work day and night in order to receive an education, is in sympathy with the laboring class of people. Every honest man on God's green earth admires a man who by energy and thrift alone, has risen from poverty to prosperity. Anderson county will give Horton a handsome vote for several reasons: First, because he is one of her honorable sons. Second, because he is a new and clean man in politics. Third, because they know that he will earn the salary attached to the office. Fourth, because Horton helps pay the taxes of Anderson county. Fifth, because he will vote with the democrats of the south and will promote a worthy cause and will at all times work for the development of rural districts. Seventh, because Horton will work for daily mail deliveries on every public highway in the district. Eighth, because the congressman has been in one family for the period of twenty years, Ninth, because they realize that Aiken has been "weighted in the balances and found wanting"—especially in voting against the democratic party.

We could give hundreds of reasons why Anderson county has decided to make a change. But what is the use? Congressman Aiken himself practically admits that he sees his finish. He came out in the Anderson daily papers a day or so ago with seven columns of reading matter trying to explain his position on several matters and he jumped from pillar to post and wound up as he did on the stump, in the hole. He sees the "handwriting on the wall" as does his closest friends. Horton knows what he is talking about for men who were strong Aiken men ten days ago are now lining up for the Horton column stating that they are "through with Aiken." If Mr. Aiken had worked all these twelve years for his constituents, worked in harmony and voted with the democrats he would be in better graces with the people, but if he had done his duty in congress there are thousands of good, honest voters in the district who think that "the silver spoon" should be taken and delivered to a man who is capable of skimming some of the cream and sending it to the third congressional district.—Adv.

VOTERS TURNING TO JOHN HORTON

The Aiken-Baker-Dominick Row Has Disgusted Crowd and They Will Support Horton

Voters in the Third District are flocking to the banner of John A. Horton for congress as they have become disgusted with the Aiken-Baker-Dominick row and think that "where there is so much smoke there must be some fire." Aiken says Baker's a liar, Baker says you are another and so the fuss goes on. The people are tired of it and as John Horton has had no hand in it they are turning to him as the best and cleanest man in the race.

Isn't it natural to suppose that a man who had to work his own way in life realizes more fully than a city bred lawyer, the needs of the great masses of the people. John Horton has been a success in his own business and the people believe he will be a success as their representative. The vote he will receive in Anderson county alone would put him in the second race but he is going to get a big vote in all the other counties besides. This is even admitted by the friends of his opponents. Why shouldn't the people support him because he deserves it? Here is what one voter in Abbeville county says: "Am going to vote for John A. Horton. Have known the Hortons for 35 years have dealt with them in business and in church and have found them the most pleasant people of all my dealings." John Horton can beat either of his opponents in the second race as he will secure either the Aiken or Dominick vote. Vote for him, give him a trial and if he fails to secure a chairmanship to which he is entitled he will resign.

A man that came from between the plow handles will serve you better than a man that has lived easy at the public crib all his life.—Adv.

GREAT RIDDLE IS UNANSWERED

For Whom Did John G. Richards Vote in the gubernatorial Race, 1912?

Special to The Intelligencer. Pickens, August 19.—A quiet and undemonstrative audience of about 600 Pickens county voters attended the state campaign meeting here today. There was little change in the tone of the speeches. The last meeting of the campaign will be held Thursday at Greenville.

"Anything that Fortner chooses to say against me I take as a compliment if anything that he should say about me should defeat me I should deserve to be defeated," said Frank W. Shealey, candidate for railroad commissioner in answer to the charge that Shealey was playing both sides in the campaign.

The plea of John G. Clinkscates for the boys and girls of the state was well received. In reply to the local option compulsory education candidate he said that the counties that most needed compulsory education would not vote in it.

Robert A. Cooper said that if elected there would be no strings tied to him.

Richard I. Manning asked the voters why the governor has pardoned about 900 hundred negroes. John G. Richards predicted that he would be in the second race. He did not tell for whom he voted in 1912.

DOG IS THOUGHT TO HAVE RABIES

Little Visitor From Charleston Is Attacked by Animal at Home of E. C. McCants

(From Thursday's Daily.) Robbie Frapp, a little boy from Charleston, who is visiting at the home of Prof. E. C. McCants, was attacked yesterday afternoon by a dog thought to have rabies and last night relatives of the little fellow were afraid that the dog might be suffering from rabies. It is understood that the dog is to be killed and the head sent to Columbia in order that the question of whether or not the animal is mad can be definitely settled.

The dog belongs to a gentleman living in the country, but Prof. McCants had borrowed the canine for a few days. It is understood last night that its actions were somewhat peculiar, although it gave no signs of being mad.

The little boy recovered from the bite and the scare in a few minutes and last night it was said that he was all right again.
