CLERSON BOYS ARE NOT COMING. A letter was received yesterday by the Anderson chamber of commerce from Dr. W. M. RUMOR SAYS P. & N. IS TO COMPLETE LINES

WILL CONNECT UP MISSING LINK

AT AN EARLY DATE

Contract Will Soon Be Let For Building Road Between Spartanburg and Gastonia, N. C.

A very persistent rumor is being heard around Anderson to the effect that the Piedmont & Northern line railway, instead of dropping all extension work as has been stated, will build their lines on between Spartanburg, S. C. and Gastonia, N. C. and have the work finished and the line in operation within the next year.

The report, while not from an official source, is nevertheless to be relied upon and those who have heard it believe that it is true.

It is based on the fact that one of the chief officials of the road was just about to let a supply for a large number of supplies a few days ago when he received a telegram and after perusing his message he informed his officers that he would not place the order for the additional supplies because they would be worthless in less than six months as the connecting link was to be constructed.

It is approximately 60 miles from Spartanburg to Gastonia and when this link is built it will be possible to travel from Charlotte to Anderson by the electric line. It is understood that the new line will be built from Gastonia to Spartanburg either by way of Gaffney or by way of Shelby, but the question of route has never been definitely settled so far as the public knows.

Anderson people all trust that the report is not groundless and that the additional work may soon be under way.

FALL GARDEN IS FINE INVESTMENT

Anderson Farmers Given Valuable Advice By Clemson As To Working of the Plan

(From Sunday Daily.) A number of Anderson county farmers received circulars yesterday from Clemson College dealing with the planting of a fall garden and all the farmers are enthusiastic.

A small amount of time and labor expended in the preparation and planting of a fall garden will bring valuable returns, aside from the pleasure of having fresh vegetables for the table during the "dry" winter months, the financial saving is worthy of consideration. Following is a list of vegetables that may be included in the fall garden:

Beets—Sow best seed the latter part of September. The plants will stand the winter and produce beets for early spring use.

Cabbage—Sow plants of the Wakefield varieties if set now will form heads before the cold weather. With slight protection like cabbage and collards will carry through our severest winters.

Kale—Seed sown during September will produce an abundance of greens during winter and early spring. Siberian carried is a good variety.

Lettuce—Sow Big Boston variety for a supply of delicious salad during fall and winter. With slight protection firm heads may be produced.

Mustard—Mustard will stand any amount of cold and seed sown during September will furnish greens throughout the fall, winter and early spring.

Onion—White Pearl is a splendid variety for fall planting. Sets of this variety will furnish bulbs and tops during the winter and early spring. Seeds may be sown from September 20th to October 15th.

Peas—Plant during the month of November for the earliest spring peas. Alaska is a good variety for fall planting.

Radish—Large White Spanish or some of the other varieties of winter radish will remain in good condition throughout the winter. Sow seed the last of September.

THE CIVIC ASSOCIATION—The members of the civic association held their regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon at Mrs. W. S. Dwyer's residence on South McDuffie street.

This was an unusually well attended and interesting meeting. The most important factor in the meeting regard to the cotton cloth movement in the south. Mrs. Alice Sloan, an enthusiastic worker in the association had prepared the following resolutions which were read and adopted:

Whereas, the present awful conflict on the continent of Europe has plunged the christian nations into an unprecedented and unparalleled carnage of blood, has seriously decried the Southern market for the export demand for the same, as to make the sale of southern cotton an unknown quantity, thus seriously and dangerously hampering the prosperity of the south and through the South of the whole country, since if the crop of cotton for the present fiscal year has to be sacrificed and sold for less than the cost of production, which is variously estimated at from 8-14 to 10-12 cent per pound, and will react on the well being and counterbalance the wonderful year of past prosperity which for the past five years has been sweeping the south, and

Whereas, the present gigantic resources of the South in the way of savings banks, deposits, life insurance policies, investments in private corporations, and public and private mortgage bonds, above all the vast raw material, climatic and healthful resources, are such as to make the South one of the richest endowed sections of the earth, peopled by plucky and intelligent and thrifty people only now actively enlarging their industrial opportunities, and thus the handling of excess or distressed cotton to the extent of several millions of bales is not too large an undertaking for the South and is in its final analysis for the benefit of such undertaking as should seriously tax the ability of the people of the South, but in order to show the people of the South the spirit and determination of the women to do their part in helping the sale of cotton, and in order to assist in extending the use of cotton as to make the markets larger enough to handle what cotton will be offered for sale, considering fully that which will be warehoused,

Resolved, that the ladies of Anderson, South Carolina, in meeting and cooperation with the ladies of other chapters of the Dixie Chapter U. D. C. on the 1st of October, 1914, that we call upon all our members, upon all the people, especially the women of Anderson, South Carolina and the South to honorforth wear cotton goods. We urge all to purchase individually and collectively to do so.

Done this day and year first above written at Anderson, South Carolina, this 29th day of September, 1914.

Mrs. Rufus Burris, President. Mrs. O. L. Martin, Secretary.

Sleeping Conventions. The Abbeville County Staging Convention will meet at Calhoun Falls on the second Saturday and Sunday in October. The public is invited.

ALEX HASKELL'S WAY. He Never Sent His Men—But Led Them. I have seen Colonel A. G. Haskell in times when I tried men's souls, and I never knew him to waver, he did not say, "go boys," but "come on boys," and with all calmness led us into battle. In his regiment, Seventh South Carolina cavalry, there was 700 men and of the 700 there were 500 boys under 19 years, he was to all of us like an older brother looking after our comforts with all the power he had I was carried off the Cold Harbor battlefield with others with him and he made it pleasant for us, notwithstanding he was suffering, as we were, great pain. Alex Haskell was a hero morally and physically. We all remember how he bowed down on his knees and offered up one of the most fervent prayers for poor Sam Whitehead of York county, who was mortally wounded and sent by Col Haskell a dying message to his dear mother. A better, more clean and moral man never lived than Alex Haskell. South Carolina ought to be proud of him, and any one who speaks of him with calumny and derision should stop and think what he did for the State of South Carolina in the '60s and saving the State from negro rule in 1870. A CANNON. Horse Shoes, N. C. AT THE BRATTLE FRONT. At the Battle Front, Sept. 25.—(Via Paris 6:21 p. m.)—French and British troops intermingled with Turcos and Moros, not only held their own, but caused the strongly reinforced German western wing of reel backwards near St. Quentin yesterday and today, and imperiled the German line of communication towards the frontier of Belgium. The German center has been weakened by the rush of troops from that position to meet the threatening movement of the allies, and two German armies were engaged at close quarters today between St. Quentin and Terguier. The military authorities naturally refuse to permit the disclosure of the exact position of the fighting, but it is generally known that the battle now progressing is of prime importance. Meanwhile at other parts of the battle line, which is about 120 miles long, fighting continued today in forced fashion. The allied forces followed the example set by the Germans and dug themselves deeply in. The artillery of both sides has been an incessant fire while French and German aviators reconnoitered from above. The commanders of the allied forces have found reason for the wonderful precision of the German fire in a spy discovered in their lines who signaled directions. He was caught and shot. The troops appear to have become thoroughly hardened and accustomed to conditions. The commissariat and the ammunition supply departments are working perfectly. While the soldiers are occupying the advance firing lines they are scarcely ever without one hot meal a day, which is brought to them in camp kettles from the field kitchens. The British artillery officials praise highly the gunnery of their opponents. They declare that the German shells almost always burst at accurate range, but often too high to do damage. The soldiers rest occasionally when in deep trenches, smoking pipes and cigarettes for a ration of tobacco is served regularly. Meanwhile shells tear by overhead with a sound like the ripping of parchment. British officers relate an incident which they say occurred during twilight last evening. A force of British infantry, when engaged with British battalions held up their hands in token of surrender. The British approached to take their prisoners when, it is said, the Germans re-opened fire. The British officers ordered their men to lie down which they did. Then three big machine guns were brought into action and killed every German in that portion of the field. PRIZE FOR BOMB ON BRITAIN. Germans Offer Inducement to Aviator for Attack on England. (Berlin Dispatch to New York Sun.) A large prize has been offered to the aviator who first drops eight bombs on British soil. Commercial Councillor Fender made the offer today and the only condition is that the bombs must not land in open country, but on some spot where they would do damage.
