Messages.

Tea at Bailey's.

The moon was in eclipse on Saturday.

Abbeville is about as dusty as it is possible for it to be.

Best Cocktails at Bailey's.

The Treasurer has been kept busy for the past few days.

It is not often that we have such hot weather in October.

Our account of Tuesday's rally crowds out local matter this week.

Court convenes on Monday week. Judge Aldrich will preside.

Milk Paaches at Bailey's.

There were over two hundred red shirts in the torchlight procession.

We regret to hear of the serious illness of Dr. M. C. Taggart of Greenville.

Messrs. S. D. & Tom Pace, drove a fine pair of 3 year old colts to town on Monday.

The stand was beautifully decorated by Col. Wardlaw and his numerous and lovely assistants.

Refreshments at Bailey's.

The crowd in town Monday was not as big as we expected to see. Probably the meeting the next day was the cause of it.

The Rev. J. L. Martin's letter of resignation was not accepted by the congregation, and the matter goes up to Presbytery.

Capt. Hertford Parks' company, The Governor's Guard made a good display in the torchlight procession of Monday night.

The editor of the Press and Banner was called on by the Governor's Guard for a speech Monday night and gracefully responded.

Cobblers and Taddies at Bailey's.

Special attention is called to the large and attractive stock of Ready-made Clothing now offered for sale by White Brothers.

We extend our congratulations to Mr. John B. Wier, of Greenville, who was married on last Wednesday to Miss Smith, of Charleston.

The Literary Club will meet at the residence of Mr. A. B. Wardlaw on next Friday night. Capt. L. W. White is the essayist; subject, Elections and Electioneering.

The Rev. Dr. Boggs preached a most interesting sermon on Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church, from the text "Strive to enter in at the strait gate." St. Luke, xiii, chap., 24th verse.

A good assortment of the following named articles may be had at the store of White Brothers: Table Linens, Towels, Blankets, Sheetings, Bed Tickings, Counterpanes, Furniture Prints, Carpets and Rugs.

The moon was in partial eclipse last Saturday evening, and the novel sight attracted much attention. One darkey said to another in our hearing. See da moon-fall do on you—kneel and pray, an git ready to die.

White Brothers having an immense stock of fall and winter goods, are now prepared to supply the wants of all their friends and the public generally. Goods are cheaper than they were ever known to be, and in the purchase of them a little money will pay for a great many articles.

The gin-house, gin and cotton press, together with six bales of cotton, belonging to Mr. J. M. Latham, Jr., near Lowndesville, was destroyed by fire last Saturday evening about five o'clock. It is supposed to have been caused by a match passing through the gin. The estimated loss is one thousand dollars.

The Due West Colleges.

The colleges at Due West make and fete open this week. They are both objects of pride to the people of Abbeville County and sources of profound regard to the people of the whole country. We wish them abundant success.

GRANDEST RALLY OF ALL

SO SAID GOVERNOR WADE HAMPTON.

Red Shirts—Bands—The Old Reformers—Ladies, Men and Children, all Come to Hear Our Speakers—The Days of '76 Come Back Again.

The Reception.

The reception committee was at the depot at 4:30 p. m. on Monday to receive Governor Thompson, Senator Hampton, Attorney-General Miles and Hon. I. M. Bryan, and escorted them to the residences of the gentlemen who were to entertain them. The Abbeville Band in its splendid red wagon, with numerous United States flags floating therefrom, led the procession to the depot. The Governor's Guards formed in open ranks in the depot, and the honored speakers passed through to their carriages. Outside Maj. Zeigler, with fifty mounted red shirts, was ready to welcome them with a yell of 1876.

At night the torchlight procession was formed at the Court House under command of Chief Marshal Bonham. Maj. Zeigler's company, Captain Evans' Lebanon company, Captain C. A. White's company and Captain J. B. Moseley's made up a contingent of two hundred mounted men. The Governor's Guards and very many others on foot swelled the throng. Led by the Abbeville Band the procession, armed with flaming torches, marched to a point opposite the residence of Mr. J. M. Giles; then counter-marched and proceeded to a point opposite the residence of Col. Robertson, and returned to the square, and was massed in front of the balcony of the new hotel. Upon this balcony were a large number of beautiful women. Hon. W. C. Benet, with some of the speakers, occupied central places. As soon as the music ceased, Mr. Benet introduced Gov. Thompson to the enthusiastic audience below. The Governor, in view of his much speaking in this campaign and of his onerous duties on the morrow, excused himself after thanking the audience for their warm welcome, and saying it gratified him to see that in gallant old Abbeville the fires of enthusiasm and patriotism that redeemed South Carolina in 1876 still blazed brightly. As soon as the Governor had finished, loud cries arose for Hampton; but he was not present, and the chairman introduced the Hon. C. R. Miles. The Attorney-General said he had often heard that South Carolinians were the hungriest people for speeches he ever saw, and from this demonstration he thought it was true; but that on the morrow they would have their fill. The Attorney General paid some graceful compliments to the chivalry and beauty of Abbeville. Hon. I. M. Bryan, Elector at Large, was next presented. Mr. Bryan spoke well and wisely that the county of Abbeville was consecrated in its past by memories of the illustrious statesman Calhoun, the brilliant orator McDuffie, and by the lives of hundreds of warriors who died in her defense. Mr. Bryan was loudly cheered. At this juncture the crowd called lustily for Mr. Benet, and in response he made a speech full of wit and happy hits. He said inter alia that he wanted the band to learn to play before the 4th of November the Mulligan Guards. That Mr. Blaine had been dancing to the tune of Fisher's hornpipe, and on the 4th of November would be buried to the tune of the Mulligan Guards.

After Mr. Benet's speech, cries of Cottrhan! Cottrhan! arose and would not be still. The Judge had refrained from getting on the stand, and was standing quietly in the rear of the crowd. But he was unaccountably brought forward amidst wildest enthusiasm. The Judge spoke in that magnetic voice that led the Democracy of Abbeville in the stormy days of '76. He said he did not think the judicial office ought to be carried into politics and it was fortunately true that there was no great necessity. But if necessary he would take the office into politics for the salvation and redemption of his State. The crowd unceremoniously unhorsed the Chief Marshal, and escorted him to the stand. Capt. Bonham said that in this campaign he was prepared to expend his eloquence in action and threatened to court martial his men who had so summarily dismissed him. Cries of Gary! brought Col. E. B. Gary to the front who made a ringing and cheering speech, which unfortunately we did not catch.

After the speeches, the Abbeville Band discoursed stirring music, and the occasion was full of enthusiasm. Indeed the Torchlight Procession was a grand success. The red shirted horsemen, the waving torches, the infantry afoot, the surging crowds that lined the side walks, the bevy of beautiful women, and the crowds of gallant men, made up a scene of brilliancy and beauty rarely seen in so small a place.

Carely McKinley the brilliant correspondent of the News and Courier in '76 came to Abbeville to our big meeting. He is par excellence the correspondent for such an occasion. His faithful pen took the office into politics for the salvation and redemption of his State. The crowd unceremoniously unhorsed the Chief Marshal, and escorted him to the stand. Capt. Bonham said that in this campaign he was prepared to expend his eloquence in action and threatened to court martial his men who had so summarily dismissed him. Cries of Gary! brought Col. E. B. Gary to the front who made a ringing and cheering speech, which unfortunately we did not catch.

The Democracy Triumphant.

This day considering all the adverse circumstances has been a grand triumph for the loyalty of the Abbeville Democracy. The elements conspired to bring defeat upon the occasion—the discouraging prospect of the crops, was enough to dampen the ardor and turn patriotic thoughts towards provision against the wolf at the door. Notwithstanding all this Abbeville County has shown her true fealty to the principles of democracy and the honest effort for reform. She has sped the departing guests with a collation of a gala day, unsurpassed so far in the campaign. It was without doubt the finest display that has been made since 1876.

Before the dawn's last star had paled, the roar of the cannon from the Antreville artillery opened the ball. From dawn until ten o'clock the mounted red shirts from all parts of the county were pouring in up every hill by which the town is approached. Their enthusiasm found vent in cheer after cheer, as they moved towards the rendezvous. The clouds of dust almost obscured the horizon.

The place of meeting had been appointed at the park in front of the Presbyterian Church, and thither the clans were mustered. At ten o'clock nearly all had gathered except the Troy and Due West contingent. By eleven o'clock the sweet strains of the Due West Cornet Band led by D. H. Magill, Esq., the best amateur cornetist in the State, were heard approaching, and soon the column took up the line of march headed by Capt. M. L. Bonham, Jr., Chief Marshal and Aides W. S. Cottrhan and L. Wardlaw Smith. They were followed by the Abbeville Band which was in splendid tone. Then followed Maj. Zeigler's company of over three hundred men. The Major showed that he was eminently the man for the place, and vindicated the wisdom of the choice of the two clubs at the Court House, who elected him Captain. He had a splendidly mounted and equipped command and carried the day. Then followed in "magnificently stern array" the following most excellent commands: The Antreville mounted club and the Antreville Artillery commanded by Capt. John E. Brownlee, 150 men.

THE LINE OF MARCH.

The Lowndesville Club, Capt. J. B. Moseley, 40 men. The Due West Club, Capt. J. W. Wideman, 40 men. The Long Cane Club, Capt. Neut. Nickles, 30 men. The Troy Club, Capt. R. J. Robinson, 60 men. The Calhoun's Mills Club, Capt. C. A. White, 40 men. The Bellevue Mounted Club, Capt. John H. Morrish, 35 men. The Magnolia Club, Capt. J. S. Norwood, 30 men. The Lebanon and Cedar Springs Clubs combined, Capt. Samuel Evans, 75 men. The Greenwood Club, Capt. J. W. Payne, 30 men. The Hodges Club, Capt. W. Z. McGhee, 30 men. The Bradley Club, Capt. John R. Carville, 40 men. The Phoenix Club, Capt. S. P. Brooks, 25 men. The Cokesbury Club, Capt. David Aiken, 20 men. The carriages containing the distinguished speakers were interspersed in the procession.

plished grand results, and I know that you will never consent to their being untoned. But I am not to make a speech. I am to introduce to you one much more accustomed to it now than I am, and who can do it much better—one who like Paul has sat at the feet of Gamaliel—our last Attorney-General, as true a man as ever lived, the Hon. Charles Richardson Miles.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL MILES.

Mr. Miles was received with great enthusiasm, and made a chaste and polished address. His style was pure and his demeanor dignified, in striking but pleasing contrast to the typical stump orator.

—Who spends his toil For the vain tribute of a smile.

Mr. Miles urged upon the Democracy the importance of turning out at the polls that the liberties we have had since '76 might be protected. That the Republican party was alive yet, and its efforts in the face of defeat convinced him that they had a great amount of fighting qualities left yet. Particularly, said he, ought the Democracy be alert to overcome the immense Republican majority in the lower part of the State and give the electoral vote of the State to Cleveland.

Mr. Benet announced that he had been so fortunate in capturing one Judge he thought he would try it again. He would call on him not as a Judge but as a soldier to introduce a General. The cheers and cries for McGowan were exceedingly enthusiastic.

JUDGE MCGOWAN.

Judge McGowan said: That was a glorious shout; [applause] I love to hear it! [applause.] It sounds like music in the air. It reminds me of olden times when you fought and bled and suffered together. I know it comes from kind hearts—just such hearts as I know the people of Abbeville have. But I have not a speech for you; I have a duty to perform that will be more pleasing to you than any speech I could make you. I have to introduce to you one, not unknown—one who has served you gallantly in the field and yet bears honorable wounds—wisely in the cabinet as Governor, as the liberties won in '76 witness—faithfully at the National Capital as all know—true to his friends, his country and his principles—the Hon. Senator Wade Hampton.

THOSE WHO WERE NOT PRESENT CAN HAVE NO IDEA OF THE WILD BURST OF APPLAUSE WHICH GREETED THE HONORABLE SENATOR. HE SPOKE AS FOLLOWS:

SENATOR HAMPTON'S SPEECH.

I follow—citizens—it had been in my power to have saved you ten times as many as have been, (at God knows I could have done so, if I would feel amply repaid by the welcome you have given me. When I learned that the Executive Committee had assigned me to Abbeville, I congratulated myself, for I knew the lines had fallen to me in pleasant places. First on the roll of counties, among the first to take up the flag of '76, and I say to you men of Abbeville, that you are first in the demonstration you have made to-day. Great as is this pleasure it is nevertheless marred by the absence of some familiar faces among you, you have been called to stand around the grave of some of your most honored citizens; death has been busy among you. Perrin has been called hence, Thomson has gone to his last account, and the face of one absent, who by character and life was an honor to Abbeville and to South Carolina, and whose highest ambition was to be worthy of the well-done of his fellow-citizens—I could not refrain from paying this tribute to Armand, Burt, and to his ashes and honor to his memory. Though absent, would not these men urge you to stand fast to the principles you have avowed. Never again allow your native land to be possessed by that band of aliens, robbers and thieves. Rather than again pass through the years from '68 to '76, so help me God, I would rather undergo the trials and privations, great as they were, of another war. What a life we led, until urged by our women, we resolved rather to die as freemen than live as slaves. You have exhibited here as fine a display of cavalry as I ever saw. Your State stands in no danger of defeat, but let me urge you to carry the same enthusiasm into the Federal election. As you all know, Cleveland was not my first choice for President—I favored Bayard because he was the truest man to the South in the whole United States, and the ablest man in the Democratic party. Cleveland though, as an honest man, and a true reformer, will receive not only my vote, but I will work and pray for him.

TELEGRAM TO CLEVELAND.

Mr. Benet then said that he had a proposition to make to the audience. If the people desired it he would send the following telegram:

His Excellency Grover Cleveland, New York.

Five thousand Abbeville Democrats greet you, our next President. They see various channels in which they can be useful, and will prove no "dead-heads" in this campaign. "Bury this telegram."

W. C. BRADY, County Chairman.

"The proposition was carried by a perfect storm of 'ayes.'"

HON. D. WYATT AIKEN.

was then introduced and made one of his characteristic speeches, carrying the whole audience with him in his enthusiasm.

HON. GEORGE JOHNSTONE.

of Newberry, was next introduced, and enthusiastically received, but excused himself from speaking on the ground that he came merely to be a "looker-on in Vienna." He nevertheless, added a few words of encouragement, and then gave place to

of Florida, who was introduced as the Chaplain of the State canvassers, and who entertained the crowd with quite a humorous speech.

A splendidly barbed dinner was then served, and every one went away with their appetites appeased, and the proud consciousness that they had participated in one of the grandest meetings ever held by the Democracy in Abbeville County.

Evolution.

We call attention to an able article from Rev. J. L. Martin, of Abbeville, on the article of Dr. Woodrow on this same subject, which is engaging so much of public attention. Whilst Mr. Martin doesn't appear to agree with Dr. Woodrow's conclusions he ably maintains the learned Doctor's right to preach and teach his doctrines. Dr. Martin is known to be one of the most able and laborious men in the Presbyterian church in this State, and whoever reads the article, published in this paper will be fully repaid for the perusal.

Serenade to Mr. Benet.

The evening after the Democratic meeting the Abbeville Band and a number of the gentlemen of the town tendered Mr. Benet a serenade, in recognition of the brilliant termination of the day. After playing Dixie and Annie Laurie, Mr. Benet was loudly called for and responding in a few words thanked the gentlemen for their kindness, reminding them that it was due entirely to their efforts in furnishing delightful music that the day had closed so successfully. That it convinced him of the readiness of the red shirts to respond whenever called upon. The State and County election, said the speaker, were certain, but that there was some doubt as to the electoral vote. He was glad that their patriotism could extend beyond the County and take in the Nation. After a short family love feast as to the success of the day the serenaders were invited within the hospitable mansion and made to appreciate the thoughtfulness of the County Chairman as a comarist.

Death of Dr. Edwin Parker.

We write with unfeigned sorrow of the death of Dr. Edwin Parker, which event occurred at his home in this town about half past five o'clock on Sunday evening, Oct. 5. He had been sick more than a week, and his relatives had given up all hope of his recovery, but the end came suddenly at last and the community was startled by the announcement of his death. Dr. Parker was the eldest son of the late Captain Thomas Parker, and was the brother of our townsmen Wm. H. Parker, Esq., and Mr. Edward Parker. He graduated in medicine at the Charleston Medical College, and practiced in this county and in Alabama and Mississippi. After his return from the West he settled in this place where he has since resided. He married Miss Eugenia Calhoun, the daughter of Col. Calhoun, and who preceded him to the grave some years ago. Dr. Parker was sixty-one years old. He was peculiarly faithful to his profession. At all hours and without reference to the condition of the weather or his own health, he responded to the call that summoned him to the bedside of the sick and suffering. Even after his fatal illness had set in he arose from his bed to visit a patient in whose case he felt much interest. Literally he died in the harness. Monday evening at five o'clock he was laid to rest beside his wife, in the Episcopal cemetery.

He died of congestion of the lungs and suffered much. Who will not utter the prayer that God will give rest to his soul, and comfort his bereaved and stricken family.
