TRAFFIC MEN CROWD ROOM

Hearing of Interstate Commerce Commission Brings Traffic Experts to Front

(By Associated Press) Washington, Feb. 12.—Commissioner Harlan today found a room crowded with traffic experts when he opened the hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission on reports by examiners that free terminal service to certain shippers has cut up an undue share of revenue.

H. C. Barlow, traffic manager of the Chicago Association of Commerce was the chief witness of the day. He declared emphatically no saving to the railroads would result from the elimination of the "trap car" service, so far as Chicago was concerned. Louis D. Brandeis, special counsel for the commission, and the same legal representatives of the carriers who have appeared in the freight rate increase hearings, took part in the somewhat informal discussion that followed.

Enforcement of payment by the great commercial enterprises of Chicago for switching services now rendered free by the railroads over terminal facilities owned by the shippers, Mr. Barlow said, would drive them back to the use of teams and create an impossible situation. The teams of these companies, he added, would monopolize the freight terminals of the railroads to the exclusion of smaller concerns.

The Negro Race Conference, the sixth annual meeting of the Negro Race Conference or conference for the common good, of which Rev. Richard Carroll is president, meets in Columbia, February 18th and continues in session to the night of the 20th. Able speakers from both races are on the programme. Col. E. J. Watson, commissioner of agriculture for South Carolina and J. W. Thomas of Bennettsville, will address the farmers. J. Labrance Ward, M. D., will address negro physicians. Dr. B. R. Riley, one of the most prominent white preachers in the south, is to be present and speak on "The Relation of the Whites to the Negro of the South." On account of the meeting of the great Lutheran convention the same week very low rates will be granted on the railroads, and persons desiring to attend the race conference can take advantage of these rates. This conference is usually attended by great crowds and is helpful to the colored people.

REGULATIONS OF INCOME TAX

Many Pages are Filled With Directions to the Officers

Washington, Feb. 11.—After weeks of study of the complexities of the income tax law, treasury officials today issued a ninety page booklet christened "Regulations No. 3," and sent it forth to collectors of internal revenue in the expectation that it will clear up many of the misunderstandings concerning the law which have arisen throughout the country.

It takes 23 pages of the book to set forth the law itself but 60 pages are used in telling how the net income to be taxed is ascertained by the taxpayer, when and where tax must be paid, what penalties will be imposed for non-payment what exemptions and deductions will be allowed. Many pages are devoted to an explanation of that part of the law imposing a one per cent. tax on the income of all corporations, which replaces the old corporation tax.

Although officials are confident that this booklet will prove a guide to taxpayers which will settle many apparently difficult problems, there will be other regulations in the future when new points are raised. The book does not contain a new set of regulations but is a compilation in compact form of the ones already issued with explanations of points never before discussed. Under the law, partnerships are not subject to the tax, but the regulations provide that annual profits from a partnership paid to members shall be included in their returns and where such profits are undistributed and unpaid they must be ascertained and included in the individual's return for taxation just the same.

It is made clear for the first time that persons who have a net income of less than $20,000 all derived from investments and upon which the tax has been withheld at the source, shall not be required to make any return. Executors and administrators of estates of persons are required to pay the tax on the net income for the part of the year in which the deceased was alive.

Where persons taxable refuse to make the proper list or return or make false return the regulations provide that the proper collector of internal revenue, shall after due notice, make the return for such person and the tax shall be assessed on this return, with a fine of one hundred per cent. penalty assessed. Returns must be verified by oath or affirmation. Returns shall be sent by collectors to the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington by registered mail. Taxes unpaid after June 30 shall bring a penalty of 5 per cent. after ten days' notice and interest at the rate of one per cent. a month from the date due. Returns shall be made in duplicate before March 1, every year.

In dealing with the corporation feature it is explained that all returns shall be public records subject to inspection on order of the President of the United States under rules prescribed by the secretary of the treasury. Copies of returns can not be sent to any person except the corporations of its attorney, but on request of a governor, officers of a state which imposes a general income tax, may have access to returns by corporations doing business in that state. United States District Attorneys, may, under certain restrictions, have access to the returns. Disclosure by any collector or other employee of the United States, of any information whatever, set forth in any return of annual net income is made a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $1,000 and one year's imprisonment, and if the person found guilty is a United States employe he will be dismissed and thereafter be incapable of ever holding office under the government.
