ELECTRIC CITY SPARKLETS

Items of Interest and Personal Mention Caught Over the Wireless on the Streets of Anderson

Yesterday Was The Hottest Yet.

More complaint has been heard all over the city yesterday about the heat than at any time this summer, so far. The breeze throughout the early part of the day helped quite a little, but after noon the wind ceased to be felt and the city sweltered in mid-summer heat. The mercury climbed to 95, and a fraction over, and hung there all day long. The heat was more intense on account of the fact that no rain had fallen for so long that the earth is parched.

Teachers Closed Their Two Schools.

M. M. Crowther and his sister, Miss Valeria Crowther were both in Anderson yesterday for a short time, en route to their home in Antreville. Mr. Crowther has been teaching for the past year in the public schools of Darlington and his sister has had charge of a school near Belton. Both schools have been closed. Both Mr. and Miss Crowther are splendid instructors and they have done well with their school work during the session just closed.

Railroads Are Making Preparations.

All the railroads coming into Anderson are making preparations for handling large crowds during the two days of the Elks convention, which takes place in Anderson on June 17-18. Extra cars will be added to all regular trains and some special trains will be run, one from Greenville, one from Charleston and Orangeburg and one from Columbia. It is also said that Spartanburg is figuring with the Piedmont and Northern line to provide for a special train for the purpose of bringing Gaffney and Spartanburg here.

Solicitor Hill Is Here Tonight.

Announcement was made in Anderson yesterday to the effect that Albert E. Hill of Spartanburg, solicitor of the Seventh Judicial District and Grand Scribe of the Improved Order of Red Men for this State, will be in Anderson tonight and will assist at 8 o'clock in reorganizing Tecumseh Tribe of that Order. Members of the Red Men are planning for a very enjoyable time and a number of visitors from nearby towns will probably be present. Mr. Hill has a number of friends in Anderson and he will be warmly welcomed.

Anderson Women Attend Meeting.

A number of Anderson women have been spending this week at the College for Women in Due West, where they took part in the public meetings of the Alumnae Association. Among those from Anderson in attendance at the meetings were: Mrs. J. E. Barton, Mrs. J. E. Drezeale, Mrs. A. M. Sharpe, Mrs. Daisy Wilson, Mrs. J. R. Young, Mrs. J. I. Brownlee, Mrs. Lena Clinckscale and Miss Lewis.

Winthrop Girls Are Back Home.

The large number of young ladies from this county going to make up the Anderson delegation to Winthrop College at Rock Hill returned to the city Wednesday evening and yesterday morning. Anderson had almost as many students at this well known institution as any county in the State and the young ladies from this county have never failed to distinguish themselves during the session's work. There was no exception to the rule this year and Anderson county was an important factor all through the year at Winthrop College.

Little Folks to Enjoy an Outing.

A number of Anderson's young society set will have an enjoyable time this afternoon at Williamston Park Springs when they will be entertained there by Miss Esther Dagnall daughter of A. H. Dagnall. The event is in honor of the young lady's eighth birthday and she has planned a very pleasant time indeed for a large number of her little friends. The little people are looking forward to it with a great deal of pleasure.

College Students Arriving Daily.

Anderson's quota of college students are returning home daily from their various institutions and every train arriving in the city brings a large delegation from the different schools. A number of those who have already arrived have secured positions for the summer and others will leave for other towns to accept positions after spending a few days here with "home folks."

Few Registered At The Hotels.

There were fewer traveling men in Anderson yesterday than for several days. This was doubtless due to the fact that almost all the salesmen in North and South Carolina were in Greenville yesterday attending the Grand Council of the U. C. T. Throughout the day Anderson merchants were free from being bothered by the "drummers."

Adjusting the School Fire Loss.

George Harrington of Atlanta, adjuster for the Germania Fire Insurance Company of New York, spent yesterday in Anderson adjusting his company's portion of the loss on the Glenn street school building, which was burned early Wednesday morning. The Germania policy was carried in this city by Willett P. Sloan and the Sloan agency had $4,000 insurance on the school building. Mr. Harrington had been in Anderson for several days before the fire and left here on the night that the fire occurred. He was recalled by telegraph.

Sandy Springs Wants Protection.

Several citizens of Sandy Springs presented themselves yesterday at the office of the county supervisor and requested that official to give protection to Sandy Springs in the matter of automobiles speeding across the public road of the village. Sandy Springs is not an incorporated town and therefore is powerless to act for itself in the matter. The delegation yesterday pointed out that a wagon had been struck and the driver seriously injured, sometime ago and they asked that the supervisor take steps in the matter. Mr. King is having published the law on the subject and he intends trying to the best of his ability to see to it that no more speeding is done at Sandy Springs.

New Citizen May Come Here.

L. E. McKnight of Fountain Inn, spent part of yesterday in Anderson, looking over the city with a view to locating here. Mr. McKnight has several relatives and a number of friends in Anderson and these urged him to come here. They will all hope that he may see fit to locate in "My Town" and make this his home.

School Trustees Will Meet Today.

The trustees of Anderson schools will meet today in the office of E. C. McCants, superintendent. The only business to be transacted today is to elect one more teacher for the high school, although it is possible that the board may take up the question of replacing the Glenn street school destroyed Wednesday by fire. It is understood that the board now plans to go ahead with the work, adding possibly two rooms to the building and making it a ten room school instead of an eight room affair, but no definite statement has been made concerning this. Some interest surrounds the selection of the last teacher for the high school's next term.

New Firm Has Secured Quarters.

The Consolidated Mercantile Company of Sumter is soon to open a retail business in Anderson. The establishment will be located in the store room formerly occupied by the J. T. Jones Company in the Masonic building and plans are under way for the opening of the new place within the next few days. The new concern will handle dry goods.

FLASHES from the FILMS

BARRY O'MOORE IN "FREDERICK THE GREAT."

"THREE KNAVES AND A HEATHEN CHINEE" Joe, Fred and Jack have such reputations as card sharps that nobody in town will play with them. Charlie Lee opens a laundry. Yep, he plays poken. Charlie loses steadily until he announces receipt of a big legacy. Then the boys borrow all they can—and Charlie makes a cleanup.

In "The Smouldering Spark" Ed Coxen gives a splendid characterization of a man who by force of circumstances has been forced from conventional forms of society, but who when given an opportunity proves that the spark can be fanned into a blaze.

SCENE FROM "THREE KNAVES AND A HEATHEN CHINEE."

In "Her Grandmother's Wedding Dress" Dick teases poor June about the old dress which she wears to a dance. Jim knocks him down and, believing him dead, wanders away, dazed. He turns burglar and enters the new house into which June has moved. She finds him gazing at her grandmother's portrait, and the sight of June restores his memory.

Helen Holmes has taken part in so many railroad photo-plays that she says the rattle of a train is as music to her ears. Miss Holmes is the remarkable actress who in less than a year has climbed to the very top of the motion picture ladder. In that period this star has run locomotives, fired trains, acted as brakeman and performed all the other duties that fall to the lot of railroad men. But there is one thing at which Miss Holmes is expert, and that is pounding a telegraph key.

Miss Lillian Drew, who is well known to the photo play fans, came near playing in her last picture a few days ago. Miss Drew, a counterfeiter (in the photo play), was supposed to have been discovered passing the "queer" in a restaurant and makes a break for the window to jump out. Her left foot caught in the curtain, which threw her out of the window, but, as luck would have it, she fell on top of Charles Hitchcock, thus breaking her fall and at the same time ransacking up Charles considerably.

"A Week End at Happyhurst" is a comic release. Glink's suburban friend invites him home, painting the joys of country life. Irresistibly, Dante's inferno is a joy ride compared to the experiences that poor Glink suffers through. It wouldn't have been so bad if the neighbor's children hadn't come down with chickenpox. That was too much.
