Miss Leize Stribbling of Pendleton, whose wedding will be an interesting event of September, was the attractive guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Jess Stribbling and Miss Jessie Browne entertained for her at Miss Browne's home on West Market Street. Two dozen of the honorees most intimate friends were invited on this occasion. They were welcomed at the door by Mrs. Chas Gambrell and invited into the living room where Miss Browne, Miss Stribbling and Mrs. Stribbling received. In the hall where Misses Evelyn Browne and Ann Gambrell served refreshing nectar Miss Lila Stribbling and Mrs. Raymond Beaty greeted the guests.

Huge bowls and jardeneirs were filled with brilliant golden glow and other garden flowers to give an attractive background to the rainbow across the ceiling of the living room. After all the guest had arrived Miss Stribbling was told to go to the end of the rainbow and find the pot of gold. In this large gold pot were numerous useful gifts for the bride elect from the guests present.

In the center of the dining table which was spread with a cover of cluny lace, was an immense bowl of white clematis. Around this were comports holding green and white mints.

Smith-Lemmon.
The wedding of Miss Camille Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Smith and Wallace Edward Lemmon, Jr., of Elliot, Sumter County, solemnized Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian Church at Lowndesville, was one of the August weddings in which Anderson society has held an interest. The church was well filled with relatives and friends of the popular young couple, and the gathering congregation was delightfully entertained by a program of organ music by Mrs. Archie Talbert, who also played the wedding marches for the professional and recessional. The church decoration was exceptionally fitting and artistic, palms and ferns being grouped effectively against the rostrum. Candles burned upon the altar and against the background of green.

Marshall Lallimer, Gamewell Thompson, Walter Huckabee, and Jack Cooley entered first stretching ribbons in each aisle. The ushers were Jas. Benj. Kay, James Ellis, Rembert Allen, and Robert Lee Smith.

Misses Lella Moseley of Anderson, Louise Cunningham of Abbeville, Rose Powell of Augusta and Elizabeth Bell of Lowdesville were the bride's maids, and Miss Mary Lemmon of Lynchburg, S. C., the groom's sister, maid of honor. They wore lovely gowns of crepe meteor and white lace with overdresses of filmy white crepe chiffon. All carried great bunches of pink carnations tied with pink tulle. Little Miss Alice Meschine wearing a dainty white lingerie frock preceded the bride and scattered flowers in her path.

The bride who entered with her maid of honor wore an exquisite gown of white crepe meteor, the skirt modestly draped and lengthening into a long train in the back and the corsage formed almost entirely of Chantilly lace. Orange blossoms held the veil to form a Juliet cap and bride's roses, tied with tulle composed the beautiful bridal bouquet.

The groom entered with his brother, Dr. Chas. J. Lemmon, of Sumter, who acted as best man, and met the bride at the altar where Rev. J. C. Chandler performed the ceremony.

At the Smith home a reception was held after the ceremony for relatives and intimate friends. The living room, hall and library in which the numerous presents were displayed were all given a prevailing pink effect by the use of quantities of pink carnations, and the dining room was all in pink and green. In the center of the bride's table which was spread with a cover of cluny lace was a tray of pink carnations, set upon a large table mirror, and similar and tulle were used with an effect of airy delicateness in the decoration. The cakes, leas and mints were all in green and pink. On the porch refreshing punch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemmon left immediately after the reception for their wedding trip, planning to return after a few weeks to make their home on the grove plantations in Sumter county.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Misses Rose and Lucy Bedell of Lenoir, Ga.; Miss Annie Brown, of Greenville; Mr. Lee Edmunds, of Hot Springs; Mrs. T. B.
