ELECTRIC CITY SPARKLETS

Items of Interest and Personal Mention Caught Over the Wireless on the Street of Anderson

Last Chance To Secure Tickets.

Today is the last chance that Anderson people will have to secure tickets for the appearance of Al G. Fields minstrels in Greenville on Monday night. The tickets have been on sale for several days at the office of the Piedmont & Northern railway but after tonight it will not be possible to secure reservations at that place. It is said that the seat sale here has been very satisfactory and that the theatre people are well pleased with the number disposed of here. It is planned for the theatre party to leave this city Monday afternoon at 6:45 o'clock, reaching Greenville in time for supper before the show, and returning a special train will leave over the interurban immediately after the show has been concluded. This being the first attraction the Greenville theatre has had this season, it is said that standing room will be at a premium.

Everything Ready For Stock Exhibit.

Several planters spending yesterday in Anderson said that interest had been aroused in their respective committees over the news that the stock exhibit has been postponed until September 30 and all of them agreed that this will be a better date. It is said that practically every section of the county will be represented when the judges begin their task of picking the prize-winners and every shape, size and kind of horse will be seen here on that day, as well as various breeds of hogs and other stock. The great interest being manifested in this particular event could probably be traced to the fact that the prize list is longer and filled with more valuable premiums than any of the farmers had expected.

New Department Store is Here.

Today marks the opening of a new business enterprise in Anderson. That of the new department store of Fabenstein on the south side of the square next door to R. W. Tribble's store. Mr. Rubenstein comes here from Augusta, where he has been in business for years, backed with years of practical experience in this line of business. However the stock which he has opened here is not an old one. This stock of goods was bought in New York and other eastern markets especially for Anderson, and shipped here direct.

In this issue of the Intelligencer appears a half page ad from this newest addition to Anderson merchants, which is brimful of attractive and seasonable bargains that will appeal to the thrifty men and women of Anderson and vicinity.

Mr. Rubenstein states in his initial bow to the buying public of Anderson that he has come to stay.

New Building Is Filling Up.

The new Watson-Vandiver building on Main street is fast filling up and this particular portion of the city is becoming one of the busiest spots in town. The Anderson Paint and Color Company has moved from the Bleckley building to the new quarters and this establishment has a very attractive location. John Linley has moved the "cabin" office from the Dime Savings Bank to quarters in the new building and he and North Anderson literature are taking charge of things along North Main street. It is understood that a large number of the offices on the second floor of the building have already been rented and that several more will probably be placed within the next few days.

Little Girl Wants Her Donkey Shows.

A letter was received in Anderson yesterday from a little girl living a few miles from the city, in which she demands to know why some preparation has not been made for exhibiting donkeys in the coming livestock show which is to be held here on September 30. The little girl says that she has a donkey as fine as any horse to be shown here and challenges the committee to question this statement, saying that she will bring the animal to town and either ride or drive him as the occasion may demand. Later in the day a letter was received from a little boy in which he says that he too has a very fine donkey and would like the right to exhibit the animal. In all probability there will be some steps taken to provide for a class of donkeys, since there seems to be such a demand.

Night Schools For the Session.

The most important announcement appearing in the September issue of "The Comman" which is today being sent out over the various mill villages of the city, is that to the effect that the night textile school will be conducted again this winter, although along somewhat different lines from that pursued last season. This night school did much for the mill workers of Anderson last winter and they all appreciated it. It had been thought that the school this year would be enlarged and conducted much in the same manner as last winter, but unforeseen circumstances have arisen which makes this impossible and it is therefore probable that a school will be conducted on certain nights of the week at every mill village in the city instead of at the Y. M. C. A. as was done last winter.

All Buildings Being fumigated.

A force of hands was put to work yesterday at each of the public school buildings in the city with instructions to fumigate every building, to clean and overhaul all the desks and other furniture in the buildings and to have everything in apple pie order before the opening of the 1914 school session which will occur Monday morning.

A visit to the office of E. C. McCants, superintendent of the city schools, yesterday revealed the fact that crowded conditions are going to prevail in a few of the grades. This applies to the lower grades as there is but rarely any congestion in the advanced departments. Mr. McCants said that he might have some difficulty in handling the situation but he is confident of being able to manage it satisfactorily.

Forced to Stay in United States.

Anderson people are interested in a letter which people in this county have just received from Rev. W. E. Entzinger, a Baptist missionary to Brazil who has been spending his furlough in this country. Mr. Entzinger writes to friends in Anderson that he has been providentially hindered from returning to Brazil to resume his labors and that for the present he will remain at Chester, in this state, with Mrs. Entzinger and their daughter Ruth. Mr. Entzinger was in Anderson a few months ago and delivered a number of interesting and instructive addresses here on the great work being accomplished by the missionaries in the foreign fields.

Another Frost Is Being Bull.

Ligon & Ledbetter's office rooms in their building on Main street have been vacated and the offices of this establishment are temporarily located in another portion of the building. This change was made so that the force of carpenters and other workmen might at once begin on the rearrangement of that part of the building, fitting it up for the Western Union Telegraph company. The offices of the wholesale concern will be located in the new building which Ligon & Ledbetter are now constructing. It is said that both these offices will be models and will be among the prettiest in the city.

Sunset Forest To Hold Services.

Announcement was made yesterday that Dr. E. M. Poteat of Greenville, president of Furman University, will conduct an open-air service at "Sunset Forest" next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Fretwell has arranged for this service in order that the people in living in that immediate community and on the Fretwell place may have an opportunity of hearing this distinguished speaker. When Dr. Poteat preached at the First Baptist church in this city he was greeted by a very large congregation and it is presumed that there will be a large number out next Sunday to hear him.

New Laundry May be Built.

C. Rumbaugh of Atlanta, representing the Troy Laundry Machinery Co. of New York, was in Anderson yesterday figuring with E. R. Horton, who is planning to build an up-to-date laundry on one of his lots on Earle street. It is understood that Mr. Horton has practically decided to attempt the venture and has all his plans completed. He says that if he goes into the business, he will give Anderson the best equipped laundry and the most modern plant in the state above Columbia.

Mistake Made In The Opening Date.

A typographical error occurred yesterday in an article appearing in The Intelligencer relative to the opening of the Frazer Fitting school. The article stated that the school would open on Tuesday, September 17, when it should have read Tuesday, September 15. The Intelligencer takes pleasure in correcting the article and trusts that the mistake may cause no inconvenience.

Record Year For Anderson County.

It is said by those interested in things pertaining to agriculture in South Carolina and more especially in Anderson county, that the planters of this county believe that the advice to sow more oats and better oats for the coming year is good. Agricultural experts say that Anderson county is now planting more oats than any other county in the State and that as a consequence Anderson will experience more prosperity in the months to come than will any other section in South Carolina. That the farmers are making use of the advice furnished them by the experts will be welcome news to people all over the county.

Girls Are On For College Year.

Several of Anderson's young lady students left yesterday for Greenwood where they go to enter Lander College. This well known institution opened its sea on Thursday, September 10, but the young ladies of this city were delayed in leaving. Lander is one of the foremost colleges for women in the state and it enjoys a splendid reputation around Anderson.

An Anderson Man Once Held Position.

One vacancy to be created in a state office by the election of Andrew J. Bethea to the position of lieutenant governor is that of code commissioner. This position was formerly held by Judge John E. Breazale of Anderson and later by Mr. Bethea. The term of office is 10 years and the salary is $400 per annum. It is understood that a number of applicants for the position have already made their appearance.

West Orr Is In Fine Fix.

The work being done on West Orr street from the Central Presbyterian church down to the Blue Ridge station is making this one of the prettiest streets in the city. The street hands have widened the street about six feet and now the thoroughfare makes a good appearance. That the work was badly needed is demonstrated by the fact that traffic over this street has increased about 50 per cent since the work was started and additional numbers will use that route when the finishing touches are put on the work.

Increase in the Cotton Ginnings.

Up until September 1, 1913, there had been only four bales of cotton ginned in Anderson county, according to a statement made yesterday by L. A. Bolt, who has charge of the ginning record in this county for the United States government. Mr. Bolt reported yesterday that up until September 1 of this year there have been 34 bales of cotton ginned, which seems to indicate that the cotton crop was considerably earlier in Anderson county in 1914 than it was the previous year.

Members Urged To Take Notice.

S. A. Burns, president of the Anderson County Livestock Association, urges every member of the association to bear in mind that a meeting will be held on the morning of September 30 at 10 o'clock. The meeting is to take place in North Anderson and the matters to be attended to require that every member be present.

Asked to Leave.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 11, via London. —By invitation of the British military authorities, the German charge d'affaires and the Austrian diplomatic agent departed from Egypt today.

POORE GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

"I did not want an empty gun in my pocket."

Poore testified that he did not hear or at least did not understand anything that was said to him while he was shooting at Kelly. He asserted that the doctors pronounced him as half blind in one eye and deaf in his left ear.

When the evidence was all in for both the defense and the state, the arguments began. Col. Julius B. Boggs, for the state, was the first speaker. Col. Boggs was followed by Capt. H. H. Watkins, of the defense, and Gen. M. L. Bonham, of the defense, and Kurtz F. Smith, the solicitor, closed the case for the state at 5:50. All the attorneys delivered splendid arguments and the attention of every man in the court room was held until the arguments were completed.

Judge Memminger charged the jury as to the law, taking up about 20 minutes and then the indictment was handed to the foreman. The jury retired at 6:15 and at 7:30 they brought out a verdict to the effect that Claude Poore was guilty of manslaughter. This was the only case tried during the day.
