The Champion Boston Braves

HERE ARE THE CHAMPION BOSTON BRAVES. This is the crowd upon which George Stallings is depending to bring the next world's championship to Boston. Their leader has set them a gigantic task, for, between them and the world's pennant they seek there stands a sturdy nine generated by one Connie Mack. The first battle for the pennant, a battle that will overshadow the big game of Europe's war, for a day or two at least, will take place at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, the home grounds of the Athletics on Friday of this week. The game the following day will also be played in Philadelphia and the new week opened in Boston with a two day stand. The odds at the present moment are 5 to 4 in the Athletics favor. What others think of the Braves chances to grab the flag doesn't bother Stallings. He thinks they're going to win—and, no one in the baseball world would be greatly surprised if they do.

JUST RETURNING FROM WAR ZONE

Arthur McGere, Who Left Paris On August 30, Tells of What He Saw in the Old World.

An interesting visitor to Anderson recently was Arthur McGere of Atlanta, who has just returned from a trip abroad. He tells a number of interesting stories of what he saw while in Germany and France and describes in a very vivid manner the hardships which he was forced to undergo.

Mr. McGere says that he was in Paris when the war broke out and he made at once for Switzerland after finding that he could secure no passage into Paris. He caught a train which ordinarily makes the trip to Berne in nine hours, yet he was on the way over 36 hours on this trip and said that the discomforts were awful. He had forethought enough to provide himself with 18 hard-boiled eggs and a goodly supply of rolls before he started on the journey and he says that he would have suffered terribly from hunger had he not provided himself with the food. He narrates that coming home on a steamer conditions were as bad as they had been in the foreign countries. He could not secure a state room and was forced to sleep in a steamer chair on deck coming home and together with some several hundred other passengers, over 200 of whom were women, he spent each night on the open deck.

SOUTH IS AFTER FOREIGN TRADE

Anderson Will Probably Send One or More Delegates to Conference in Atlanta.

Anderson's manufacturers and business men are somewhat interested in a conference which is to be held October 13 and 14 in Atlanta, at which time plans will be discussed whereby the South may be able to get a portion of the foreign trade now opening up to this country. W. L. Brisson, as chairman of one of the Anderson chambers of commerce committees, has received a checkbook letter from the National Chamber of Commerce.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has called a conference on foreign trade to meet in the chamber of Commerce building in Atlanta, October thirteenth and fourteenth, and a number of Anderson business men and manufacturers with trade customs of South and Central America, and representatives of banks doing business there, together with railroad officials of the southeastern territory.

The meeting will be devoted to group meetings of manufacturers in particular lines who will discuss problems pertaining to their lines. The meeting will be a general meeting of all sections who will come together to deal with common problems of export trade. We earnestly ask your presence, and will ask you to do us the courtesy to send by return mail, in the enclosed stamped envelope, a list of the leading manufacturers of your neighborhood whom you can probably recall by name, by reason of their prominence, who are financially strong enough and so situated that they might be interested in foreign trade.

Kindly send the list by return mail so that we can notify each of these gentlemen personally, sending him an invitation.

Under any and all circumstances, death is a thing to be dreaded when it comes into a home and lays its cold and icy hand upon one who is so much beloved and so dear to the entire family and friends as was the case with Vernon Martin, the five years and six months old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cobb, who departed this life at 10 o'clock Friday, September 26, 1914. Little Vernon had been suffering for four years with spinal meningitis and had suffered from typhoid fever, it being known from the fact that he had been operated on for the same disease. The doctors have the consolation of knowing that with him it was well, with the little boy rests in the family cemetery by the side of his mother and grandmother, the little girl has taken to the back yard, and the little boy has been laid to rest in the same grave as Jesus was laid to rest in the Kingdom of Heaven.

Dear friends, in this your sad bereavement I look not with a despairing eye upon the future but put your trust in God, who death all things well and when the last trump shall sound you shall be gathered together around the bright and beautiful throne of our Heavenly Father, where you will be free from pain and anguish and where no more sad farewells shall be known. Dear friends now has left us a

DECISIVE BATTLE IS NOW ONLY A MATTER OF DAYS

Poland, his revenge by a crushing return, and a steady advance of the Russians through Galicia, there has been nothing from the East to stand out in the nature of a clearly defined conflict like the battle of the Aisne.

Today's Petrograd official statement deals entirely with the German stand on the East Prussian frontier, making no mention of the situation either in Galicia or Hungary. The much heralded battle of Gracov, which it seems all the correspondents anticipated, yet has to be recorded as a matter of history. From Budapest—not often heard from as a source of war news, came a dispatch saying that, though no battles in Hungary had been decided yet, the invaders were being repulsed.

It can be accepted as true, as not a Russian special dispatch reports a general shake-up in the German army command following the removal of General von Hindenburg from East Prussia to assume command at Gracov. He is succeeded in the field where he scored so brilliantly over the Russians by General Carl von Moltke.

The British press is still indulging in the pastime of guessing at the German emperor's whereabouts. The latest report is that he is at Cologne under the protection of the powerful fortress.

President Poincare's visit to the front is confirmed through a telegram he sent to King George saying he had visited Field Marshal French at British headquarters.

The long series of national denials this war has brought is a statement issued in behalf of the British government tonight denying the German contention that Great Britain has stored ammunition at Maubeuge prior to the outbreak of the war, thus indicating an intention to violate Belgian neutrality.

An official communication issued at Paris late tonight stated that a violent battle continued on the left wing, north of the Oise; that comparative quiet prevailed in the center, and that a little ground had been gained in the northern part of the heights of the Meuse.

Our hearts are deeply grieved that God has bereft us of its will all our sorrows heal. He has left this world of sorrow. Nevermore to walk alone in the dreary path of darkness. He was loved by all who knew him. Yes the idol of his home. God send him to rest and to help adorn his blessed throne. Would we call him back? No, never. For he shines to heaven above. Where he'll rest for ever. With the Father when we leave No, no, we loved little Vernon. We will miss him here.

For he has joined the Heavenly choir. And we ought not to shed a tear. Mrs. H. L. Cobb and Mrs. W. Barnett.

Hawkes of Townville, with his family will move to Anderson in a few weeks, and place his three youngest children in the Starr schools. Miss Emma May Smith, of DeWanda, is attending the school here this session. The School Improvement Association has reorganized at this place with the determination to do much in the future and especially the cooperation of the parents of the school. Miss Helen Hester has gone to Greenville where she will teach in the grammar school next term. The first church will have a special meeting next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock and at the altar of the church are urged to attend. BIG ADS FOR THE INTELLIGENCER.
