

The Latest Thing In Watches

We are just in receipt of a thin model, small Gentleman's Waltham watch, made in Antique style, which is just about the "niftiest" thing in swell timepieces that has hit the "Electric City" in many moons.

It's very neat and pretty in appearance; and is undoubtedly the smallest thin model Gentleman's watch ever offered at the price of $12.00

It's a serviceable, Guaranteed Waltham movement, in a Twenty Year guaranteed case, and the price is only twelve dollars.

We will be pleased to show it to you.

Seybt-Hill. The country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ulysses Eugene Seybt was the scene Monday evening of the wedding of their only daughter, Marie, and Thomas Foster Hill, an event of marked interest in Anderson society and throughout South Carolina, where the bride and groom both have numerous friends and relatives.

The wedding was a beautiful one, simple in detail and charmingly artistic throughout. White and green were the colors used in the decorations. The living room, library and hall where ceremony was performed were banked with foliage plants and exquisite white roses. At the front door Mr. and Mrs. William Muldrow and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ligon welcomed 'D' guests. In the living room Mrs. J. D. Hammett and Mrs. Earle Lewis received and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hill Watkins in the library.

Just before the ceremony a beautiful musical program was given by Mrs. William Muldrow, Mrs. Walker Warwin and Sam Orr Tribble. Then to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Walker Warwin, accompanied by Sam Orr Tribble, the bridal party entered. Miss Ruth Fretwell with William Marshall, and Miss Alberta Brock with Eugene Watson. The maids were gowned in white crepe meteor draped according to individual taste in chiffon or lace, giving a most graceful effect. Mr. William D. McLean, recent bride in Anderson, wore her exquisite wedding gown of white satin elaborately trimmed with lace and pearls.

Miss Lois Jackson, of Iva, was maid of honor and wore a lovely gown of white crepe meteor, fashioned with a square court train and an over-dress of lace. The bridesmaids, dame, and maid of honor carried armfuls of long, stemmed pink Killarney roses tied with pink tulle. The bridesmaid beauty found ideal setting in her exquisitely dainty bridal costume. The soft shimmering white satin of her gown was clouded with white chiffon, the model draperies of which were outlined with pearls. Duchess lace and medallion of duchess lace and further enriched the lovely gown. Her filmy wedding veil was arranged in becoming cap fashion and wore of the face with tiny bunches of lilies of the valley catching it to the hair and holding it in place on the long court train. Bride's roses showered with lilies of the valley and ferns formed the bridal bouquet.

The groom entered from the rear hall with his brother, Rufus Hill, of Greenville, who acted as best man. The bride with her father met them at the improvised altar. There Rev. J. W. Speake, of St. John's Methodist church, performed the ceremony. After the ceremony Mrs. F. E. Burris and Mrs. Ed. Vandiver invited the guests into the dining room. Here the bride's table stood in the center, lovely in its artistic simplicity. Fragrant pink roses with ferns furnished the centerpiece, and tall branching candelabras held the pink candles. On the table were comforts filled with white mints in the chosen color. Mrs. Clarence Brock and Mrs. Minnie Milford presided here and Misses Emma Clinckales, Mary and Sara Dixon, Ruth and Lois Anderson, served an elaborate salad course. Mrs. Jim Sullivan, Jr., and Mrs. Walter Beatty poured coffee. A dainty pink rose bud was pinned on each guest that entered the dining room. Miss Maude Holly and Miss Eric Lewis kept the bride's book.

The bride and groom left that evening for Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon, returning to Anderson in about two weeks to make their home. Mr. Hill being superintendent of the Anderson Street Railway Company. Among the out of town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. James P. Gossett, of Williamston; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Creigher, of Williamston; Mrs. A. C. Lattin, of Belton; Mr. and Mrs. Crosby, of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Jackson, W. C. Jackson, Jr., and Miss Lois Jackson, of Iva; Prof. and Mrs. Coleman Walker, of Spartanburg; Mrs. Zeigler Marshall, of Asheville; Rufus Hill, of Greenville.

Mrs. Mildred Bonham, Jr., of New Orleans, is a guest at the home of Gen. and Mrs. M. L. Bonham, on Greenville street.

Little Misses Frances and Ruth Martin, of Greenville, are visiting Miss Mabel Dillingham, on East Benson street.

Plans for Rose Hill. The ladies of Rose Hill Club are planning to have a regular weekly card party, followed by an informal dance every Tuesday at the club house.

The plans which they hope to carry out are for the ladies to continue their card afternoon as heretofore, then the men go out later and have a buffet supper and spend the remainder of the evening dancing.

Cards at Rose Hill. Tuesday afternoon a dozen of the Rose Hill Club members spent the afternoon in the club house around card tables. Card afternoon is delightfully informal and is centered among the most pleasant of Anderson's social calendar. At the conclusion of a number of interesting rubbers, sandwiches and tea were served on the card tables.

The players were: Mrs. Alice Sybec, Mrs. Ernest Cochran, Miss Christie DeCamp, Mrs. Harrington Godfrey, Mrs. G. B. Greene, Mrs. T. L. Cely, Mrs. James Baldwin, Mrs. Swain Gilmer, Mrs. Chas. Gambrell, Mrs. T. E. Howard, Mrs. Sam Orr and Miss Lydia Orr.

Geisberg-Cohen. The marriage of Miss Sadie Cohen and Mr. Harry Geisberg, of Anderson, S. C., was a brilliant event of Wednesday evening, solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Heard street. A large number of relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony, which took place at eight o'clock, a reception being held afterwards.

Miss Minnie Cohen was her sister's maid of honor; Mrs. Gershon Rubenstein, of Anderson, was matron of honor; Mr. Max Geisberg, of Anderson, S. C., was best man; the bridesmaids were Misses Mamie Cohen, of Madison, and Stella Wyce, of Eaton; the ushers were Messrs. Harry Cohen, of Madison, and Nathan Cohen, of Covington; Master Herbert Cohen, of Atlanta, was train-bearer.

The bride approached the altar with her father, Mr. Joseph Cohen, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Dr. Hirsch, of Athens, pronounced the impressive marriage service, the orchestra playing "Thou Sublime, Sweet Evening Star," during the ceremony. The bridal party were grouped in the living room about an altar banked in ferns and white chrysanthemums. An arch of ivy and chrysanthemums outlined in hundreds of tiny lights. The orchestra was stationed in the adjoining room in an alcove of palms and chrysanthemums. Decorations throughout the reception floor were in green and white.

The bride was beautiful in an exquisite gown of white satin and duchess lace. The long court train of white satin moire fell from the shoulders and was caught with sprays of lily-of-the-valley. Her veil of tulle was worn cap-fashion and wreathed with the same flowers. She carried a shower bouquet of valley lilies. The maid of honor wore a charming gown of pink satin and chiffon with pink slippers and her shower bouquet was of pink roses. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore pink satin and chiffon with pink slippers and her shower bouquet was of pink roses. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore pink satin and chiffon with pink slippers and her shower bouquet was of pink roses.

Mrs. Cohen, the bride's mother, was gowned in black brocaded chiffon over white satin. Mrs. O. Geisberg, of Anderson, the groom's mother, wore black satin and silver lace. After the ceremony an elaborate salad course, cream and cake were served. Misses Martha Jones and Florence Silverman served punch on the veranda from a bowl banked in ferns and white chrysanthemums. Misses Marion Reeves and Mildred Payne presented the guests with wedding cake in souvenir boxes of white moire. The bride's book in which the guests registered, was kept by Mrs. Wilbur Webb. Many handsome gifts were exhibited on the second floor. The orchestra played appropriate selections, toasts were offered and telegrams to the bridal pair were read.

The bride's beauty and charm of character have centered on her the sincere admiration of many friends and she has been most popular socially. The groom is one of the leading young business men of South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Geisberg left on the midnight train for Asheville. The bride's traveling costume was in brown, of tete de nigro broadcloth with accessories to match. After their wedding trip they will keep house in Anderson, S. C.

The following from Anderson were among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding: Mrs. O. Geisberg, Mrs. Gershon, Rubenstein, Misses Dora and Marie Geisberg, Mr. Yeo Geisberg, Mr. Max Geisberg, Messrs. Phil. Wilhite, Ernest Johnson, A. J. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Harlelou Barton.

Frew-Marshall. The following taken from the Rock Hill Herald will be read with the greatest interest by the many friends of James Marshall, who has always made his home in Anderson until the past few years:

"The crowning event of the series of delightful social affairs attendant thereupon was the wedding last evening of Miss Lucile Frew, of this city, and James B. Marshall, Jr., of Charlotte. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock, in the presence of a limited number of close friends and relatives of the two families, but immediately following a number of the city's society folk called to express in person congratulations and good wishes for the popular young couple."

The residence of the bride's father, Chas. W. Frew, was lovely in its arrangement, the spacious rooms and hallway being on suite and most artistically adorned. The doorways, picture-molding and stairway were festooned with graceful southern emblems and against this as a background soft ferns and flowers mingled their beauty and fragrance. In the east parlor where the ceremony was performed, a color harmony of white and green was carried out in ferns, white dahlias and cosmos in handsome brass jardiniere. Immediately over the bridal couple was suspended a shower of the cosmos tied with narrow white satin ribbons. To the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohegrin, played by Miss Evelyn Frew, the bridal party entered. The maids descended the white carpeted stairway and were met by the groomsmen as follows: Miss Leah Marshall, of Anderson, and Lathan Roddey; Miss Georgia Marshall, of Anderson, and Thad Horton, of Greenville; Miss Emma London and Thos. Cartwright, of Anderson; Miss Margaret Frew and R. B. Watriss; Miss Catherine Frew, the bride's sister, as maid of honor, entered alone in front of the bride who was attended by her father, and was joined by the groom with his brother and best man, W. F. Marshall, of Anderson. The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. F. W. Gregg, of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride was a lovely figure in a gown of lustrous white satin charmeuse, the bodice being adorned with Brussels lace and the graceful maline tunic being outlined with seed pearls. The veil, in cap effect, was caught with valley lilies, the exquisite shower bouquet of bride roses, lilies and ferns completing the charming effect. The maid of honor was charming indeed in a gown of pink crepe meteor with tulle drapery of satin-edged maline and rhinestone trimming. Her bouquet was of pink Killarney roses, tied with white maline. The bridesmaids were beautifully gowned in costumes of white satin net, or lace, and each carried an armful of pink bridesmaid roses, with maline bows.

At the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. London and Miss Mary Frow, the visitors were shown into the dining room, where an elegant buffet supper was served by Misses Polly Parker, Margaret and Catherine McElwee, Elizabeth Pressley and Isabel Boyd, dainty souvenirs of lilies of the valley being pinned on. This room was lovely in its arrangement. The round table was laid with pliny mats over pink and had for centerpiece a cut glass vase of magnificent Killarney roses, while encircling it were single rose bouquets, filled with heart-shaped mints. Rows of lighted candles on marble and buffet, and vases of pink dahlias and roses enhanced the effect. In the coffee-room, decorated with black-croft susans, tea and coffee were poured at a dainty appointed table by Mrs. S. T. Frew and Miss Nell Foid and served by Misses Emma Kerr, of Laurester, and Martha Marshall, of Yorkville.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall boarded the 9 o'clock train for a bridal trip north after which they will go at once to housekeeping in Dilworth, Charlotte, where the groom is in business as a civil engineer, and where during a short residence he has made a number of warm friends who will cordially welcome him and his winsome bride. The bride's traveling costume was a coat suit of dark green chiffon broadcloth, with modish long redingote edged with black fur, and hat of black velvet with green plumes.

Club Party. Mrs. T. L. Cely entertained the members of the Calhoun Street Club most pleasantly Saturday afternoon at her home on Calhoun street. Auction was enjoyed for an hour after which the tables were cleared and a tempting salad course served the guests who were Miss Ella Mae Cummings, Mrs. Keith Prevost, Miss Bertha Cashin, Miss Martha Bonham, Mrs. W. D. McLean, Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. G. B. Greene.

Miss Brown Entertains. Miss Jessie Brown was hostess at a delightful little party Saturday afternoon at her home on West Market street when she entertained in honor of Miss Caroline Vance, who is her house guest and will leave Monday to make her home in Columbia.

Two tables were placed in the living room where the guests played auction. A tempting salad course was served the following guests: Misses Vance, Anna Ross Cunningham, Vina Patrick, Anita Cooley, Janie Hamlin, Weeza Gilmer, Kathleen Norryce and Mrs. Jesse Stribling.

Mrs. Nardin Webb entertained most informally but delightfully Friday afternoon at her home on West Whitner street, after a number of interesting rubbers of auction the hostess served tempting refreshments.

Mrs. A. S. Johnson. Mrs. Albert Sidney Johnson was hostess to a few friends Thursday afternoon at her home on River street, when she entertained with cards. Late in the afternoon the tables were cleared and delicious refreshments were served.

Shower for Miss Giles. Mrs. D. O. Evans was hostess at one of the most delightful parties of the season Thursday afternoon when she entertained in honor of Miss Sara Giles whose marriage will be one of the fall events in Anderson society. The house was elaborately decorated with ferns and cut flowers and after all the guests had arrived dainty little Miss Elizabeth Muldrow, dressed as a bride, entered the living room and showered the bride with gifts from her friends present. A delicious salad course was served. Mrs. Janie Todd leaves tomorrow for Knoxville, Tenn., to spend the winter with her son, Harris Todd. Mr. Todd arrived in the city Friday and his mother will accompany him home.

Miss Leah Horton, of Thomasville, Ga., is the attractive guest of Mrs. Louis Horton, on Woodrow circle.

Mrs. Keith Prevost and little son have returned from a week's stay in Atlanta, where they have been the guests of relatives.

Miss Ida Allen, of Lowndesville, is the guest of Mrs. Watson, on South McDuffie street.

Miss Genevieve Singleton, who was the attractive guest of Miss Lois Reece for a week, has returned to her home in Greenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kimsey have returned from their wedding trip.

Farewell Party. Miss Caroline Vance Banks was the guest of honor at a lovely little tea party Wednesday evening when Miss Mabel Dillingham entertained for her at her home on East Benson street.

Book was enjoyed the first part of the evening, then the guests were invited into the dining room, where a beautifully appointed table awaited them. The central decoration was a tall vase filled with hellebore and around this, lying on the table, was an abundance of the same flower. From the center of the table the place reserved for Miss Banks and as Miss Dillingham gave a clever quotation the honoree pulled the ribbons and found hidden under the hellebore, from each of her girl friends, a little package containing a farewell present. Miss Banks left yesterday for Greenville, where she will spend a few days before going to Columbia, where she will make her home.

Covers were laid for fifteen and a delicious two course tea served. The guests were Misses Caroline Banks, Laurie Smelters, Evelyn Browne, Anne Gambrell, Virginia Gilmer, Clarice Townsend, Carol Cox, Marjorie Guest, Marion Gray, Hazel Murphy, Sara Murphy, Frank and Ruth Martin, of Greenville, and the hostess.

After tea the guests, chaperoned by the hostess' mother, Mrs. Dillingham, and aunt, Mrs. Bob King, spent the rest of the evening at the picture show.

Allen-Turner. The marriage of Miss Meta Allen to William Brian Turner, of Ellenton, was solemnized Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Baptist church. The ceremony which was performed by the Dr. John F. Vines was witnessed by a number of friends and relatives of the two families.

The church had been artistically decorated with palms and ferns. Bowls of golden rod lent a pretty color note to the green background. The bridal party entered to the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohegrin, played by Mrs. O. L. Martin. The bride, entering with her brother, Ernest Allen, of Lowndesville, wore a beautiful going away suit of purple cloth with dainty white lace blouse. Her black velvet hat completed the bridal costume. White fasters and ferns in showered effect formed her bouquet. She was met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Capt. M. Murray, of Aiken.

The ushers were Wade Watson, Fritz Watson, Earl Watson and Theron Allen. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Turner left for their wedding trip. They will return on November 1 to make their home at Ellenton, South Carolina.

For Mrs. Frierson. A pretty compliment to Mrs. Edward Frierson, one of Belton's October brides, was the party given Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Frierson is pretty known in Anderson society as Miss Helen Woodside, of Greenville, and has often been a popular visiting girl here.

Miss Frierson used ferns and cut flowers to decorate the rooms where her guests were entertained. Miss Anna Ross Cunningham, Mrs. Will Tolly and Miss Chester Plant assisted in entertaining an deserving guest an elaborate salad course followed with coffee and fruit cake.

The guests invited to spend the afternoon with Mrs. Frierson were Misses Jessie Brown, Anna Foss Cunningham, Ella Mae Cummings, Loretha Cummings; Jean Harris, Angie Cooley, Annie Chapman, Louise Humphreys, Emmie Cathcart, Martha Conham, Julia Guyton, Mrs. George Townsend, Mrs. Frank Farmer, Mrs. Jim Farmer, Mrs. W. H. Fraser, Mrs. Chester Plant, Mrs. William Muldrow, Mrs. Annie Weston.

Ladies' Day. Friday was "Ladies' Day" at the Ella Club and two tables were placed in the reading room for the card players who were Mrs. T. L. Cely, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. W. D. McLean, Mrs. Albert Farmer, Misses Bertha Cashin, Martha Bonham, Weeza Gilmer, Jessie Brown and Caroline Vance.

For Mrs. Banks. Mrs. William Banks, who left yesterday for Greenville to spend a few days before going to Columbia to make her home was given a lovely little party Friday morning when Mrs. Gus King invited a dozen ladies to spend the morning and say good-bye to the honoree. Each of the guests were given a correspondence card and requested to
