The Sentinel is not responsible for the views of its correspondents.

Germany advises America to tell her troubles to The Hague. But there ain't no Hague!

The busiest thing in this neck of the woods is the phone line between Pickens and Easley. "Busy!"

"There ain't no sitch animal" in Pickens as a mosquito, and this is not an advertisement for a summer resort, either.

"Advisory board to help unemployment over United States"—headline. There's enough of it already, and needs no help.

"American packers protest"—headline. And the ultimate consumer has been protesting to these many moons, and is still at it.

When a farmer can get $4.05 a barrel for potatoes, as many of them are doing these days, what's the use to worry over the price of cotton?

Press dispatches say the American steamship Llana, oil laden for Sweden, has been captured. Wonder if that was Mr. Bryan's ill-fated llama, loaded with olive oil?

Everything and everybody are getting aboard the water wagon. Even the banquet of the North Carolina Bar association, held in Asheville last week, was a dry affair.

There is a good-sized town up in Tarehbia that last year boasted of being a "flyless town," and this summer there is an epidemic of typhoid fever there. What's the answer?

The Easley Progress says that the thermometer registered 100 in the shade in Easley recently. That was pretty hot; but, then, you don't have to stay in the shade unless you want to.

'Tis said that most of those South Carolina towns which have had their chautauquas resemble a western country town next day after the circus had been there—sort of an all-gone feeling.

Greenville Piedmont wants to know "how come" we never had a series of jokes on the Ingersoll watch? The jokesmiths just nachully wore themselves out on the ancient Waterbury watch!

Fellow in Spartanburg wished to buy some striped paint.—Columbia Record. Must have been the same guy who wanted The Sentinel to print his horse jills in sorrel ink, because that was the color of his horse!

A Dutch farmer in Catawba county, N. C., has discovered a new use for the ream separator. He tells in the Charlotte Observer that apple cider, after it becomes ten days old, can be made into a good quality of apple brandy with a few turns of the separator. It may be "moonshine" tale, but it beats blind iger likker a mile.

William E. Corey, former president of the steel corporation, just home from Europe, says the war will last at least three years longer. He is a rank Republican in politics, but he says of President Wilson: "It is masterly the way he president has kept us out of the war. He will eventually be called one of our ablest and greatest presidents."

Many people who read newspapers have an idea that the editor prints only what pleases him. That is as far from the fact as could be imagined, for he did that his paper would not amount to much with the majority of readers. A real newspaper does as the Yorkville Enquirer thinks a paper should be conducted, viz: "When it comes to things of general public interest we try to print the news as correctly as we can, whether it is pleasing to us or not." The Sentinel prints lots of things that it don't want, but it is news to the public and we believe its readers should have it whether it suits us or not.

OUR WEEKLY RIDDLE.—Why does a culprit die a most horrible death? Because he makes faces and busts.

Riddle for Next Week.—When is a man obliged to keep his word?

They are agitating "moonlight" schools in North Carolina, which is a good substitute for the moonshine stills formerly in vogue there.

England still insists on enforcing the commerce blockade in spite of America's protest, and says she will enforce its orders-in-council. Suppose the United States get up a set of orders-in-council and refuse to allow shipments of anything to the Allies? It is thought this sort of retaliation would bring Mr. J. Bull from his high horse, as it would be impossible for the Allies to continue the war without our munition factories, wheat, corn and other necessities. It is worth a trial, at least.

Mr. Bryan is said to have switched from grape juice to loganberry juice. Will some of the country brethren graciously inform us what heck's name is loganberry juice?—Columbia State. To be sure, Colonel Bob, we will enlighten you. We are always glad to be of service to our fellow-farmers. A loganberry is a cross between a strawberry and a blackberry, from which the juice referred to is made. It derives the name from the discoverer, a Mr. Logan. But we are surprised that a farmer of the Colonel's vast experience in raising okra should not know all about where the juices came from that go into all kinds of drinks. Loganberry juice is non-intoxicating, however.

LETTERS FROM the PEOPLE

For Better Roads

Editor Pickens Sentinel: Why should not the people of the upper part of Pickens county be given an equal opportunity to get to the county seat with other parts of the county? A modern wagon road from the North Carolina line would make Pickens the most accessible point in this corner of the state instead of Greenville, Walhalla or Rosman, N. C., where the roads are better.

Now, let's get together and good things will come our way. Build up that 10-mile road grade from Price's store through the gap to the North Carolina line. These good citizens above want this road. Let's help one another. It is up to the people interested to put it up to the superior. That road could be built this winter. Pickens County. BELIEVER.

Pickens Man Weds in Kansas

Olenoy, August 7.—The following taken from the Clearwater Courant, Clearwater, Kansas, will be of interest to many, both personal and business friends, in Pickens county, the native home of Dr. J. Q. Edens. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Edens of this place and one of which Olenoy may justly be proud to own as a former citizen.

For a number of years he was engaged in the mercantile business, being the senior member of the firm of Edens & Edens. It was here that his genial, jovial, gentle manner, combined with his strict honesty and unswerving courtesy to all won for him the lasting friendship of the young and the old, the rich and the poor alike.

Ten years ago he left here for Philadelphia, where he entered the Philadelphia Dental college. He graduated from that institution three years later. Owing to his splendid record there the college offered him work there. But his mind was on the West. Locating there he has since followed his profession with much success.

In this hour of happiness many good wishes go out to him and his.

The following is taken from the Clearwater (Kans.) Courant, June 3:

"The first June wedding in the parlor of the bride, west of town Tuesday evening, occurred the marriage of two of Clearwater's most prominent young people, Miss Bertha Thaden to Dr. J. Q. Edens, at 5 o'clock. Miss Germaine Lecdon played the wedding march as the couple took their place to hear the words spoken by Rev. Posy, formerly of the Presbyterian church here, which united them for life. After the wedding ceremony supper was served to 54 wedding guests—this number besides the children. Only immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present.

"In the evening something in the neighborhood of 50 autos loaded with friends, both old and young, swooped down upon them to wish them well and partake of the bountiful charivari refreshments, which consisted of ice cream and two or three pieces of cake, one of these being a sample of the immense wedding cake.

"It is useless to comment upon the standing these young people have in the community. They have friends in abundance. The doctor is our industrious and enterprising dentist who not only does the work for our own people, but for many people of the towns around, including Wichita.

"Miss Thaden has spent most of her life here and is quite popular among the young people of the community.

"A fine array of both useful and beautiful gifts were received, among which was a check for $500.

"At present they are living at the home of her parents, but will be at home to their friends in the property now occupied by the Gramams, in a week.

Consider these facts:

This newspaper is not a link in an advertising campaign. It is a complete method of campaign in itself.

It reaches a definite circle of consumers, regularly and consistently.

It goes into home, office, store, factory, and it influences individual sales.

It is the common sense means of speeding up business. Sensible buyers watch for the ads. Sensible merchants advertise.

from the Progress. Messrs. W. D. Sitton & Bro., liverymen, are building a one-story brick livery stable on their lot on North Table Rock street, near the old city hall.

Barney, the 4-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Holtzclaw, died at their home at Glenwood on the 2d instant, after a short illness from pneumonia. The remains were buried in West View cemetery the day following. The parents have the sympathy of their many friends.

A party consisting of Mr. Loyd Smith and sister, Miss Gladys Smith, and Miss Heryl Martin of this city, Miss Ruth Watkins of Anderson and Mr. Hagood Bruce of Pickens, went to Chick Springs Saturday afternoon, and from there to Hendersonville, N. C., Sunday morning in Mr. Smith's car, returning to Easley Monday morning. On their return from Hendersonville to Greenville Sunday afternoon they passed through six different showers of rain.

Mr. S. J. Crawford of the Easley mill village had quite an adventure last Sunday morning while going over the mountains on the Sassafras gap road. He and his wife and children got out of the buggy to walk up the mountain. He was leading the horse, when for some cause the horse suddenly stopped and pulled back, falling with the buggy over the precipice. The horse rolled several hundred feet down the side of the mountain and was killed. The buggy lodged in a tree.

Resolutions of Respect

Whereas, On the 1st of August God called home our beloved sister, Miss Jeanette Singleton. Our hearts are grieved. She was loyal to her church and society, a kind friend, gentle in manner; therefore, be it Resolved, 1. That we bow submissively to our heavenly Father, recognizing the hand of God in this sad dispensation of His providence.

2. That we bow in humble submission and love to the will of our Father, knowing that in His divine providence He cannot err and deals with all His children in love.

3. That we extend the sorrowing family our sympathy, commending them to One who loves them.

4. That these resolutions be placed upon our minutes, a copy sent to the family and one each to The Pickens Sentinel and Baptist Courier for publication.

"Stop off here some day and I'll fry you a chicken," is what a pretty Kentucky lass writes Luke McLake of the Cincinnati Enquirer.
