DRINK SIX GLASSES OF WATER DAILY

An Interesting Statement by One of the Big Men in the Drug Business

A. E. KIESLING
of Houston, Texas, says:
"If you have a muddy complexion and dull eyes, you are constipated. Six glasses of water daily and one or two Rexall Orderlies at night will correct this condition and make you fit as a fiddle." Rexall Orderlies, in my opinion, are the best laxative to be had, and can be taken by men, women or children."

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.
To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

John A. Horton's Views on Labor Organization and Rural Mail Delivery

John A. Horton of Belton, candidate for congress from this district, has given out the following letter discussing important questions:
I am strongly in favor of labor unions. It is the God-given right of every man, and his right as a citizen of this great country, to organize and unite with his fellow-men for the purpose of improving his conditions in general. No man will dispute this as a general proposition. It is as natural for men to organize for the general uplift of all and for the bettering of conditions and surroundings as it is for water to run down hill.

Let's look around, at our very doors, and see what we find along this line. The cotton mills, doctors, dentists, lawyers, merchants, bankers and hundreds of other trades and professions have their organizations. Then why is it wrong for the mill operatives to organize? Why is he alone singled out as the one class of our citizens "who shall not organize" for the betterment of his conditions? It seems to me very short-sighted policy of some of our mill presidents to pursue the policy some have the past months. Would it not be better for them to say to their help, "Yes, go ahead and organize, try and select the best men from your ranks for officers and committeemen to represent you, and when you have any grievance or complaint to make, we will meet you half way. We will talk the matter over, hear your side of the case and then present our's, and as reasonable men we can get together and adjust the matter." This seems to me to be the right course to pursue and when anything is founded upon right you stand upon very high ground. It is a shameful state of affairs when white men, living in a free country—"The land of the free and the home of the brave"—are actually afraid to mention a word, above a whisper, in favor of labor unions for fear of being immediately turned off and thrown out of employment. I do not vouch for the truthfulness of the following, but it is generally talked that if a man takes any part in the getting up of a union, or even speaks favorably of them, his job is gone. And it is a very difficult matter to get another position with any of the mills in this section. If this be true it is the rankest sort of oppression and should not be tolerated. I hope it is not true, for it is so unreasonable on its very face it is hard to believe business men would act so foolishly. Any person who would transmit, by phone or letter, the name of any man who had been discharged for the reason he was in sympathy with labor unions ought to be liable criminally and any mill which countenances any such act should be liable for damages. It is an outrage that free white men should be hounded from pillar to post in any such manner when he is only exercising his right as a citizen of this great country—the freedom of which we boast so much.

I say to the mill operatives to organize. The longer you put it off just so long are you standing in your own light. The masses of our people, both town and country, are at our back. If our mills continue the course in which they have started they will soon find themselves in the very unenviable position the railroads deliberately placed themselves by the way and manner they treated the public a few years ago. They soon discovered the short-sightedness of their policy and set about putting their house in order. But it took a long time and they had to reap their bitter reward. I have heard that some of the mills of the Piedmont section of our state have about decided it is the wrong policy to fight the organization of their help and to accept the situation and meet it as men should. This would seem to be the only rational course for them to pursue. It is not much trouble to get along with men who actually work for a living when you treat them like human beings. The majority of the help in many of the mills in this section when shown that conditions do not warrant any advance in wages would accept the situation gracefully. All they would want, and they have a perfect right to be shown, that conditions were truthfully represented as to profits. When times are hard and no profits can be made at the present wage—whatever that might be—the help, when shown actual facts, would be willing, as reasonable men, to share in the depression. Then, when conditions is improved and the margin of profits increased, it is nothing but right that labor should share in the increase.

I have noticed in the papers of late that several of the New England mills have granted increases in wages, giving as the reason profits were better. This was done without a "strike" on the part of the operatives, too. This shows what can be done when people pursue a live-and-let-live policy.

As to the postoffice department's action in disturbing the rural free delivery service by trying to combine two routes in one and have the service rendered in automobiles, it seems to be meeting with much opposition wherever it has been tried out. It seems to me to be a very serious mistake on the part of the postoffice officials. It means for one of the old routes to be served a good portion of the year by a sub-carrier, and that means inefficient service. The rural free delivery is the greatest thing the national government has ever given the masses of our people and for the government to badly cripple the service under the false notion of trying to economize is simply deplorable. It is to be hoped that enough congressmen and senators will make such a vigorous protest that it will be discontinued and the routes that have been changed put back as before and each carrier given his same place.
Sam Nicholls is doing his best to stop any contemplated changes in his district. Let us hope he may be successful.
The postoffice department is about the only branch of the government that is in any way near self-sustaining. Then why do anything that will in any way hamper the service to the country people?
JOHN A. HORTON.
Belton.
