

STORAGE WILL SAVE SWEET POTATOES

Proper Storage Houses Should be Built to Care for the Crop.—Important Product Has Been Poorly Handled and Big Waste Results—Can Be Avoided.

Columbia.—The proper storage of sweet potatoes is one of the most important food conservation measures that can be put into effect in South Carolina, and is urged by the Food Administration. No perishable product grown in this State is more important than the sweet potato, and none, as a rule, is so poorly handled, according to United States Department of Agriculture experts. To keep this crop in good condition the potatoes must be well matured before digging, carefully handled, well dried, or cured, after being put in the storage house, and kept at uniform temperature after they are cured. The only safe and practical method of storing sweet potatoes is in a well built storage house.

Suggestions on storing sweet potatoes, and detailed information on how to construct a suitable storage house, are contained in Farmers' Bulletin 970, recently published by the United States Department of Agriculture, and a copy of this bulletin may be had by any interested person who will write the Department at Washington and make request for it.

Proper storage of sweet potatoes after they have been grown is equally as important as making the potatoes. It is good economy to build a substantial place for keeping the product, for then the chances of loss are greatly reduced, and a storage house will soon pay for itself. There is no food to be wasted these days, and no one should take any chances of loss which can be avoided, says the Food Administration.

LOSSES MONEY WON'T REPLACE

Potential Value of Live Stock Killed on Railroad Rights of Way in South Carolina Upwards of $100,000 a Year But Loss is in Meat and Leather Needed by the Army—Protect Live Stock.

Columbia.—Losses of live stock, killed on railroad rights of way, in South Carolina, are upwards of $50,000 a year. The loss cannot, however, be measured in terms of money. As Charles Barham, of the Food Administration, traffic and transportation department, has expressed it, "Money is the cheapest thing in America today." The loss is in meat and leather, so sorely needed by the government for the nation's fighting men. Since the greatest proportion of the losses are in "scrub" stock—stock which could and otherwise would be fattened and prepared for the slaughter house—the potential loss, in meat, leather and fats, is probably more than $100,000 a year in South Carolina alone. This is, furthermore, a loss which can be avoided.

The State Council of Defense has realized the seriousness of these losses at a time when meat, leather and fats are too precious to be wasted; and following a conference held this week with Mr. Barham and several railroad officials, is making a personal appeal to the owners of live stock throughout the state, asking them, in the public interest and as a patriotic duty, to keep their stock up. Live stock owners are being asked to sign pledges to safeguard their stock against being killed or maimed by passing trains. There is only one way—that is to keep the stock up so they cannot wander near the railroad. Money cannot replace hogs and cattle killed in this way.

In communities where there is no stock law in force, citizens are urged by the Council of Defense and the Food Administration to protect their own interests and the national interest by taking immediate steps looking toward the adoption of such laws.

TREAT YOUR SEED WHEAT BEFORE PLANTING

Probably the worst evil farmers who plant wheat have to contend with is smut. Thousands of bushels of grain are lost annually as a result of smut. Smut is a disease of wheat, and can be prevented absolutely. The method is to treat the seed before planting. Use blue-stone or formaldehyde. Make good wheat and help win the war by treating your seed wheat. Let Uncle Sam know you will do your part in making a real "Liberty Harvest." Treat your wheat.

Hit Old "Bill" and His Misfit Son With a Cross Tie

To safely carry your sons and brothers, who are your country's soldiers, to and from the camps for training and to ports for embarkation cross ties must be had in abundance and in safe and sound condition, and you can help to fight the Kaiser by producing them.

Cross ties are the foundation of your railroads and are needed for the safe transportation of your mothers, your daughters, your sisters and your wives who attend the needs of the boys as the Red Cross nurses, as Young Women's Christian Association workers, or for other duties in their many missions of mercy to cheer and take care of the sick and wounded.

Cross ties are needed to make sure the safe and prompt movement over the thousands of miles of railroads of the grain and other products your sons and brothers and our allies in Europe must have for use and their sustenance during the conduct of the "war for democracy."

Without cross ties the safe and sure transportation of the country's coal, iron ore, steel manufactures and other products and materials necessary for the output of munitions and materials needed by your troops cannot be supplied to fight the Kaiser, and without your help the cross ties needed cannot be had.

Cross ties are needed for the maintenance of civil population of our country who are working for the troops who are fighting the Kaiser.

Without the slightest doubt you can be assured that every cross tie you cut will be used to hold together a piece of railroad track over which will ride some of our troops who will fight the Kaiser.
