CATEECHEE LETTER.

A marriage that was quite a surprise to the many friends of the contracting parties was solemnized at the residence of the officiating officer, J. Alonzo Brown, N. P., on last Sunday, the 15th inst., about 2:00 p. m., when Mr. Robb Henry Maw led to the hymeneal altar Miss Maggie Powell and after a very impressive and lengthy ceremony, were pronounced man and wife. The groom is a son of the late Sam Maw and is a prominent young farmer of Central, while the bride is the beautiful and charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Powell, of Liberty, and numbers her friends by the score.

This happy young couple has said by their marriage that they believe the happiness of the matrimonial bliss is rather to be chosen than the sorrows of the celibacy and we venture the assertion they will not be fooled.

God said when he made Adam that it was not good for man to live alone and we believe every word he said. That is why the old matrimonial miller hangs so close around the "hopper" of the little mill seven days and nights to the week in order to be of any assistance he can to those who believe in the divine injunction.

So bring on your "turn" either day or night and you will always find the old miller on duty.

WHAT'S IN YOUR LIQUOR?

"The Town Rouser" says in the Anderson Mail that mystery surrounded the death of one of his friends. When he went to the home of the deceased to attend the funeral services, he looked around and found an uncorked bottle from which the dead man had been drinking. He slipped it in his pocket and took it to a chemist to find out what ingredients were in the beverage which was said to have been made in Abbeville county. The chemist finally gave him back a slip on which was written, "Blockade—analysis incomplete, but found it contained:

- Red Devil lye,
- Tobacco sauce,
- Railroad spikes,
- Dynamite,
- Cylinder oil,
- Permanganate of Potash,
- Hair tonic,
- Gunpowder,
- Rat-mum,
- Lemon extract,
- Essence of nails and tack hammers.
- Heroin,
- Gold dust,
- Chloroform,
- Bichloride of mercury,
- Pokeberries,
- Real whiskey,
- Shellac,
- Carbolic acid,
- Soap-suds,
- Paragoric,
- Wood alcohol,
- Cane syrup,
- Cyanide of potassium.

If you still take your "little dram," have you any assurance that what you will drink next does not contain similar poisons? Just a little wood alcohol in a pint or a quart will blind you for life. It doesn't take much poison to put you in the coffin. John Barleycorn is sending a lot of business to the undertakers these days. Every day throughout the country men are dying from poisoned liquor which looked like "good stuff."

It may be your turn next.—The Piedmont.

WHITE MAN HEAP BIG FOOL.

Any one who contemplates advertising should figure on the cumulative result obtained by constant use of space, for the one time advertisement is never a safe barometer as to whether advertising will or will not pay. The great success built up from advertising have almost invariably been built up by constant and consistent use of space.

The man who judges the pulling power of advertising from the insertion of one or two advertisements is like the Indian who heard about the merits of a feather bed. He put two or three feathers on the ground and slept on them. In the morning, when he got up, he remarked, "White man heap big fool. He says feathers soft to sleep on!"—Massengale Advertising Agency.

IT WORKS FOR COLUMBIA.

From The State.

Presumably every citizen of Columbia who thinks of the city's interest is convinced that it must have a chamber of commerce. A city without a central commercial organization would, in this age, be looked upon as an antique. If Columbia's Chamber of Commerce is to be an effective agency in the development of the community it must have the general and hearty support of business men and members of the professions.

Columbia is a city of 50,000 people. Its chamber of commerce should have a membership of at least 1,000. In fact, that is a moderate number to make the goal.

Of all civic organizations, that one to which is entrusted the promotion of commercial growth should be least hampered by the scarcity of money to carry on its proper office. The Columbia chamber has never spent a dollar that it could reasonably avoid spending. It has never had money enough to work with except by observing a rigid policy of economy.

The Chamber of Commerce will be in character and purpose what the community wishes it to be. It will be regarded by outsiders as the representative body of the city's business men. If any there be who criticize the chamber's policies they cannot correct them by remaining aloof from its activities. The voice of the chamber will be accepted as speaking for commercial Columbia. Hence, the plain dictate of common sense is that all business men unite with the body, share actively in its exertions and make it in highest degree a true and accurate reflection of the city's business aspirations.

A chamber of commerce in Columbia having less than 500 or 400 supporting members, struggling to perform its functions while one-half of the community gives it the cold shoulder, would be of small value. Whatever its shortcomings, the fault cannot lie with those who are members, who pay their dues and attend the meetings.

No man who stands afar off to say what ought to be done and what ought not to be done, contributes anything to the performance of the duties in which every Columbian should have a healthy pride.

THE PICKENS-PUMPKINTOWN ROAD AGAIN.

Ooleney, May 15.—(Special)—We are in the mud again. This is not a new story. We have told it before. We have told it to our lawmakers. We have told it to our road builders, supervisor and every one else who has given us the slightest impression that they have any desire, wish or inclination to see us in better shape on the road question. We have had the good wishes of all. But what we would appreciate more is material help which, united with our individual efforts, would accomplish the desired effect.

No section of the county realizes more forcibly the strenuous "hard times" of the past months. Why should not provisions have been made for the completion of this road the same as for the Central-Calhoun road? We do not like to complain. The people have never been an aggressive people. They have accepted what has been meagerly handed to them in the way of road improvements. This has amounted to a little more than the worst mud holes being filled with pine brush or rocks. But the situation is worse than it has ever been. The road in places was left unevenly graded with the slanting side toward deep ravines. Travel over these places is less desirable than through the fills, where you "stick" until you are pulled out.

It is almost impossible to get a doctor to venture out after a shower; the mail man has quit using his car; the rural policemen have abandoned the section entirely. What is going to be done about it?

MRS. H. C. SHIRLEY DEAD.

Died at her home near Liberty on the 15th inst., Mrs. Mary Brook Shirley, the beloved wife of Mr. H. C. Shirley. Mrs. Shirley had passed her fifty-ninth year. Thirty-seven years ago she was married to Mr. H. C. Shirley at her home in Central, S. C. By this union two sons were born and are now young men, John and H. C., Jr. Mr. John Brock and Mr. Joseph Brock, of Central are her loving brothers. Mrs. Shirley was a most excellent woman and will be missed in the community. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. W. Hott at the home, and interment took place in the Liberty cemetery.

Loving friends and skillful physicians did all they could but to no avail. It was a sad sight to see the wife and mother carried out of the home, leaving husband and sons to their lonely lot. May God in His goodness comfort and strengthen them in their bereavement.
