

A typographical error in one of our last editorials made us say the "damnation of aliens," when it should have been the "domination of aliens."

Anna Dickinson essayed a few nights since, in New York, to net the principal role in her new play of "The Crown of Thorns," and now, through the instrumentality of the dramatic critics, she is reposing on anything but a bed of roses.

The Louisiana Commission, as was expected, is doing nothing but accumulating a mass of conflicting testimony. The sooner it adjourns sine die the better for the country.

Some wisecracks in Washington thought he had discovered a man's nest. He asserted that Chamberlain had adopted a new course, which was to claim that no one was elected governor in November, and that he held over.

On the 9th of April, 1865, with the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox, constitutional government perished in South Carolina, and a military despotism was inaugurated in its stead.

One of the first acts of the Legislature, when it assembles, should be the ratification of the amendment to the constitution adopted by the people last November, providing that each county retain all the school-money collected in it under the two mill tax.

Reports came from the North that the carpet-baggers were again plucking up courage, and speaking defiantly in reference to South Carolina affairs. Chamberlain, they said, would continue his pretensions, resting upon the promise made by Governor Hampton to resort to no violence.

will have a Legislature unanimously Democratic. This is a consummation most devoutly to be wished. It is to be feared, however, that no such luck will befall the State.

Chamberlain's Capitulation.

We publish in another part of this paper Chamberlain's address "to the Republicans of South Carolina," in which he announces his intention to submit to the inevitable and cease to lay claim to the governorship.

There is now no obstacle in the way of the complete establishment, in all its departments, of the State government selected by the people at the polls last November.

Altogether, the struggle of the people for self-government may be considered at an end. We have fought the fight and won the victory.

A Spicy Correspondence.

The following correspondence passed between Chamberlain and Governor Hampton on Tuesday, the 10th inst.:-

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, COLUMBIA, S. C., April 10, 1877. Sir: Having learned that you now purpose to turn over to me the Executive Chamber, with the records and papers belonging to the Executive Office, now in your possession, I beg to inform you that I will send a proper officer to receive the same at any hour you may indicate as most convenient to yourself.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant, (Signed) WADE HAMPTON, Governor. HON. D. H. CHAMBERLAIN.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, COLUMBIA, S. C., April 10, 1877. Sir: Replying to your note of this date, I have to say that my Private Secretary will meet such officer as you may designate, at 12 meridian, to-morrow, at the Executive Chamber for the purpose indicated in your note.

Very respectfully, (Signed) D. H. CHAMBERLAIN, Governor. HON. WADE HAMPTON.

It's just a little funny for Chamberlain to address Governor Hampton as "Hon. Wade Hampton," and to sign himself "Governor of South Carolina;" and it is quite as cheeky as it is amusing.

Fanaticism in Massachusetts.

Boston, April 4.—The New England Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church opened this morning at Lynn. Resolutions on the Southern question were presented by Rev. W. F. Mallison, D. D., of Boston, and upon being read were received with great applause.

sacrificing principles and party and righteousness for the sake of temporary success.

Resolved, That we protest most earnestly against the action of the new administration in making terms with the chief of the Ku Klux instigator of the Hamburg massacre, M. C. Butler; and still more earnestly do we protest against the official recognition by the administration of that arch-enemy of the republic, who long since ought to have been hung for treason, Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, and who now, by threats and intimidation under the very roof of the White House, as well as on railroad platforms, and in all other public places, defies the power of the government and bullies the President into compliance with his traitorous and wicked usurpation.

Tribute of Respect.

Within the past two weeks, the FAIRFIELD FIRE ENGINE COMPANY has been visited with a loss, the extent of which can neither be fully realized, nor adequately expressed in language.

In the death of WM. MOULTRE D'WIGHT, our late President, this Company has lost a faithful and efficient officer, a valuable member and a devoted friend. From his first association with our organization up to the time of his last illness, he was both zealous and untiring in the discharge of the duties to which the confidence of his comrades had called him.

In the loss we have suffered, language can but faintly express what we feel. Yet it is but in simple justice to his worth that we offer our share of tribute to his memory.

Resolved, That in the death of WM. MOULTRE D'WIGHT, the FAIRFIELD FIRE ENGINE COMPANY has lost a zealous and efficient officer, a brave and faithful fireman, a true and trusted friend.

Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved family and kindred our deep sympathy, in the sore affliction with which they have been visited.

Resolved, That in respect to his memory, the Engine be draped in mourning for the space of thirty days, and that the members wear the usual badge of mourning at the next annual parade.

Resolved, That, as a further mark of respect, a blank page in our minute-book be dedicated to his memory.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and these resolutions, appropriately engrossed, be forwarded by the secretary to the widow of our departed President, and that they be published in the Winnsboro News and Herald.

Extract from the minutes, April 10th, 1877. T. R. ROBINSON, Secretary.
