See Little Butterfly and laugh.

The Fair at Gray Court.

The ladies' department will be one of the leading features of the Gray Court Fair. It will be in Dr. Christopher's store. All exhibits must be at the store by 10 A. M. Friday.

The funny show, "Little Butterfly," is coming Friday night.

Little River Alliance.

Will meet at 2 o'clock, P. M., on next Saturday 23d, to install officers and elect delegates to County Alliance. Lot every member come out.

A Boy Killed.

Last Thursday Cleveland Lindley, the nine year old son of Mr. Joseph Lindley, of Alma, was grazing a mule and the line by which he held the animal was wrapped about his wrist. The mule took fright at a hen flying from her nest and ran off dragging the boy, inflicting injuries from which he died in a short time.

Mr. Lindley's family have the warm sympathy of everybody in their deplorable misfortune.

The Princeton Store.

It will be pleasing news to the people of Princeton and the country surrounding that Dr. G. L. Martin has returned from Atlanta where he has purchased an elegant line of goods. Dr. Martin will sell as cheap as at Greenville or Laurens or anywhere else, ladies' dress goods, fine shoes (or coarse grades) for men, women and children, ready made clothing, as well as stricting and underwear of all qualities.

Reedy River Association.

This body of Baptists convened at Chestnut Ridge last Friday. There was a large attendance and the services were uniformly pleasant and harmonious. On Sunday a great many persons from the city attended the services. There was preaching morning and afternoon both in the church and under an arbor among those who preached were Revs. Pitts, of Laurens, Wright, of Newberry, Dougherty and Nelson. The towns people report that the Ridge folks more than maintained their fame for hospitality.

"Zeb," a comedy that has made thousands laugh in all the principal cities throughout the United States and Canada, will be the attraction at the Opera House to-night.

The City Schools.

The schools opened yesterday with an attendance of over 200 at the white school. This number should be largely increased. There ought to be at least a hundred more.

Deaths.

Mrs. Hammond, wife of Mr. W. H. Hammond, engineer on the Laurens and Newberry road, died suddenly Sunday morning. She was about 60 years of age. She leaves a husband and several sons, the oldest being a young man, who is a cordial sympathizer. The remains were interred in the city cemetery Monday afternoon.

The Favorites Return.

Wilfred Clarke, the excellent young comedian, who pleased a large audience in Laurens last season with his comedy "Tat for Tat," is booked to appear at the Opera House Friday, Sept. 22nd in conjunction with Mr. Beaumont Smith, the famous Booth, Barrett and Moseley combinations.

The Court of Sessions.

The Court of General Sessions convened Monday morning, Judge Witherspoon presiding. Solicitor Schumpert handed out several indictments but no true bills were returned.

The Conspicuous Absence of Business.

One Darky Pleads Guilty and Gets a Light Sentence.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Burnsville Notes.

We were disappointed by the rain last Saturday, the 9th inst. in attending the closing exercises of Prof. Compton's singing school union at Warrior. The exercises were held on Thursday, the 14th inst. The Rocky Spring class was present and several other representatives and spectators from different localities. The former class was well represented as was also Warrior. This union with their well trained voices filled the church with strains of music of unlimited sweetness. The kind ladies gave us a splendid dinner, which all enjoyed. We extend our heartfelt thanks to the people of Rocky Springs for their kindness and hospitality and hope to have the pleasure of meeting them again on a near occasion. If Mr. Slocum Gilson were present we would like to know if he thinks anything was done by the half side.

Notwithstanding that money matters are in a kind of a muddle Burns & Co. have completed the extension of their store and have opened up $2000 worth of shoes, and dress goods, finest line ever seen in the county. A word to the wise is sufficient, and those who purchase will be made happy. It will be remembered that Mr. Lanson Owens' money treasure was stolen several years ago. The box was found a few days ago by two little boys while playing in the woods south of the town. Mr. B. Leopard's and J. D. Mills. The box contained no money, it had been buried in a gully, but the earth on top of it had been washed away.

Dr. J. R. Fowler has renovated his barn.

Miss Mary Knight of Greenville after visiting her old home and relatives has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burton after spending several days with their relatives, Mrs. Garrett and family, have returned to their home in Greenville. Jim still shoots robins.

Misses Ida Templeton and Una Simpson paid us a very pleasant visit recently.

Miss Ball and Miss Thaxton visited Mrs. J. D. Mills a few days since.

Arthur and Earl Owens of your city are sojourning in this section.

Prof. J. W. Fowler's school at Durban will close this week. All will be glad to welcome him back again.

Miss Templeton's school at Owens Academy closed last week. Some sad hearts since her departure.

Singings, picnics and the scarcity of bacon have played havoc with our poultry yards.

If the road commissioners would visit this locality they would find we needed.

We extend thanks to Slocum Gilson for the compliment paid us in the issue of the 4th inst. Give us a call Slocum, and maybe you will like us. BUM BLINKER.

Long Branch.

Laurens Sloan says he has been all over the world with his photograph and has landed back at Blakely's store. Some people believe all he says.

Mr. James Bell, of whom we mention before very sick, is not much better.

We are glad to know that quite a number of our country people take kindly to our suggestion that Col. R. C. Watts be our next Governor, but we hear nothing from the press. What say ye men of the quill!

The country people are getting anxious to know what has become of the County Board of Control.

The dispensary and dispenser and all other things pertaining to that institution.

Quite a number of our young people, the little Gilmans among them, attended the closing exercises of Prof. Compton's singing school at Rocky Creek and report a pleasant time.

We notice T. C. Sumner and family, of Clinton, are visiting in this section, taking in the last of the water melons and roastigears we suppose.

Mr. Dogin Power has moved back to the town of Hairston Shop.

Business of the loafers club has been suspended one month on account of the Mayor, R. O. Hairston, overhauling his dwelling, but will meet again on the 20th. Full attendance expected.

Mr. John Hipp sold the first bale of cotton in this section but didn't get much for it; Only one pound of meat for two of cotton.

Messrs. John and George Hammer, of Cross Hill, are visiting relatively in this section.

Miss Corlie Todd who has been visiting relatives at Cross Hill has returned home.

The lawn party at Mr. J. T. Todd's on the 15th was attended by a large and lively crowd. Everybody enjoyed it.

Business at the Coroner's office is dull just now.

SLOCUM GILSON.

Resolutions of Thanks.

The following resolutions were read and accepted at the last meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society:

Resolved, That the members of this society be and to the members of the other churches and the community generally for their generous hospitality in assisting us in entertaining the delegates to the State Convention of the Woman's Missionary Society, recently held in this place.

That we highly appreciate the kindness of the pastor and officers of the Presbyterian Church in allowing us the use of their handsome new church.

That we desire to express our appreciation of the valuable assistance of the gentlemen of the church in reception and to Mrs. L. N. Shedd and Mr. E. H. Wilkes for their valuable assistance.

Also, to J. J. Roland, who so kindly permitted us to use his dishes for our reception.

Attention! Sub-Alliances.

The fourth quarterly meeting of the Laurens County Alliance will be held on the first Friday in October, being the 6th day of the month. Sub Alliances will send in a full quota of delegates, and every Alliance member in Laurens County is requested to be present, as matters affecting their interest will be discussed and acted on. Now is the time for us to press our demands. Congress is in session trying to enforce a policy that will put us at a dollar a bushel, and if they succeed it means bankruptcy and ruin to the farmers and laboring classes. Attend the quarterly meeting and show that you are alive to your interest and the conditions that confront us.

JOHN M. HENDERSON, County President.

A Countryman in Chicago.

After two hours of keen relish are over it is a good plan to attend to maps and diagrams. You are growing accustomed to the surroundings and it is possible to call up your scattered faculties and take your bearings. To be sure your vitality is considerably lowered, but you are in as good form for observation now as you will be again and you had best arrange your program of inspection. But there should be no method in the ecstasy with which one gloms in his first impressions of the fair.

You are jaded to the precise point at which a voyage around the lagoons and ponds in an electric launch at a cost of fifty cents will prove a lucky investment. Those boats are blissful. It is smooth sailing. You take off your hat and gentle, soft, poetic breezes blow from the west and east, you lean over and let your hand dip in the waters and they are cool. All your good dreams have come true. "Not a wave of trouble rolls across your peaceful breast."

You forgive your enemies. Forget the wrong and worry, cares and disappointments of the world, feel yourself embarked at last and floating on a sea of happiness. Within the next forty-five minutes you circumnavigate a fairy island of flowers, foliage and verdure, but the magic joy of the moment betrays you into forgetfulness that it is not a continent about whose happy shores you will glide forever. From the shores of the "main land" rise white places, gleaming in the sunlight and towering in the skies. One by one the boat passes them, stopping at the marble flights of steps leading from the green plazas in front of them to the crystal waters edge. Now the boat is in the shadow of some colossal bull or buffalo lifelike as if the breathing animal had been turned to stone, now the tinkle of the waters of a fountain tremble on the ear while its spray is wafted to your face, and again the arch of a bridge above has for an instant banished the hidden vision. On the boat speeds from palace to mansion from mansion to castle and from castle back to palaces more splendid than the first until the starting point is reached again and the passengers sorrowfully disembark to lose themselves in the restless throng of tired land lubbers.

All over the lagoons swim ducks, common, plebeian, and day ducks, most of them, who do not seem to put on airs. Occasionally there are swans and pelicans, the Nawars, Maharajahs, and other distinguished foreigners of strange waterfowl regions, who are visitors to the duckish element of the fair. Most of the ducks, however, appear to be of the well to do, easy going kind who live in comparatively luxury. They are capitalistic fowls. They do not hustle for a living. They are perhaps non producers. While other ducks, their equals in intellect and culture, are industriously laying eggs and yielding up their bone and flesh to the path of plutocrats these ducks are floating around in idleness. Many of them are not even ornamental. They are failures as ducks. Now and then they stand on their heads in the water and turning their tails to the stars pose as acrobats but their feats are by no means remarkable. These ducks are mere trifflists, silly aquatic sports, yet they evidently want the good things of life. While myriads of less fortunate ducks quick from pole to pole struggling for the bare right of existence these live like lordlings on the pap which their labor has not accumulated. Such conditions in duckish society are unnatural and unjust. All ducks are by the same properly entitled to the same property and social privileges. It is a monumental shame that in many duck communities the volume of bugs and worms is so restricted that duck legs are growing thin and emaciated. Some of these days an army of discontented ducks will swoop down on these Chicago aristocratic ducks and expel them from their favored isle with a clacking which will be heard from shore to shore of the lagoon.

If each of my readers were gifted with the imagination of a Dore to interpret and I had the genius of a Dante to paint in words it would be worth while for me to endeavor to tell of the scene presented by the "Court of Honor" illuminated. The Administration building with its glittering dome overlooks it, electric fountains throw streams of many hued waters and bathe in fire the groups of statuary at their feet, the limpid waters of the basin reflect the shining walls of the palace studded with a million electric gems which enclose it, and from roof to roof above, now fixed on marble obelisk now on golden statue, sweep the mighty search lights like the Cherubim's flaming sword. Mortals who have not stood in the midst of its radiance can form no conception of its beauty and glory.

No person should travel without a box of Ayer's Pills. As a safe and speedy remedy for constipation and all irregularities of the stomach and bowels, they have no equal, and being skillfully sugar-coated, are pleasant to take, and long retain their virtues.

Competitive Examinations.

Competitive examinations for 3 scholarships offered by the college of Charleston to the white male students of the State will be held on the third, fourth and fifth of October next at Laurens. Each scholarship is worth $200 per annum for four years. I deem it advisable for the young men to make strenuous efforts to win for themselves and their county the honor and advantage offered, and I shall take pleasure in giving any useful information. Applications should be made by Sept. 20th.

TOS. DUCKETT, C. L. FIFE, A. M. HASSELL, Bd. Examiners.

When a small boy I cherished an enthusiastic admiration for brightly colored quilts. The fair makes just such an impression on the man who cannot study it and is not educated specially for it and nearly all of us who see it delight in it as children do in gay colors. The fireworks, the acrobats and the performing animals are what we genuinely enjoy. Most of us have a fancy for pictures but after making a pilgrimage through the art gallery my memory retains some idea of two or three paintings. I couldn't name half a dozen and the only one that I vividly recall is a group of the King of Denmark and his family big enough to cover the side of a house. It would be pleasant to walk through the galleries every morning but a single stroll through them consuming ten hours is barren of results, however enjoyable it may have been for the time.

The people in charge of the Arkansas State building invited the members of the South Carolina Association to make their building headquarters. I heard of the invitation the last day I was at the fair and being with a friend in the vicinity of the building, we went in and as a mark of courtesy inscribed our names on their visitor's register. As we turned to leave, I was surprised to hear some one say, "Why there's some of the South Carolina Press, we've been looking for you all the week!" It was a middle-aged handsome woman who spoke and her voice was as innocent of the aggravating Chicagoese twang as are the accents of our own mothers and sisters. She was of course one of the officials in charge. Then she introduced herself and so did we. She invited us in again, introduced us to other Southern people and, in short, was as kind and cordial as only a Southern woman can be. I began to believe that after all I was not a wanderer in another planet and for the first time in a week felt at home in Chicago. This was to me the pleasant incident connected with my trip to Chicago and if I could visit the fair again, the first place I should seek would be the Arkansas house and I should be reluctant to venture too far into the foreign atmosphere which surrounds it. Southern hospitality and kindness in that strange place of feelings and manners into which a Southerner cannot enter is to be appreciated. Arkansas is half a thousand miles from South Carolina but in all that binds people together and welds them into one she is just as near as Georgia or North Carolina,—in fact, though we believe in states' rights, states' lines do not separate us. But Illinois is a good way farther off.

A Few Corrections.

To the Editor of The News and Courier:—I see in publishing my letter to Governor Tillman, in reference to the dispensary at Laurens in your issue of the 13th, there are several typographical errors which make very awkward reading, and, besides, greatly misrepresent my position on the dispensary question. I desire to allow me space in your journal to correct them.

First, then, I am made to say in print, "I myself am afraid of the dispensary. Act as a whole, but more of its local option feature." I wrote, "I myself am a friend of the dispensary as a whole, but more of its local option feature." Pursuant to notice I moved to amend the Record by striking out the word "one third," in Section 8, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "majority." I desired to obey the instructions of my constituents given in the August primary, and in standing by it and demanding its restoration I am sure it will have been drawn into this controversy.

The second error I will notice is the misprint in substituting the name of "J. L. Evans" for "R. L. L. Evans." One other point and I am done. Governor Tillman says in his letter: "I hope you understand by this that the struggle is not one between prohibition and the dispensary, but a struggle between the dispensary and the license system, which we have just overthrown." In reply, I answer that the friends of the dispensary were generally united at the beginning of the struggle, and are now united in a fixed purpose to prevent their restoration. The friends of the dispensary are a less evil than the bar room.

I cannot any intelligent man see that the ardent friends of the dispensary regard the prohibition option of the dispensary Act, and prohibition counties created by it, as obstacles to the dispensary system and that a triangular contest is initiated, in which these are bound to wipe each other out. These friends have boasted loud and frequently, "That the dispensary Act is a long step towards prohibition." Does this require first that every vestige of prohibition in the State shall be destroyed? Is the dispensary Act a schoolmaster to educate the people for prohibition? If so, when counties declare by popular vote that they are ready to make the step to prohibition shall these ardent dispensary people throw obstructions in the way and say, "You shall not make the step, for you are antagonizing the dispensary and aiding the bar room?"

Have not a sufficient number of counties adopted the dispensary, as we fully anticipated they would, to make the experiment, with the same ironclad laws to protect alike the dispensary counties and prohibition counties against "wild tigers?" I insist, then, that the experiment shall proceed fairly and impartially, and let us see what will come of it.
