FARMERS EXPECTED TO BUY LIBERTY BONDS

Washington, Oct. 15.—In the first Liberty Loan campaign, many of the farmers of the country were not reached, and subscriptions from the rural committees were few. There were several reasons for this, the foremost of which was that the loan was put on in the spring, when they were busy with their crops, and it was difficult for the canvassers to interview them. Then, too, they had to borrow money for their planting. Now their crops are in, and at the present high price of foodstuffs, they should have a large sum of money in their hands. For a loan of a portion of that money, the Liberty Bond campaigners are now appealing all over the country. The various farm bureaus and societies are co-operating and good results are expected.

Albert R. Mann, dean of the New York College of Agriculture, is one of those who have been active in this work. Speaking of the loan and the farmer's share in it, he said today:

"When liberty came to America, the farmer helped to bring it. He bore the gun he contributed unsparingly of his substance, he fed the armies. In the present struggle for universal liberty, I am sure that he will do no less. He has already made splendid response to the demand for greater food production. I look with confidence on his generous contribution to the Liberty Loan. The first loan largely overlooked the farmer; the efforts were concentrated in the cities. The second campaign should give every opportunity for farmers as individuals and in their organizations to support the government in its financial program. It is the highest expression of Americanism that all the people should help carry the load in this critical hour."

Resigns as Cashier.

J. Earle Owings, cashier of the Farmers National Bank, has tendered his resignation to the directors to take effect the first of the month, this step being taken to allow him more time to devote to other matters. His successor has not yet been elected.

Big Sorghum Cane.

Mr. P. W. Moore, county farm demonstrator, went out to the farm of Mr. R. G. Franks yesterday and brought back a large bundle of sorghum cane which he expects to send to the state fair as an exhibition of what can be done with cane in this section. He states that this is one of the finest pieces of sorghum cane he has ever seen and that Mr. Franks was offered $300 for the crop as it stands in the field. There are four acres of the crop. He also brought a heavily fruited stalk of cotton out of a 27-acre field from which Mr. Franks expects to gather 25 bales.

Called to Greensboro.

Rev. C. F. Rankin, who expected to go to Ninety Six yesterday morning to attend the Presbytery which was to pass upon his application for a discharge from his pastoral relations with his church here, had his plans suddenly disarranged yesterday morning by the arrival of a telegram from Greensboro, N. C., calling upon him to come to that city to be present at a surgical operation upon his father. As his presence was not vitally necessary in Ninety Six, he left immediately for Greensboro by automobile.
