"APPLE JACK."

The drummer, upon seeing "old hayseed," lit a cigarette and between each puff of smoke that comes through his nostrils would abuse Bea Tillman and would wink at his hearers, who were Conservatives. At first "old hayseed" was disposed to pay no attention to the thing wrapped up in dudish clothes and from which emanated offensive cigarette smoke, but the fellow kept on making his remarks so offensive that the "old hayseed" could stand it no longer and he turned up the fellow and said: "Mister, we'uns made Tillman Governor and he stayed Governor as long as he wanted to; we'uns then made him Senator, and he will stay there as long as he wants; then we'uns will make him President and he will stay there as long as he wants; then he is going straight to heaven, and you durn, miserable straight-outs will never see him agin."

The old gentleman talked with an earnestness that convinced the little dudish drummer with the cigarette that he had struck a snag; after which a painful silence came upon the scene with nothing to break the monotony but the solemn face of the politician drummer and the grins of his audience.

The Nilness of the No.

He was a gallant suitor,
And she a princess fit;
He called to see her often,
And he'd

Sit,
Sit,
Sit.

He loved her, O so dearly!
(It's true as holy writ),
She was a tempting morsel,
And he

Bit,
Bit,
Bit.

And when he thought he'd won her
To ascertain the sit,
'Thro' life," said he, "together
Let us

Flit,
Flit,
Flit."

Her answer was a stunner,
He freely did admit;
It bore but one construction—
It was

"Nit!
Nit!!
Nit!!!"

An exchange says: "Get a nickel's worth of nitrate of silver at the drug store and put it in a tumbler of water from your well. If the water is pure it will remain clear. If impure it will turn blue; if very impure it will turn milky. In this simple manner you can know if your well needs cleaning and possibly head off a run of typhoid fever."

Poor Blood

Is starved blood. It shows itself in pale cheeks, white lips, weak digestion, no appetite, exhaustion, lack of nerve force, soft muscles, and, chief of all, weak muscles. Your doctor calls it Anaemia. He will tell you that the weakening weather of summer often brings it on.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, will make poor blood rich. It is a food for over-taxed and weak digestion, so prepared that it can easily be taken in summer when Cod-liver Oil or even ordinary foods might repel.
