

The Watchman and Southern

THURSDAY, MARCH 24.

The Watchman and Southern was founded in 1850 and the True Southern in 1866. The Watchman and Southern now has the combined circulation and influence of both of the old papers, and is manifestly the best advertising medium in Sumter.

Important Announcement.

The Weekly News and Courier to be furnished as a Supplement to this Paper.

Arrangements have been made with the News and Courier Company by which we will be able to supply the Weekly News and Courier from this office as a supplement to the Watchman and Southern, to all subscribers who pay cash in advance, at $2.50 per year, which will be a saving of one dollar upon the price of the two papers.

This offer embraces the News and Courier weekly from January to January, and our friends should send in their subscriptions without delay to enjoy the full benefit of the arrangement.

Change of Publication Day.

In order to give our readers the benefit of the latest information in our supplement by sending it out promptly on arrival, The Watchman and Southern will hereafter be published on Thursday instead of Tuesday.

Three Supreme Court Judges, including C. J. Waite, dissent from the recent decision as to the tax on drummers.

Collections of internal revenue during the first eight months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1887, were $74,248,868, being $917,667 less than the corresponding period last year.

The celebration of the 90th anniversary of the birth of Emperor William in Berlin was a grand affair; the city decorated as it never was before; the churches were all opened and crowded; there were long processions and immense crowds in the streets.

A singular cave, or sink, thirty-one feet in diameter, one hundred and twenty feet in circumference, twenty-four feet deep, and perfectly perpendicular, has recently been discovered on J. N. Lancaster's plantation in Barnwell County. It is situated on one of the most elevated points in the vicinity, and composed of solid clay of a moist nature. It is supposed to have been caused by an earthquake shock on the night of March 2.

Augusta Ga., is happy in the prospect of the coming of the new road via Ridgway, Raleigh and Monroe, N. C., and Cheraw, S. C. The Chronicle says: 'The Hamlet-Cheraw link is known as the "Palmetto" road, and is twenty miles long. It is completed to the bridge over the Pee Dee river, a mile this side of Cheraw, and early this spring will run into Cheraw. Augusta is its objective point. This link, as well as the one from Petersburg to Ridgway, is owned by Mr. Monroe Robinson, who will get the right of way over the Raleigh and Gaston and Raleigh and Augusta roads.'

There is no place like South Carolina, and no place in South Carolina like Georgetown.—Georgetown Enquirer.

Who gainsays this triumphant assertion of the Enquirer? South Carolina is geographically distinguished from any other State in the Union, and certainly, it is conspicuously apparent that Georgetown is the most antiquated place in South Carolina.—Morning Times.

The President has appointed the following Commissioners under the Interstate Commerce bill which goes into effect on the 5th day of April. Thomas M. Cooley, of Michigan, for the term of six years; William K. Morrison, of Illinois, five years; Augustus Schoonmaker, of New York, four years; Adolphe F. Walker, of Vermont, three years; Walter L. Bragg, of Alabama, two years. The Anderson Intelligencer thinks the law is likely to prove injurious to the South with the best possible management.

At the late competitive examination held in Florence, to fill a vacancy at West Point for the sixth District, out of nineteen applicants, who constituted the finest looking set of men, it is said, to be found in the district. Mr. E. O. Ingram, son of Dr. John I. Ingram, was the successful applicant. This is a high honor, and we are glad to see that Clarendon will have a representative at West Point. It is gratifying to see one so qualified as Mr. Ingram is, has been selected. He will wear the honor well, and worthily represent Clarendon at West Point.

There were two infamous wretches, base thieves, who had much to do in swearing away, by false testimony, at a drum-head court-martial, the life of Mrs. Mary Surratt. These libelous upon the name of a were Louis Weichman and Benj. Spanner. The former had been a life of wretchedness, and had begged in Philadelphia, and has passed to his reward. The latter has just been arrested for subornation of perjury at Baltimore, involving monstrous lies and colossal infamy. He will probably end his days in a dungeon. From Preston King to Benjamin Spaulding, and from Th. Stanton to Louis Weichman, Justice, through in some cases slow of foot, has reached its mark and struck with an iron hand.—Augusta Chronicle.

A New Press.

Mr. C. A. Fairbanks, a skilled machinist of New London, Connecticut, is busily engaged in putting in place for Mr. Charles A. Cairo, proprietor of the Columbia Register, a beautiful Babcock No. 8 optimum two-revolution press, with Stonecreek folder, paster and trimmer attached.

CARSWELL COMING TO SUMTER.

Mr. Edward Carswell, the eloquent temperance lecturer who has visited other parts of the State lately, and whose lectures have delighted all who heard him, will, we are pleased to announce, visit Sumter, and will lecture on next Saturday evening at the Baptist Church.

No one should fail to hear him who can possibly attend, as all who do not hear him will regret it. At least this is what we see stated in the papers wherever he has been.

A FUTURE FOR SUMTER.

On last Tuesday afternoon Col. R. C. Barkley, Mr. S. J. Peggall, of Charleston, Fowler and Howlett, of New York, Col. W. B. Utsey, of Colleton County, Hon. Alton Moses and Messrs. C. E. Stubbs and T. J. Tuomey, left Sumter for the purpose of making a final trip over the proposed route of the Eutawville Railroad. These gentlemen went directly from here to Packerly and extended their trip on that afternoon to Panola where they spent the night with Col. Patrick Brock, whose hospitality contributed no little to the pleasure of the trip. From there the party left on yesterday morning for Summerton, and from there they proceeded to the River where they met the Engineer Corps. Representative Altamont Moses and Col. W. B. Utsey returned to Sumter on yesterday evening. The rest of the party are in Manning to-day, negotiating with the County Commissioners for the right of way in Clarendon County.

Representative Altamont Moses told us this morning that Col. R. C. Barkley told him on yesterday that the Road would be built, and that Sumter had a glorious future before her. Col. Barkley says that Sumter is likely to become a second Atlanta.

Mr. Moses says that the difficulty of putting a bridge across the Santee were much less than was anticipated, and that a contractor has offered to take the job for $40,000. A preliminary survey of the route to Sumter is expected to be made soon.

If the different lines of Railroads are built to this point, which are now in contemplation, Sumter will develop into a city sure enough.

On our fourth page will be found the article of Mrs. Chapin, in which reference was made last week, as having been refused by the S. C. Advocate, and also in connection therewith, some other matter from the Temperance Worker bearing upon the same subject. We do not understand from their own words that the ladies of the South Carolina W. C. T. U. are such awfully uncompromising suffragists as they have been represented to be—in fact they do not seem to be demanding the suffrage at all; but are quite candid in admitting that they consider themselves better qualified to vote for their own welfare than some who do vote. The articles referred to will be found good reading, and we give them for what they are worth, without proposing to go into any discussion of the matter of woman suffrage, as we do not consider it need give the people of this State any concern for a long time to come.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18, 1887.

Pedagogues, railroad men and excursionists have had possession of the city during the week. The National Association of superintendence, the Passenger Agents Association of the United States and Canada, and the Institute of Civics have each held conventions here, while the excursionists have come by the thousand.

The President's social duties have not in the least diminished with the adjournment of Congress. He accorded the railroad representatives a special reception on one of his off days, and yesterday afternoon when he dropped his pen and papers and came down to the East Room at his regular hour for shaking hands with the great American public, he found the crowd swelled by the presence of several hundred of the educational dignitaries now in the city, and the cultured gentlemen who represent the American Institute of Civics.

The latter society has for its object the promotion of the study of government and the spread of Mr. Durman B. Eaton's political philosophy. As the President smiled graciously and shook hands with the superintendents, he was asked that he was always delighted to meet a body of school teachers. 'It was something of a school teacher once myself, you know,' said he, and sometimes feel that I am something of a school teacher still. 'Every school man in the line was presented to the President by name.' Dr. Lucky, of Pittsburg, said the introducer, as an unusually handsome gentleman stepped forward to grasp the President's hand. It had been intended to have all the educators in one compact body with no outsiders sandwiched between them, but it happened that a very dilapidated looking old tramp had gotten into line just behind the fine looking man from Pittsburg. As the straggler approached the President there was a marked hiatus. No tongue could tell his name. But the President was equal to the situation. He extended his hand with unusual cordiality and said in an encouraging tone: 'How are you my friend? I suppose your name must be Dr. Unlucky. Every body in hearing of the remark laughed and so did the tramp. After leaving the White House the pedagogues were photographed in a group on the steps of the State, War and Navy Department building.

IN MEMORIAM.

FRIERSON.—John M. Frierison was born at Cherry Vale, near Statesburg, February 11, A. D., 1818. He was graduated from the South Carolina College in December, 1837, carrying off the first honors of his class, in which were such men as Duncan W. Rice, John L. Manning and Louis T. Wigfall.

In the year following he was sent as a delegate from South Carolina to the great Commercial Convention which met in Augusta, the object being to promote the commerce of the sister States of Carolina and Georgia, and to advertise to the world their resources and advantages.

After his return into public life at the early age of twenty, Mr. Frierison's future career was made. In obedience to the expressed wish of his friends he represented Sumter County in the lower house of the Legislature during several terms from 1840.

Political ambition forming no part of his life's design, he retired from office until after the civil war, when, in obedience to the call of his fellow-citizens, he went to the State Senate, where he faithfully served his constituents during times that truly tried men's souls. At that time he met in Augusta, the wife of his Alma Mater, in whose welfare he always had a profound and earnest interest.

After this, without his being in any sense of the word a candidate for office, he was elected to the high position of complimentary vote for the position of Governor, State Treasurer, the United States House of Representatives and United States Senate. These offices he held by the people of his country, and State, although he was one of the very few "Union men" in this section of the State and opposed Secession, not, however, because he doubted the constitutional right of the State to secede, but because he deemed the movement unwise and inexpedient.

When the State seceded he went with her, and served her faithfully in his own country, while his eldest son, Converse, gave his life for the cause of the South, having died in a Northern prison, as gallant a soldier as ever drew sword in the cause of his country. Mr. Frierison's numerous benefactions to the widows and orphans of the Lost Cause there is no desire, as there is no need to speak. His record in this respect is a noble one, and his memory is held in grateful remembrance by those who were benefited by his aid. Such being a brief and imperfect recital of his career as a citizen of the State, it is with unfeigned pleasure that we are able to turn to his services to the Church. For more than forty years Mr. Frierison served as a vestryman of the Church of the Holy Cross, Statesburg, and was a devoted member of the same through life. He gave cheerfully of his means to the Church, and was ever ready to aid in every good work, not only by his voice and presence, but by his gifts also, the best proof, perhaps, of sincerity and deep interest in any cause being such substantial support. He will be surely and sorely missed from the councils of his brethren in the parish and in the Church. He was a true and affectionate father, and his home and family were his dearest. After a long and oftentimes painful illness, borne with patience and resignation, he passed peacefully without a struggle. His faith was well founded—he knew in whom he had believed—he feared no evil even in the valley of the shadow of death. He has passed into that land where loyal hearts and true stand ever in the light. All rapture and through, in God's most holy sight.

We can desire nothing more for him or for ourselves, but we can cherish his memory—we can emulate his example—we can wish that of us as of him it may be written: "He hath fought a good fight, he hath kept the faith."

Died on March 30, 1887, Miss ELIZA (LITTLE) L., a young child of three years, and Anna C. Reid, our Darling—a tender mother's prop and stay, a father's pride and dependence, the brothers' and sisters' loved and loving companion and trust—has been suddenly called home to rest.

She died exemplified, by a busy, blameless life, the words of the Christian's song: "We'll work 'till Jesus comes and we'll be gathered home."

She was stricken by the "Reaper's Sickle" and died on the 30th of March, 1887, at the age of 16, and is buried in the cemetery at Statesburg, S. C.

Her death is a great loss to her family and friends. She was a very kind and affectionate child, and her death is a great sorrow to all who loved her.

THE SPRING

The young man's fancy turns to thoughts of Summer Clothes.

Not exactly thus sings Tennyson, but Locksley Hall could not have contained a truer sign of the coming Spring.

THE FIRST BOW.

An elderly lady, who had been a close observer all her life, once remarked to a young man, "It is the First Bow that makes the impression."

THE MOST GARMING

displays of MEN'S, YOUTH'S and BOYS' SPRING CLOTHING ever shown in Sumter.

It would be like painting the lily or gilding refined gold to attempt an improvement on many of our fine Tailor-made garments for young men, which in pattern and originality of design actually lead the fashion.

We have also opened a large variety of MEN'S, BOYS and CHILDREN'S STRAW HATS, which for style and prices cannot be excelled.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS offered in this line to Country Merchants.

Our DRY GOODS DEPARTMENT is fast being filled with Spring Styles of every description. It is not proper to buy before you see us. We strive to have the best styles the fashionable world produces and that our market will justify.

Nothing has been left undone this season that could possibly be suggestive to you that our house is the place to do your shopping.

There is a great rush for WASH FABRICS this season, and we are not unprepared.

A special large purchase of LACES, FLOUNCINGS, and EMBROIDERIES gives you an advantage you are not likely to meet with elsewhere.

Large lot of PLAIN and FANCY MATTINGS. See our prices before you buy.
