Waters-Parker.

Rock Hill, June 29.—The marriage of Miss Tillie Waters, daughter of Col. and Mrs. J. J. Waters and Harry Edmunds Parker of Sumter, was solemnized here this evening in the First Baptist church.

The ushers were: Brice Waters and Tom M. Parker, W. M. McCallum of Sumter and T. A. Scarborough, of Cameron.

The groomsmen were: James Bryan of Sumter and J. D. Grahama of Sumter, with Misses Rosa Galloway of Clio, and Kathleen Moore of this city; Henry Moses of Sumter, and Robert Fewell, of this city, with Misses Mary Adams and Mazie Wakefield; H. L. Taylor of Cameron and Bryan Trippett, of Boykin, with Misses Clarice Knight of Gastonia and Etta Sadler of this city.

All the maids wore lovely lingerie gowns, with blue girdles and sashes and blue gloves and hair ornaments, each carrying pink carnations. The dame of honor, Mrs. Harry Elliott Ruff, a bride of two weeks, wearing her bridal robe and carrying white carnations, entered with the maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Waters, a sister of the bride, in blue silk and white carnations.

The groom entered with his best man, Ell Parker, his brother, of Sumter, and they were joined by the bride, who was given away by her father, Col. J. J. Waters. The pastor, Rev. R. T. Marsh, performed the ceremony.

The bride's gown was an exquisite creation of meteor silk en princess, with the corsage elaborately embellished with seed pearls over old lace and a cascade of pearls and white satin down the left side to the hem. The train was regulation length and to its end fell the filmy veil caught with a pearl and diamond brooch and a cluster of lilies-of-the-valley. She also carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and bride roses.

The wedding was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents on Hampton street. The parlor was decorated in white and green, and here the young couple received hundreds of guests during the evening. Delightful refreshments were served during the reception.

Those from out of town here were: Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Parker, of Lugoff, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Parker, of Ridgeway, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Parker, of Providence, T. H. Parker, of Sumter, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Meacham, of Fort Mill, Mrs. G. A. Bird, of Greenwood, Mr. and Mrs. Will Sellers of Fort Mill, Miss Marie Dupre, of Providence, Mrs. J. L. Brice, of Blackstock.

Is Appendicitis Catching?

Appendicitis, once a rare privilege of the rich, has of recent years become so common that it is no longer considered fashionable. Indeed, the growing prevalence of the malady has led Dr. Donald W. C. Hood, of London, to advance the interesting, though unwelcome theory, that it is contagious.

The doctor calls attention to the fact that the sanitariums of every country are filled with appendicitis patients of various ages and conditions of life; that the number is increasing monthly and that the disease of itself is waxing more stubborn. He presumes that people eat pretty much as they have always eaten and eat pretty much the same sort of food. There is little likelihood that any sudden revolution has taken place within our bodies. Hence his only explanation of the spread of appendicitis is that it can be communicated from one person to another, just as measles and sore eyes are.

Merciful heavens! What are we to do? The race has hard and precarious enough a time fighting all the old style germs without being called upon to defend itself against this new-fashioned bacteria. There is plainly but one safe course left us. Everybody, sick or well, must have his appendix removed, in the same way that we have to be vaccinated when the smallpox scare gets abroad.

Some physicians have held in fact that the only certain safeguard against appendicitis would be the extraction of every child's appendix. All respectable fox terriers in their infancy have their tails cut off. Then why shouldn't all respectable boys and girls have their appendix cut out? The surgeons, some of them at least, say there would be no peril in such a practice.

There is bound to come a time when nobody will have an appendix, according to our physiological theories. For this troublesome encumbrance is described as the remnant of a once useful and well nourished organ now in process of being evolved out of existence. It does no work, supplies no need. It is as useless as a shoe string would be on a buttoned slipper. Yet, every one of us is attached to his appendix, so long have we been together; and, furthermore, it is attached to us. The probabilities are therefore that we shall keep it a while yet.—Atlanta Journal.

No man can lose what he never had.—Isaac Walton.

ALL WORK; NO PLAY.

How George M. Reynolds Got To Be Head of $200,000,000 Bank.

(Chicago Correspondence New York World.)

George M. Reynolds, head of the $200,000,000 Continental and Commercial Bank, at the age of 45, is a living example of what attending strictly to business will do for a man. President of the second financial institution in America while young enough to be the son of many of his directors, Mr. Reynolds is a man who never stepped out of the beaten track nor ever stopped working and never suffered a reverse.

Mr. Reynolds has never lost a day from sickness; he has never taken a vacation that did not have business inside; he does not drink; he does not play bridge; he does not play golf; he has no favorite author; he has no hobby but banking; he has no country residence; he does not even take exercises; he works nine hours a day.

"Make your business your pleasure and marry early. These are my rules," said Mr. Reynolds today. "I married at 19 a girl in the little Iowa country town where I was cashier of the bank. My health is fine. I don't play any outdoor games. I have no interest in them, and yet I never was in better health in my life.

"I have an automobile. I ride three times a week. I never went to any college. I began as a messenger in a bank at 14."

6-YEAR-OLD A TRAVELER.

Charles C. Gladwin, Jr., Has Crossed Ocean Four Times Alone.

(From the New York Times.)

A seasoned transatlantic traveler is little Charles Clinton Gladwin, Jr., son of Charles C. Gladwin, the champion speed skater and shoe runner of Canada and the United States, who arrived yesterday on the American liner New York. The boy is 6 years old, and he probably holds the record for his age in crossing the Atlantic alone. He has made the trip four times. He was met by his father, who lives at 496 Third avenue, and after telling him all about the good time he had had on board the vessel confided to him that he did not want to travel any longer. He said that he thought it time he "settled down" and went to school.

Clinton's mother died when he was only six months old. His father's sister, who lives in London, offered to care for him. He made his first trip when he was two and a half years old. It was because of his wish to see his father that he returned to America each time. Now he is going to go to school—that his father promised before they left the pier.

This is his record: Crossed on the Cedric in June, 1906; returned on the same vessel in September, 1907; to Liverpool on the Baltic in July, 1908, and home again on the New York. The boy had quite a story of adventure to tell his father. He was a general favorite with the crew and passengers, and the purser kept him supplied with oranges, apples, and candy.

Attorneys Unpopular in England.

Daniel O'Connell had a favorable story of one Parson, an Irish barrister who hated the whole trade of attorneys, and one day was approached in the lobby of the Four Courts by an attorney who was soliciting shilling subscriptions to pay the burial fee of an attorney who had died in poverty. Parsons offered the gentleman a pound note. O Mr. Parsons, said the applicant, "I do not want so much. I only ask a shilling from each contributor. I have limited myself to that, and cannot really take more."

"Oh take it, take it," said Parsons blandly. "For God's sake, my good sir, take the pound, and while you are about it, bury twenty of them."

Foote, the humorist, was once buttonholed by a country gentleman who was an attorney.

"Why do you bury attorneys here?" asked Foote gravely.

"Yes, to be sure, how else?"

"Oh, we never do that in London."

"No?" exclaimed the amazed squire.

"Why, do you bury attorneys here?"

"Why, when an attorney happens to die, we lay him out in a room by himself, throw open the windows, lock the door, and in the morning he is entirely off."

"Indeed! and what becomes of him?"

"Why, that we cannot exactly tell, not being acquainted with supernatural causes. All that we know of the matter is that there is a strong smell of brimstone in the room next morning."

WIFE MURDERER HANGED.

Allen Davis Paid the Penalty at Orangeburg.

Columbia, July 1.—Allen Davis, a negro wife murderer, of Springfield, was hanged today at Orangeburg. He slept well last night and ate a hearty breakfast.
