

heard. Such articles are well worth publishing. . . . Will the editor of the Houston Jewish Herald accept and print what the Fort Worth "Independent Order of B'nai Brith" has done and is doing? If so, we send you an interesting copy of same. Editor's note—The Jewish Herald will be glad to publish all articles and items of interest to Jews. We only ask that they be condensed as much as possible. Lengthy articles with which we are daily confronted consume more space than we can conveniently spare. We are desirous of giving as much news as possible in a very limited amount of space.

DISTRIBUTION.

Some contemporaries may quibble about Jacob Schiff's recent distribution hobby, but it cannot be denied that it is the most feasible and practical remedy to congestion in these days. Unless some such project be put into speedy action the immigration problem will present a very grievous difficulty. We Jews must be on the alert and prevent the possibility of any further restriction. If we wish the refugees from political and religious persecution to find a home on these shores we must bestir ourselves and see that these very people do not overcrowd and create no problem of their own. We should find employment for them, such as will make them invaluable assets to American citizenship. We applaud the stand of Jacob Schiff and call upon American Jewry to stand by him.—Jewish Tribune.

JEWISH LITERARY SOCIETY

Some time during the next week or ten days the Jewish Literary Society will hold a public meeting, which will be addressed by Rabbi Henry Cohen of Galveston, Rabbi W. W. Willner and Rabbi Henry Barnstein of Houston, G. A. Levi of Victoria and H. J. Dannenbaum of Houston. The date and location have not been settled on up to this time. There will be several musical numbers by talent equal in their respective numbers to the above array of orators, thus insuring a first-class program. Everybody is invited, bring your friends. It will be a real selfish individual who will anticipate such a rare treat and not ask some friend to come. Date and hall to be announced later.
