THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1897.

THE San Francisco mint reopened Monday. $900,000 of Klondyke gold was offered for coinage.

SOME of the Klondyke argonauts embark via the dog line. It has this advantage, after one is there—he can eat his line.

THE Indian, Mense, who murdered seven white men on the Big Colorado river a few months ago, was killed in Nevada. He was killed by Indians.

THE new Board of Control met Monday. Only routine business was transacted, the matter of the branch insane asylum improvements not being considered.

SENATOR ALLEN of Nebraska is one of the hardest working members. He commences early and quits late every day. There are no purer men in public life than Mr. Allen, and but few abler.

THE three principal prize-fight clubs in San Francisco are promising a "fight trust." It will soon be so that even a Frisco church choir cannot pull off a disturbance without getting permission of the sporting magnates.

JUSTICE too often stands "like a painted Jove, with idle thunder in his uplifted hands," and instead of issuing instant lightning, smiting and blasting in their crash, it nods and simpers in sentimental sycophantic acquiescence.

THE agent of a Picnic Grove at La Porte, Texas, advertises that "never yet has there been a kiss stolen beneath the umbrageous boughs of our sylvan resort that wasn't immediately replevied by the victim." We pass up the Klondyke for Texas. There are some things to be preferred to great riches.

ANOTHER important educational institution is about to be opened in the East. The Cosmopolitan Magazine is its founder, and tuition to the ambitious seeker after knowledge will be free to all. There is no limit to the good that such a liberal spirit as guides the destiny of the Cosmopolitan can do.

A DISPATCH from Phoenix, dated August 3, says: Plans have been perfected for a railroad to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and the construction is to begin soon from a point on the Santa Fe Pacific at Flagstaff or Williams. A tenth of the capital stock, $1,000,000, is already in hand and the bonds of the proposed road are being placed in the east.

THE APPOINTMENTS.

The first appointment made by the new Governor was that of Eldredge Jordan to be private secretary. Then followed the commissioning of J. L. B. Alexander as a notary public. Judge C. M. Frazier, of the law firm of Street & Frazier, was chosen Attorney-General. Dr. Ira B. Hamblin received the appointment of superintendent of the Territorial Insane Asylum. John W. Dorrington of Yuma, editor of the Sentinel, was made superintendent ent of the Territorial prison. For citizen member of the Board of Control Richard H. Barker was chosen. Mr. Barker is a recent arrival in Arizona and is said to be interested in mining operations in the northern part of the Territory, his family residing in Phoenix.

A. P. Shurman of Mesa is the new Superintendent of Public Instruction; Major R. Allyn Lewis of Phoenix, Adjutant-General of the militia, and Harvey J. Lee, business manager of the Phoenix Republican, clerk of the Board of Control. Eldredge Jordan was appointed secretary of the Board. Col. C. W. Johnston of Phoenix was appointed Territorial Treasurer, and F. T. Aspinwall of Winslow assistant Superintendent of the Territorial prison.

While Coconino county received no pie we are ready to congratulate our sister county, Navajo, on being honored with an appointment. The plum could not have fallen on a more honorable and worthy head in the Republican party than Mr. Aspinwall. All of the above appointees are said to be capable and first-class citizens, and no doubt they will make efficient officers.

THE WATERWORKS.

Bonds Sold and Contractor Jones on His Way Here.

A telegram was received Monday by Attorney J. L. Pearson from J. A. Jones, the waterworks contractor, stating that he would leave on that day for Flagstaff, having sold the bonds and was in a position to carry out his contract with the town of Flagstaff.

Mr. Pearson states that work has been going on for the past ten days in building roads and cutting trails to reach the spring and the pipe-line survey. A considerable force is at work now and the construction is being carried on systematically.

Mr. Jones is expected to arrive here tomorrow, when the guarantee bond will be submitted to the Council for their approval. The pipe-making machinery, which is in Los Angeles packed and ready for shipment, will then be shipped here. Mr. Jones will be on the ground and the construction of the waterworks system will commence in earnest. It is the intention of the contractor to complete the work and have the water pipes in here by the time cold weather sets in. In order to do this an enormous force of men will have to be put to work, but Mr. Pearson states that it will be done at all events.
