Chief Geronimo Dead.

Lawton, Okla., Feb. 17.—Geronimo, the fiercest of all Apache Indian chiefs, died today at Fort Sill, after two days' illness. The chief had been a nominal prisoner for twenty-two years, but this old man whose name has caused thousands of people to tremble, died peacefully of pneumonia, and will be buried by Christian missionaries in the fort cemetery. He professed religion three years ago.

Geronimo's record for bloodshed is probably unequalled in the West. His career of crime extended over three or more decades and covered Arizona, New Mexico and into old Mexico. It is said that in his last raid 76 white men, women and children died; that in 1869-70 his band killed 176; and other records are that between 1856 and 1862, they killed 425.

Geronimo was captured by General Miles forces at Skeleton Canyon, or San Simon Valley, twenty-two years ago. He was imprisoned first in Florida, and has since been confined at military stations in Arizona and Oklahoma. Although an old man, he made a sensational escape a few years ago and walked from Oklahoma to his old stamping grounds in the Apache reservation. He has been kept on the Government pay rolls of late as "Government scout."

The war between Jud Lathrop and the Japan Empire has been raging less fiercely the past few days. It seems now that both parties are tired of the war and are looking anxiously for peace. Should peace be declared it will allow of Lathrop concentrating his forces against the oil trust and the railroads.

The members of the legislature have been getting quite busy of late. A local option bill and an anti gambling bill have passed, and now it seems as if a bill will be passed establishing a railroad commission.

Miss Laura Heward and Mr. Thomas Smithson of Woodruff were married Saturday. The happy pair will make their home in Woodruff.

Mr. Erastus Wakefield came down from Gallup Saturday on business.

Mrs. Burdett has started up a first class restaurant in Holbrook, and is now serving meals any hour of the day. This lady is experienced in the restaurant business and knows how to fix up good things to eat.

The Rev. James Young of Penzance was a Holbrook visitor Sunday. Mr. Young, although a very old man, is hale and hearty as a man of only sixty years.

Asst. Supervisor John Kerr of the grazing department has been looking over conditions in the southern part of the county. He returned to his headquarters in Albuquerque Sunday.

Geronimo, the Apache chief, died in Oklahoma last week at the age of eighty six. This is a strong argument in proof of the fact that the good die young.

Operator H. E. Mann made a flying trip to Winslow during the week.

Some of the boys are quite successful in trapping coyotes and wild cats. Several of the "varmints" have been taking the Allenbaugh ranch.

Sergeant Gibbons of Ft. Apache passed through Holbrook Sunday on his way to Prescott, where he goes for a short visit.

A small detail of men from the signal corps have been looking over the wires between Holbrook and Ft. Apache during the week.

Mr. James Scores has been kept somewhat busy lately moving his fence so as to take in his newly purchased lot.

The sheepmen are rejoicing over the high prices now being paid for wool. Reports from Phoenix show also a fine lamb crop.

Supervisor Alex. J. Mackay of the Sitgrave Forest Reserve was in Holbrook Saturday and Sunday.
