

OFFICIAL PAPER

Cochise County.

No police news to-day.

The thermometer registered 94 degrees to-day.

It is stated that Supt. E. B. Gage of the Grand Central mine, left Boston last night, en route for Tombstone.

The Elite Theater expects a new combination of talent from Silver City in the near future.

Deputy Sheriff Crowley and George Frisk, cattle inspector for this district, took wing for their homes in Wilcox this morning.

Master Arthur Hawkins, messenger of the Western Union, appears to-day equipped in a brand new company uniform which much becomes him.

If you want to know the name of one of Sheriff Hatch's most active and vigilant deputies, ask under Sheriff Reppy or Ben Goodrich.

Two heavily loaded wagons with machinery, tank and other supplies to replace those recently destroyed by fire at one of the watering places on Supervisor White's ranch started out this morning.

Mr. A. Freeman has just completed and placed in position a sign for the Criterion saloon. The background is black, and the lettering in golden script. It is a very artistic piece of workmanship.

A Mexican arrived in camp to-day with the report that a small band of hostiles had been seen at the mouth of the Bisbee canyon. The report up to the hour of going to press lacks confirmation.

Jack Doling has leased the Delta saloon formerly run by the Isaacs, and will reopen it to-morrow evening. Jack is one of the wisest saloon men in town, and will no doubt make the new venture a success.

Since the opening up of the Emerald mine, water has been pumped to it from the Grand Central. The recent destruction of the works on the latter mine, necessitates a new water supply for the Emerald, and a gang of men were put to work this morning digging a ditch for a pipe line from the Huachuca water works to the mine.

Mr. Adam Berg who has been out on the San Bernardino ranch for several days, receiving from John Slaughter's herd a couple of train loads of cattle for the Kansas City market, returned to-day. As previously stated, the cattle will be driven up through the Sulphur Spring valley, and shipped from Wilcox.

Every household is liable to be visited by sudden sickness. Often it occurs in the night, distant from the doctor, nothing in the house to give relief, the patient is sure to get worse. A box of Ayer's Pills, in such an emergency, would arrest disorders which, if not taken in season, may become deadly.

The fire in the main shaft of the Grand Central mine is reported to have been extinguished early this morning, and an effort was probably made by Foreman Leach to enter it from the other workings to discover the amount of damage. Rumor has it, the cage which was thought to have dropped to the sump, caught on the 300-foot level and that the shaft is filled by caves from that point to the bottom.

From Deputy Collector Wilson, who has recently returned from Tucson, it is learned that after the disengagement of the jury in the case of the United States vs. Godfrey Tribble, charged with selling liquor without a license, he was arrested on a charge of smuggling mesquite; and upon being taken before the U. S. Court Commissioner was bound over to await the action of the grand jury in October next. The penalty in case of conviction is said to be from three to five years in the penitentiary; a fine of from $3,000 to $5,000, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Parties have recently taken hold of the celebrated Lost Basin gold property in Mohave county, and will spend from $150,000 to $200,000 in building a mill and developing the mine. From all reports received of these mines they will prove a bonanza to their owners who expect to have everything completed ready for operation within ninety days.

The Other Side. Mike McGloin, whom it will be remembered was shot by Dick Richards at a ranch in the Dragoons, a few days since, arrived in camp last night. In conversation with a Daily Tomstone reporter, he tells a story of the occurrence which differs materially from that related by Richards. He admits having talked roughly to Richards, but claims that the latter was robbing him in the division of the cattle, and that being powerless to prevent it, he became so incensed, that he could not help it. At the time of the shooting he says that he was armed with a six-shooter, but was rendered powerless to use it, from being left handed and Richards striking him over the left arm at the elbow, disabling it. The arm was shown the reporter, and found to be still terribly swollen and frightfully discolored. He farther states, that it was not until struck as mentioned, that he attempted to get a rock to throw at Richards, at which time the latter fired at him with his six-shooter, the ball striking him above the right eye. He claims that Richards' statement, that he refused to allow him to procure a physician is not true, and that Richards and party left him alone on the ranch, not knowing whether he would live or die. Shortly after their departure, his horse came up, and although weak from loss of blood and his other injuries, he managed to saddle it, and ride to a camp of soldiers not far distant. From thence he went to Fort Bowie where his wounds were dressed by the post surgeon. The wound in the head is very sore and painful. Such in brief is the story told by McGloin. Readers have now had both sides; Richards' story having been published a day or two since, and can draw their own conclusions.

Assaulted an Officer. Deputy Sheriff Crowley arrived in camp last night leaving in charge a prisoner named Frank Graham, who was sent up by Justice Nichols, to the county jail for thirty days for an assault and battery on the Deputy Sheriff. The cause of the arrest is detailed by the officer as follows: A telegram from Hansen notifying him to be on the lookout for Graham, who was wanted there for rolling a man named Kerr, and robbing him of $54 was received, and when the train arrived Crowley boarded it, and found his man. The latter demurred to being arrested, and upon the officer insisting, struck him a violent blow in the face, and was preparing to follow it up, whereupon the officer covered him with a forty-five, and he surrendered. The warrant charging him with grand larceny was turned over to the sheriff, and his examination on that charge will probably take place probably in Tombstone.

Memorial Day Program. The program for Memorial Day services has not yet been fully arranged, and will not be completed until the meeting of the Grand Army Post to-morrow night. The following, however, in relation to it, was learned this morning. A. L. Crew, Post Post-Commander was selected as grand marshal, Colonel Herring as orator, and Mr. Frank C. Prescott as poet. The G. A. R. and other societies will assemble at or about Schieffelin Hall, and march from thence to the cemetery where ceremony of decking with flowers the graves of fallen comrades who were the blue will take place. Upon return the procession will disband. The other exercises connected with the observance of the day, will take place at Schieffelin Hall in the evening, and include an oration, poem recitations, songs and tableaux.

The Model Man. He don't play the fiddle, part his hair in the middle, nor dress like an Angolan dade. When he goes to a party with Meigs or Mullins, he never is noisy and rude; He lives in frugality and sweet conjugalty, and whitts pie bits two times a day; He never eats onions nor treats on your business, nor grows when you get in his way; He's wise and he's witty, persevering and gritty, and has a magnificent beard; He's all light and sweetness, he's thorough completeness, he's perfection in short-but he's head!

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

War Among the Wallapai Indians.

Five Indians Killed and Several Wounded so Far.

A Row Over a Squaw the Cause of the Whole Trouble.

A correspondent of the Mohave Miner gives the following graphic account of a recent killing among the Wallapai:

Early this morning our quiet camp was aroused by the sound of several rifle shots at the Indian camp nearby. Half an hour later other shots were heard in quick succession, and excited Indians were seen running in every direction. It being about 6 a. m., when most of the miners were on their way to work, about twenty of them went down to the Indian camp to investigate. On arriving at the camp they found a terrible state of affairs, two of the Indians having been killed and four others wounded. Those killed outright were a buck who went by the name of Ah Quinthe (this is as near as I can come to spelling it) and his squaw, who was a daughter of Chief Love-Love. An other buck, McCarty, was shot through the body, as was also another of Love-Love's daughters, a big squaw named Kate. Both of these are mortally wounded and will die in a few hours. Another squaw had received two balls in her legs, one of which had shattered the ankle bone, and the other had ploughed a furrow from the ankle to the knee, laying the flesh open to the bone. This one will probably die, but with proper care ought to recover. Another was wounded, but not dangerously.

From what I can learn the trouble originated from jealousy, a squaw being the cause of it all. The Indian who did the killing went by the name of Fitzer, and has been in the employ of Sheriff Steen more or less of the time for the last three or four years, though for the last month he has been working for Ches. Ellbee. The shooting was done with a Winchester rifle, some 20 or 25 shots being fired in all. The whole tribe is gathering and more trouble will be up soon, as of course the Indians must have revenge, and revenge with them means retaliation and at least a life for a life. The murderer has fled, but is being pursued by three mounted Indians armed with Winchester rifles, and others are starting out every few minutes to join in the pursuit. As the killed and wounded belong to three different bands or captains I think the end is not yet.

At 2 p. m. the two dead Indians were carried to the side of a mountain where wood was plenty, and their bodies cremated. Both doctors are here, the one from Kingman arriving soon after the one from the Park. They came, I believe, at the request of Mr. R. W. Marsh, who I suppose will be required to foot their bills, and probably the county will be called on for additional pay. There is a good deal of discussion over the occurrence, and I hear many remarks such as these: "Where is the Deputy U. S. Marshal? There is a fine chance for him to get in some fees and mileage." "I wonder if the county will be held for the cost of criminal prosecutions?" "The county officials had better let the Indians manage their own affairs." These and other remarks of a similar nature show the drift of public opinion on the Hill.

Since writing the above, Chief Sarum has arrived, and immediately issued orders to the tribe to kill all the relatives of the murderer in retaliation, and the squaws and little ones have already started out for the hills to hide themselves. On Friday evening, the squaw Kate died, and the Indian McCarty Saturday morning, and both were cremated at noon to-day. After Chief Sarum had ordered all the relatives of the murdered killed yesterday, many of them sought protection and hiding places in the miners' cabins. After (with the miners' intercession) and told his highness that they would not allow his orders to be carried out and that he must countermand them at once, which he very reluctantly did, but issued fresh orders to bring in the murderer at any cost. At least ten well-armed Indians started in pursuit yesterday, and followed his tracks for several miles into the Wallapai valley until darkness compelled them to desist. They then came back to camp for water, food and fresh horses, and at 2 a. m. started for the place where they had left the tracks the evening before. After following them about twelve miles further they came upon the dead body of the murderer. It seems that he had run his horse the entire distance, and it being very warm the horse gave out. He then killed the horse, and placing the muzzle of his rifle to his right eye, fired, the ball literally tearing the top of his head off.

The pursuing Indians returned about 2 p. m. to-day, and as soon as the rest of the Indians learned the news they started for their camps, the crying soon dried up, and quiet was once more restored. The Indians say that Sarum has given orders for a big powwow at Canyon Station to-morrow, and whether any further action will be taken in the matter will depend on the results of that meeting.

White Mountain Apaches.

Special advices from Winslow say: Reports have reached Winslow from some of the Aztec Cattle Company men, who have a camp on the north line of the Apache reservation, about forty-five miles southwest of Holbrook, that the Indians are getting restless and a band has left their reservation, coming north. These Indians entered the Aztec company's camp, and stole some provisions and ammunition. They were seen by the cowboys who followed them some distance and had a scrimmage with them and recovered the property. It is feared by the people of Apache county, that if these Indians come north they may incite the Navajos to join them in a campaign of rapine and murder. Major Warren, general manager of the Aztec company, is very uneasy and left for the scene of trouble this morning.

The attention of the city council is called to the fact that Resene Hose Co. has no place in which to wash the hose after the fire. It will not do to wash it on the sidewalk in front of the city hall as the water runs down into the basement and also into the cellar of the P. pago store. If a platform could be built about 55 feet long and about six feet wide and placed in the adjacent lot the problem would be solved, and at a very little expense. Sabe.

The Maxwell Case.

St. Louis May 27—Fountainery for the defense in the Peller case commenced his opening address to the jury to-day. He stated that he wished to impress them with the fact that no one knew how Peller came to his death except defendant and that he proposed to disclose to the jury all the circumstances attending it. After stating the manner in which Peller and the defendant became acquainted and the closeness of their friendship, he then stated that the defendant intended to prove that Peller was suffering from strychnine and that defendant had fishy undertook to remove it. Defendant was unwilling to perform the operation alone but Peller did not wish the nature of his ailment to be known and insisted that Maxwell should perform the operation to relieve his pain. He gave him chloroform but in too large a quantity. Death resulted. Maxwell was placed on the stand; he showed little evidence of feeling though there was some degree of nervousness both on his face and hands. The witness in reply to questions made by Fountainery stated in substance as follows: My full name is H. M. Brooks, I am 25 years old; born in Hyde County England; I studied medicine and surgery in a college in school at Manchester but I am no licensed physician; I first met Peller at the Northwestern hotel at Liverpool but did not get acquainted with him until I met him on board of the steamer Cephalonia. Mr. Peller and I were both Englishmen coming to a strange land and our acquaintance ripened into a warm friendship.

Earthquake Shocks.

SAN FRANCISCO May 27—This evening at 10:30 a dull rumbling sound was heard, followed by several severe earthquake shocks from north to south lasting fully ten seconds. The vibrations were much severer than those this morning. No damage however has been reported.

Losers and Winners.

CHICAGO May 27—Some of the big operators and not a few brokers have figured it out that "Uncle" Phil Armour is one of the big losers in the great decline in wheat. According to their calculations he began to buy the market at 97c, or thereabouts and closed out and gave up the efforts at 80c, and below. As he was not dealing in small amounts they conclude that the fellows who were on the other side have got a handsome slice of his money. Just how handsome this slice is opinion differs, but most of them put it up to seven figures and believe it represents more than he made in St. Paul a year ago, and some say twice as much. As it is a very unusual thing for the great packer to get on the wrong side the other fellows are feeling very good over it at present.

The fellows who gathered in the lions share of the sums lost by those who have tried to buy the market since it went below $1 are N. B. Ream, Charles Schwartz, Edward Padrige, (the dry goods merchant) Carey Singer and John Cudahy. Of these Ream, Padrige and Cudahy have been the biggest gamblers.

Besides Armour the biggest losers, have been N. L. Jones, Plankinton, and the Minneapolis millers, Pillsbury, Hillard, Holmes and Barnes.

Here is Your Help.

Among the arguments used by those who are willing that the Chinese should go but who want them to remain a little longer, is this, "How can we get our washing done." Any argument on this question is solved by this answer: "Purchase an A. No. 1 LITTLE JOKER WASHING MACHINE." This machine is light and simple, cheap and durable, so simple that a child or a weakly or sickly woman can run it without exertion. It saves time in fact a large family wash can be put out in two hours. It washes clean and does not wear out your clothes.
