Mr. Hartwell is an artist of rare skill and ability and his work will not suffer by comparison with that of the metropolitan centers of the country. Besides all this, Mr. Hartwell is socially a pleasant gentleman and the city of Phoenix is lucky to secure such a good and useful citizen.

Mr. P. P. Bambrick has completed the well at De Noon he was boring for O'Donnell & Ferguson on their townsite. He struck plenty of good water at 175 feet, sufficient for all domestic purposes of the camp. In sinking the drill passed through a body of over one hundred feet from the surface, its character being almost identical with the manganese ore of the Reymont mine.

Pete Matthews, a demented resident of Pima county who was sent to the insane asylum a year ago, arrived in Florence last Saturday, having escaped from the asylum. He was found to be still laboring under his peculiar hallucination and was locked up in the county jail pending the arrival of an asylum official to take him back. He stated that he was ungrateful at the asylum and walked away without molestation whatever.

The Mountain Queen mine, south of the Vekol, owned by Messrs. Eastman, Scolari and Minshall, has been worked during the past five years at odd times and a considerable amount of development work has been done. Its owners are now preparing to start a new tunnel below the old workings which will reach the ledge at a depth of several hundred feet below the surface croppings. It is believed that this mine will develop into a splendid property when the present plans for its exploitation are carried out.

Another of the late Frank C. Minshall is expected to arrive in Casa Grande in a short time to look after the interest of the estate.

Just received a fine lot of lawns, gingham, seersuckers, etc., at Wildman & Co.'s.

Father Genesee came up from Fort Yuma last Saturday and spent Sunday with Father Monfort of this place. The reverend gentleman has been stationed at Yuma for the past year assisting the Sisters in their Indian school in the government buildings across the river at the old fort. He despairs of achieving any success with the incorrigible natives which are now existing in the tribe, and he considers his time wasted in that field. It is his opinion that better results can be accomplished if the Indians are removed away from the corrupsions of the world, the members of the tribe and taught the lessons of morality in connection with their other studies. Messrs. Genesee and Monfort went to Yuma Tuesday to confer with Bishop Caspari.

Go to Wildman & Co. for your dry goods and groceries.

TALKING IN SLANG. She was a Boston maid of high degree. With eyes for the diamonds she sought. And just such pointing lips as seem to me The time invites.

"It does one good to see this spot," said I. "Then weary of the city's hum and bust. She sees a man who looks as though he might be a 'What's his name?'"

"This 'sylvan spot,' then softly I averred. 'The foot of man seems almost to tinkle. Her voice came, sweet as notes of woodland bird. 'Well, I should smile.'"

"The balmy breeze whispering overhead With such enchanting softness kisses the brow In tones of liquid melody she said to me: 'You're a real now!'"

"And have you noticed, fair one, how each bird Seems here to choose its sweetest vocal gem? I dwell in rapture on her every word. 'Oh, yes, she does.'"

"And now the leaves like moving emeralds seem, When in response to the sweet breeze they shake. Her voice came soft as echo from a dream: 'They take the cake.'"

"Do not wander out to a sylvan spot. The dreamy sense of quietude to seek? Softly she said: 'Well, I take a lot. 'Bout once a week.'"

In converse sweet I lingered by her side, And felt that there forever I could dwell, And as I gazed I heard her cry: 'So long, old fellow.'"

I was not captured by her love so rich, Nor with her lovely face, so fresh and young. But with the sweet dexterity with which Her slang she used. —New York Citizen.
