

BUCKLEY'S COHORTS.

They Display Their Broken Heads and Black Eyes.

Contests Over the Election of Precinct Club Officers—The Prohibitionists Rally Their Nominees.

There was an exhibition of black eyes and an array of abrasions and contusions at the meeting of the Democratic County Committee last night such as might have graced the closing hours of the Donnybrook Fair.

They were presented to the gaze of the assembled committee in evidence of the devotion with which they had clung to the tenets of the party.

In fact it was wash day with the local Democracy and their soiled linen was flung to the breeze.

The meeting of the committee was for the purpose of listening to the protests which have been filed in a number of precincts on the part of those who claim to have been unfairly dealt with.

It was claimed that the election had been unfairly carried by the introduction of what James Smith denominated a lot of "stuffers and bulldozers from Sixth street."

There were five or six men on the side, and the matter was adjusted by the appointment of a committee to superintend the holding of a new election.

It was decided that the election should be held in the same place as the one which was charged, had existed, and the same remedy was applied as in the first case.

There was a great deal of talk about the fact that any one who had been unfairly dealt with should be allowed to have a new election.

It was stated in rebuttal that the room was small, but he considered it as good as a Democrat could expect.

On motion of Committee C. A. Buckley, a new election was provided for.

The Forty-eighth District came to the front again with a contest in the Third Precinct, and two brothers named Burke were placed on the stand.

Both had their eyes bruised in morning and stated that they had been unfairly dealt with in the election.

Mr. Martinet, a lanky youth, wished to state that he was the defendant in the case, and that when he had done this he made a pretense of opening the enrollment.

Mr. Hogan stated in rebuttal that the room was small, but he considered it as good as a Democrat could expect.

On motion of Committee C. A. Buckley, a new election was ordered and a committee appointed for that purpose.

It transpired also that there had been trouble out in the Forty-third District, and about claimed that the election had been resorted to.

The election had been held in a dingy office, that looked like a Chinese wash-house, and was proposed to move to a more desirable place.

Mr. Martinet, a lanky youth, wished to state that he was the defendant in the case, and that when he had done this he made a pretense of opening the enrollment.

Mr. Hogan stated in rebuttal that the room was small, but he considered it as good as a Democrat could expect.

On motion of Committee C. A. Buckley, a new election was ordered and a committee appointed for that purpose.

It transpired also that there had been trouble out in the Forty-third District, and about claimed that the election had been resorted to.

The election had been held in a dingy office, that looked like a Chinese wash-house, and was proposed to move to a more desirable place.

Mr. Martinet, a lanky youth, wished to state that he was the defendant in the case, and that when he had done this he made a pretense of opening the enrollment.

Mr. Hogan stated in rebuttal that the room was small, but he considered it as good as a Democrat could expect.

On motion of Committee C. A. Buckley, a new election was ordered and a committee appointed for that purpose.

It transpired also that there had been trouble out in the Forty-third District, and about claimed that the election had been resorted to.

LABOR'S DOMAIN.

Jubilant in the Ranks of the Union Molders.

Six Men Secured From the Risdon Works and One From the Union—Molers Still Holding Out.

At noon yesterday six of the molders who have for five weeks been employed in the molding department of the Risdon Iron Works laid aside their implements of industry and quit their employment.

They passed out through the business office and into the street, where they were met by President Valentine of the Molders' Union.

The incident caused a thrill of enthusiasm to pass through the strikers' ranks, such as has not been felt for many a day since the strike began.

The successful enforcement of six good molders who had been imported by the Foundrymen's Association was considered a master stroke.

As soon as it became known among the foundrymen that six men had deserted the Risdon shops there was a ripple of excitement, but it soon died away.

Later in the afternoon Manager Moore of the Risdon works was in his office. He wore his usual good-natured smile, but he was evidently annoyed at the action of the men.

"Oh, we expected it," he said, when asked about the desertion of the six men. "I do not think we have twelve good men yet in the shop, who can handle our cylinders."

Up to yesterday there were two boss carpenters who refused to grant the eight-hour privilege, J. B. Gonyea and O. E. White.

Yesterday Mr. Gonyea announced that he would get more men. The other two went out were of a roving disposition and could not be induced to stay long in the shop.

"I suppose they wanted to come out," he said, "they stayed as long as they intended to stay, and then they went out in their services. We are still on the earth, however, and intend to remain here."

One of the men who had deserted, Henry Parkes, in whose behalf a writ of habeas corpus was sued several weeks ago, but who was refused to leave his employment.

Thereby caused the writ to be dismissed. The chairman of the union, Mr. J. J. Kelly, yesterday night by the door of the Risdon works to the street, where he was arrested by six men.

He was taken to the jail, where he was held until the union rankers as Collins, Snedler, Morrill, Faich and Alister.

Through the day they were entertained by the union men at the headquarters, and it was there that the reporter first saw Kelly in a dark room.

"I have been at the Risdon Works six weeks," he said, "and during that entire time I have been treated as a prisoner."

"Why did you not come out before?" "I would have done so had I not been told to stay."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

LABOR'S DOMAIN.

Jubilant in the Ranks of the Union Molders.

Six Men Secured From the Risdon Works and One From the Union—Molers Still Holding Out.

At noon yesterday six of the molders who have for five weeks been employed in the molding department of the Risdon Iron Works laid aside their implements of industry and quit their employment.

They passed out through the business office and into the street, where they were met by President Valentine of the Molders' Union.

The incident caused a thrill of enthusiasm to pass through the strikers' ranks, such as has not been felt for many a day since the strike began.

The successful enforcement of six good molders who had been imported by the Foundrymen's Association was considered a master stroke.

As soon as it became known among the foundrymen that six men had deserted the Risdon shops there was a ripple of excitement, but it soon died away.

Later in the afternoon Manager Moore of the Risdon works was in his office. He wore his usual good-natured smile, but he was evidently annoyed at the action of the men.

"Oh, we expected it," he said, when asked about the desertion of the six men. "I do not think we have twelve good men yet in the shop, who can handle our cylinders."

Up to yesterday there were two boss carpenters who refused to grant the eight-hour privilege, J. B. Gonyea and O. E. White.

Yesterday Mr. Gonyea announced that he would get more men. The other two went out were of a roving disposition and could not be induced to stay long in the shop.

"I suppose they wanted to come out," he said, "they stayed as long as they intended to stay, and then they went out in their services. We are still on the earth, however, and intend to remain here."

One of the men who had deserted, Henry Parkes, in whose behalf a writ of habeas corpus was sued several weeks ago, but who was refused to leave his employment.

Thereby caused the writ to be dismissed. The chairman of the union, Mr. J. J. Kelly, yesterday night by the door of the Risdon works to the street, where he was arrested by six men.

He was taken to the jail, where he was held until the union rankers as Collins, Snedler, Morrill, Faich and Alister.

Through the day they were entertained by the union men at the headquarters, and it was there that the reporter first saw Kelly in a dark room.

"I have been at the Risdon Works six weeks," he said, "and during that entire time I have been treated as a prisoner."

"Why did you not come out before?" "I would have done so had I not been told to stay."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

LABOR'S DOMAIN.

Jubilant in the Ranks of the Union Molders.

Six Men Secured From the Risdon Works and One From the Union—Molers Still Holding Out.

At noon yesterday six of the molders who have for five weeks been employed in the molding department of the Risdon Iron Works laid aside their implements of industry and quit their employment.

They passed out through the business office and into the street, where they were met by President Valentine of the Molders' Union.

The incident caused a thrill of enthusiasm to pass through the strikers' ranks, such as has not been felt for many a day since the strike began.

The successful enforcement of six good molders who had been imported by the Foundrymen's Association was considered a master stroke.

As soon as it became known among the foundrymen that six men had deserted the Risdon shops there was a ripple of excitement, but it soon died away.

Later in the afternoon Manager Moore of the Risdon works was in his office. He wore his usual good-natured smile, but he was evidently annoyed at the action of the men.

"Oh, we expected it," he said, when asked about the desertion of the six men. "I do not think we have twelve good men yet in the shop, who can handle our cylinders."

Up to yesterday there were two boss carpenters who refused to grant the eight-hour privilege, J. B. Gonyea and O. E. White.

Yesterday Mr. Gonyea announced that he would get more men. The other two went out were of a roving disposition and could not be induced to stay long in the shop.

"I suppose they wanted to come out," he said, "they stayed as long as they intended to stay, and then they went out in their services. We are still on the earth, however, and intend to remain here."

One of the men who had deserted, Henry Parkes, in whose behalf a writ of habeas corpus was sued several weeks ago, but who was refused to leave his employment.

Thereby caused the writ to be dismissed. The chairman of the union, Mr. J. J. Kelly, yesterday night by the door of the Risdon works to the street, where he was arrested by six men.

He was taken to the jail, where he was held until the union rankers as Collins, Snedler, Morrill, Faich and Alister.

Through the day they were entertained by the union men at the headquarters, and it was there that the reporter first saw Kelly in a dark room.

"I have been at the Risdon Works six weeks," he said, "and during that entire time I have been treated as a prisoner."

"Why did you not come out before?" "I would have done so had I not been told to stay."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

"What do you think of the situation at the mill?" "I think it is a bad one."

"They cannot get along without us, unless they get good men. They only have four men left in the shop."

MEXICAN VETERANS.

Honors Paid by the Old Soldiers to General Miles.

A Gold Badge Presented—The War Situation. Election of Officers and Etc.

The annual meeting of the Associated Veterans of the Mexican War was held at 22 of Farrel street last night, with President W. C. Burnett in the chair.

The annual reports of the Treasurer and Secretary were presented and referred to the Board of Trustees, to be read at the next meeting.

An election of officers to serve for the coming year was then held and resulted as follows: President, A. Andrews; Vice-President, E. H. Engelberg; Secretary, S. J. Loope; Treasurer, J. H. Martel; Marshal, William G. Lee; Trustees—Charles Lange, J. K. Knappe, John M. Adams, J. H. Adams, Josiah Bender.

The newly elected officers will be installed at the next meeting of the society, which is fixed for the 15th inst.

A delegation of leading veterans was then appointed to escort Major-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., into the hall.

The General was loudly cheered when he made his appearance and took his seat on the right of the President, who, in a highly complimentary speech, introduced this soldier to the meeting.

During the evening General Miles' record during the civil war was the subject of the evening's talk, and the General was entirely due to General Miles' efforts that the country was saved.

It was necessary to stir them up continually instead of letting them do as they pleased, and the General was the equal of any General who had ever lived.

It was a great honor to have the General here, and he was presented to General Miles with the best wishes of the veterans, and he was declared elected an honorary member of the society.

GENERAL MILES IN RESPONSE. I am very glad to have expressed his appreciation of the honors bestowed on him. He alluded very happily to his recollections of the Mexican war, and the deeds done by the veterans during the Mexican war and then glancing at the Mexican war and then glancing at the deeds done by the veterans during the Mexican war.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

MEXICAN VETERANS.

Honors Paid by the Old Soldiers to General Miles.

A Gold Badge Presented—The War Situation. Election of Officers and Etc.

The annual meeting of the Associated Veterans of the Mexican War was held at 22 of Farrel street last night, with President W. C. Burnett in the chair.

The annual reports of the Treasurer and Secretary were presented and referred to the Board of Trustees, to be read at the next meeting.

An election of officers to serve for the coming year was then held and resulted as follows: President, A. Andrews; Vice-President, E. H. Engelberg; Secretary, S. J. Loope; Treasurer, J. H. Martel; Marshal, William G. Lee; Trustees—Charles Lange, J. K. Knappe, John M. Adams, J. H. Adams, Josiah Bender.

The newly elected officers will be installed at the next meeting of the society, which is fixed for the 15th inst.

A delegation of leading veterans was then appointed to escort Major-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., into the hall.

The General was loudly cheered when he made his appearance and took his seat on the right of the President, who, in a highly complimentary speech, introduced this soldier to the meeting.

During the evening General Miles' record during the civil war was the subject of the evening's talk, and the General was entirely due to General Miles' efforts that the country was saved.

It was necessary to stir them up continually instead of letting them do as they pleased, and the General was the equal of any General who had ever lived.

It was a great honor to have the General here, and he was presented to General Miles with the best wishes of the veterans, and he was declared elected an honorary member of the society.

GENERAL MILES IN RESPONSE. I am very glad to have expressed his appreciation of the honors bestowed on him. He alluded very happily to his recollections of the Mexican war, and the deeds done by the veterans during the Mexican war and then glancing at the deeds done by the veterans during the Mexican war.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in the ranks of the army in 1847.

He said he entered the ranks of the army in 1847, and was in