Won by a Baby.

Happy Termination of a Pretty Romance at Boston.

Boston, May 19.—A happy romance, which would have proved a sad tragedy but for a crowing sweet-faced baby, one of the principal actors in the drama with whom she was connected, the Chardon-street home for wanderers. It was the marriage of William Bruce, a sturdy young Scotchman, who has been in the city for some time, by the pearl-like tears she shed during the ceremony, which a Presbyterian divine performed. The pair have a history. Young Bruce came to the city some two years ago to seek his fortune, leaving behind him a wife and a young daughter, who had been placed in the hands of a nurse. Bruce's love was for a time and was patient until he could build her a home in the New World and tell her to come and join him.

THE WAITE CASE.

Judge Field Explains His Connection With It.

A Magazine Article That "Was a Reflection Upon the Administration."

Impossible to Have Secured the Confirmation of the Appointment—Proceedings of Congress.

Special by the California Associated Press.

Associated Press, May 19.—A California Associated Press article called today upon Judge Field and asked him what he had to say in reference to the withdrawal of Waite's nomination, and whether he had done anything about it. The Judge replied: "When Waite's nomination for Register was made, I headed to a Senator an article written by Waite in the Overland Monthly of October, entitled of the late David C. Terry. Much surprise was expressed by the Senator at the tenor of the article, the Senator stating that it was a reflection upon the Administration in designating the Marshal to protect Judge Sawyer and myself from murdering assassins, a man of sterling integrity and high principles and pure character, having honorable purposes of action."
