

MARKHAM'S CANVASS.

Enthusiastic Reception in South San Francisco.

John E. Reddick's First Appearance Here.

Morrow's Success Not Yet Decided Upon.

A Republican Conference.

Harmony Hall, at the corner of Mission and Erie streets, was jammed last night with an enthusiastic crowd to welcome Colonel Markham and John E. Reddick. Every seat was occupied and every foot of standing room was pre-empted by those anxious to see and hear the next Governor of California. The crowd was fully as enthusiastic as any that has thus far attended the Republican meetings, and the sentiments of the various speakers was cheered to the echo.

At 8 o'clock prominent Colonel Markham, John E. Reddick and Hon. J. W. Moorehouse alighted from a carriage and were escorted into the hall. They were instantly recognized and a chorus of cheers was given to the tall Pasadena and "Honest John of Calaveras." A moment later some one proposed three cheers for the entire ticket, which were given with a will.

The hand plied "Hail to the Chief," and the distinguished guests were invited to seats on the platform, and George Wentworth mentioned in every foot of standing room in which he referred to the bright outlook for the Republican party. He closed by introducing John D. Spreckels as the President of the evening.

Mr. Spreckels was greeted with applause, and created a tumult of applause by introducing at one Colonel Markham, who was warmly received by the cheering throng.

The Colonel complimented the people of South San Francisco on their reputation for upholding Republicanism, and told them that he had great hopes that he might be given the privilege of meeting each one present personally.

He then discussed the issues at stake in the campaign and gave way to John H. Reddick, the candidate for Lieutenant Governor. He told particular attention to the fact that the Democracy had failed to make any expressions concerning the public schools of the various counties, and that the inconsistency of the party on the silver question.

He followed by H. V. Moorehouse, who related a curious dream he had had, which he said was a prophecy of the success of his action in nominating Ford.

PRESIDENTIAL BOARDS.

Registrar Smiley reported to the Election Commissioners yesterday that the tally sheet for the ensuing election had been decided upon. It is very complete in its design, and by its aid, together with the fact that the precincts are so much smaller than formerly, there is little doubt but that the returns of the city will be completed before midnight following the day of election.

The chief labor of the commission yesterday was to examine and qualify the assistants of the registrars, and to divide the city into precincts. The work was completed with the exception of a few precincts, and the registrars were sworn in.

Nothing remained but to go back and qualify the assistants, and to divide the city into precincts or those first named who could not serve. Among the list of eligible names are: J. W. Moorehouse, J. E. Reddick, and others.

Mr. Smiley said he had looked into the case carefully, and he is satisfied that the result of the election will be in favor of the Democrats by some thirty or forty votes.

Mr. Smiley said he had looked into the case carefully, and he is satisfied that the result of the election will be in favor of the Democrats by some thirty or forty votes.

It was rumored that Mike Smith, ex-county jailer, made the complaint against Collins.

Miss Witherly's case, very similar to that of Collins, was also laid over for further investigation. The applicant is now in the Seventh Precinct of the City and District, where such outrageous frauds were practiced two years ago.

The vacancies still remaining will be filled on Saturday next.

Enthusiastic Mass Meeting at Metropolitan Hall.

Interesting Address by Catholic and Episcopal Clergy—Evils of Intemperance—Proposed Remedies.

Last evening a mass-meeting of five classes devoted to the temperance cause was held at Metropolitan Hall, where a goodly number of ladies as well as gentlemen assembled to show interest in the movement. Promptly at 8 o'clock the Chairman, James R. Kelly, entered upon the stage, followed immediately by Rev. J. S. Sander, pastor of the Episcopal Church and Rev. Father Montgomery of St. Mary's Cathedral, after whom came the Vice-Presidents and other gentlemen who were announced to take part in the proceedings. The reverend gentlemen were both accorded a warm reception by the assemblage, the echoes of which had hardly died away before Bishop Nichols made his way to the platform and renewed applause.

After an organ selection Miss Auld sang a pretty operatic air, at the conclusion of which the Chairman addressed the meeting upon the reasons for their being called together to give expression to their abhorrence of the liquor traffic as it is now conducted and to support the nomination of Rev. J. S. Sander for Mayor.

Mr. Reed on coming forward stated few words in deploring his subject, "The Fatality of Intemperance, or the Use of Intoxicants." In his opening sentence he told his hearers that he had long since furnished 27 bottles for dissection, of which only 1 per cent proved to be in a normal state, and the other 99 per cent showed the existence of various diseases of blood, brain and viscera, and that he had long since furnished 27 bottles, said the speaker, had for years been used as bottles for the storage of all kinds of poisons, and that he had long since furnished the real cause of their death till the scalpel lifted the secret.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Reed entered into a very detailed account of the chemical character of all the various poisons which are contained in the wine, brandy and other strong liquors, and how they act upon the system, and how they act upon the system, and how they act upon the system.

The restriction law has rendered the number of saloons in the city of San Francisco, said the speaker, has for years been used as bottles for the storage of all kinds of poisons, and that he had long since furnished the real cause of their death till the scalpel lifted the secret.
