

MINING BUREAU.

Tenth Annual Report of the State's Mineralogist.

A Geological Survey Urged—Loss by the Discontinuance of Hydraulic Operations. Quicksilver Production.

The tenth annual report of the California State Mining Bureau has been issued by William Hays, and is a volume of 80 pages, nicely bound and profusely illustrated by maps and engravings.

The report is a most valuable compilation from the most authentic sources and defining in color the most important geological characteristics, with the metallic deposits indicated by symbols.

The library and museum of the bureau are reported in excellent condition, and having been greatly augmented since the former annual report by donations and purchases.

Among the recent valuable acquisitions to the museum are collections of old coins and rare specimens of mining agencies.

The register shows that during the year 25,000 persons have visited the museum, an increase over the number of visitors for 1889 of about 7000.

The thirty numbers over 4000 bound volumes, and thousands of pamphlets containing information from standard authorities on mining, geology, chemistry, and physics.

After a brief introduction on the subject of mining and a general consideration of the history of this industry in California, particularly in relation to the gold and silver.

The report also contains a list of the principal mines and a general description of the same, with a list of the principal products.

EMMA ABBOTT.

The Remains of the Songstress in Her Narrow Satin Bed.

In the account of the funeral of the late Emma Abbott, the Chicago Inter Ocean of last Saturday says, after describing the scene at the Union Depot and the removal of the mortal remains to an undertaker's parlors:

The casket displayed when the pine box was opened was a fully decorated coffin, and the mortal remains were laid out in a simple and elegant manner.

CRAFT AN GUILD.

President Gompers on the Brewers' Entanglement.

Barbers Determined on a Strict Journeyman's Union—Installation of Officers—That Strike of the Boys.

An important meeting of the Beer-drivers' Association was held at 1135 Mission street, and the decisive action was taken in the matter of the local Union No. 16, recently organized.

The ultimatum was arrived at, which completely ignores the new national local union, and a resolution was adopted, calling on all members of Union No. 16 to declare themselves in favor of the Brewery Workers' Union by Friday night or be expelled.

Some of the beer-drivers, however, were not in the union which is causing so much excitement and discussion in brewery circles.

Recently resolutions were adopted by the Portland Federated Trades denouncing the granting of a charter by the National Brewers' Union to the scabs employed in a boycotted brewery in that city.

President Fuhrman of the Federated Trades received the following dispatch from President Gompers regarding the National Union:

Telegram came during my absence. Resolutions you refer to were adopted. Have seen them and am glad that they have an effect on the minds of those who are in doubt.

AMATEUR ATHLETICS. Meeting of the Olympic Directors—Billiard Playing.

The Directors of the Olympic Club met last evening at the residence of Mr. E. A. Rix as Vice-President, but appointed him the official representative of the club to the Amateur Athletic Union.

A series of billiard matches were played before the loss fell to the club in having a victory with such a valuable officer. W. E. Holloway was elected to fill the seat left vacant by Mr. Rix.

Mr. Rix, who has been a member of the club since its organization, was elected a Director.

Permission was granted Robert McCord to resign from membership in the Amateur Athletic Club in order to join the Pacific Athletic Club.

It will be remembered that these young aspirants to fame met at the recent tournament in the city of Sacramento.

The second night of the Olympic billiard tournament resulted as follows: First Class—W. E. Holloway, 15; J. W. Clark, 12; J. W. Clark, 12; J. W. Clark, 12.

The Late Dr. Schlemmer. Editor Call: In recent telegraphic correspondence some of your English correspondents discovered that the late Dr. Schlemmer, who explored the site of ancient Troy, was an American citizen.

In reference to this matter permit me to quote from an autobiographical sketch in his book, entitled "Troy," the following:

Some of the best drivers, however, were not in the union which is causing so much excitement and discussion in brewery circles.

Recently resolutions were adopted by the Portland Federated Trades denouncing the granting of a charter by the National Brewers' Union to the scabs employed in a boycotted brewery in that city.

MEN ABOUT TOWN.

Short Stories Gleaned From the Hotel Corridors.

A Duel That Ended in a Tragedy—Eastern Republicans Growing Content.

On the flat roof of a low building in the rear of the Commercial Hotel, on Montgomery street, was fought yesterday a duel to the death between two English sparrows, thoroughbred both of them and game to the backbone, and quite a number of human spectators, watched with eager interest the struggle of the feathered combatants.

The causes which led to the fatal encounter are involved in mystery. Perchance it was the result of an old feud, or it might have grown out of a struggle for the possession of a much-coveted morsel of bread; but the more plausible theory is that the tiny warriors were rivals for the affections of a feathered charmer of their own race.

Whatever may have been the cause, it was sufficient at any rate to rouse the most bitter passions of the antagonists, and the battle that ensued no quarter was asked and none given. From first to last they fought like demons, while a half dozen of their companions perched on different points of vantage to witness the strange struggle and to vigorously chirp words of encouragement to their respective favorites.

The struggle ended in a tragedy, for the smaller bird, who managed to elude many a fierce attack, the larger bird, being so exhausted by the long fight, he was unable to sustain his ground, while his opponent, encouraged by the growing weakness of the defense, proceeded to strangle him with his beak.

It will be remembered that these young aspirants to fame met at the recent tournament in the city of Sacramento.
