

Mr. Le Count will be published in the appended list. Not a few other letters of the same character were received by THE CALL yesterday, but their tenor, excepting the names contributed, was much the same.

E. W. Maslin, the general manager of the State Board of Trade, commended THE CALL's action yesterday.

"It's a splendid thing on the part of a great paper like THE CALL," he said, "to devote its time and space to helping the working people—and by them I mean all classes, whether employes or employers—get an extra holiday.

"It's a patriotic thing, too, I think, and I'm sure many thousands will be greatly benefited by it. Of course the State Board of Trade will close on the 3d. We decided to do that as soon as we had read THE CALL this morning."

"If you don't mind your name on the appended list don't delay about sending it in for publication. It won't cost you much of an effort to do that and your name will do a lot of good. There are a couple of hundred firms who will let their employes have an extra holiday yet to hear from.

And there's no guesswork about this statement, for the banks may still be uncertain, but there's no uncertainty connected with the coming three and a half or four days' holiday soon to be enjoyed by about 7000 clerks and employes in this city.

That is a pretty respectable number to begin with. If it keeps up at this rate there will not be a corporal's guard of open wholesale stores, factories, banks, insurance houses and the like open on Monday, July 3.

Perhaps if you are not a clerk or employe affected by this agitation either way you think it rather small for busy men and a great newspaper to spend so much time and energy in fighting for a single holiday.

Well, those engaged in the agitation do not seem to think so, nor do those who will benefit by the additional holiday. It means a great deal to the latter. It means three days' outing in the woods or mountains or by the seaside. It means three consecutive days in the open air, in the bright sunshine and in a pure, healthy atmosphere, away from the crowds and dust and jostle and bustle of a great city.

It means quiet and rest for the many. It is not really a matter of only one day, though but one day is asked for. Saturday afternoon, Sunday and the Fourth are bound to be holidays to the great majority of people all over the United States.

The question is about the 3d of July, which falls on Monday. Can that be added to the sum total of this little oasis in the midst of a year of indoor life and hard work?

Upon the answer depends much happiness, much rest, recreation, recuperation. And more depends upon it than the immediate good to those directly affected, vastly more. There are a good many wives and children and mothers and sisters and sweethearts to be taken into a just consideration of this question.

FACTS TO GO ON. A Good Prospect of the Midwinter Fair.

VOTED FOR AT A MEETING. The Scheme Assumes a Definite and Practical Form—Organization in View.

After some delay the proposed midwinter fair in Chicago begins to take definite shape. A meeting of citizens from a list of sixty-six, called by the Mayor by the State Board of Trade was held last evening in the Mayor's office, thirty-five gentlemen and two ladies being present, although only six declinations to the invitations issued had been received.

Mayor Eliott called the meeting to order and stated that his object was to determine whether or not a winter fair should be held. The first feeling was against it, but now he thought the tide had turned somewhat. The benefits of the fair could not be estimated at $500,000 or $1,000,000 could be raised.

M. Shanon of Fresno was appointed secretary, the Mayor having consented to act as temporary chairman. A. M. Long asked whether the proposed fair was to be a commercial or a general fair. The answer was that it was to be a general fair, but it was to be a commercial fair in its character.

Mayor Eliott stated in reply that the State Board of Trade advocated a commercial exhibition, but that the Mayor's plan was to be a general fair. He explained by Colonel Andrews that the exhibition would not compete with local trade.

J. C. McAfee of this city made a lucid explanation of the objects of the fair. He said the State Board of Trade had taken up the project after it had fallen rather to the ground here, and he had taken it up and means. It had found a quite general objection to the fair, but this gave way to explanation.

To endeavor to duplicate the World's Fair would be absurd, but the idea was to hold a fair which would bring as many people as possible into the State to enable them to benefit by the fair. It was to be nothing else but a big advertisement of the State—something like the enterprise of "California on wheels," which had done so much for the State.

One pretext to induce them to come would be reduced fares. The railroad had informed the State Board of Trade that it was prepared to meet it or any other organization, having the fair in view on the most generous terms. The road expected to benefit itself thereby, and would make it a condition of the agreement that the railroad should be allowed to sell its tickets at a special rate.

The State Board of Trade was to form a corporation, investing, as at the Chicago fair, a central committee of five with full power to act. It would be called the Californian Columbian Company. The objects of the incorporation would be:

To hold and conduct in the State of California exhibitions of agricultural and mineral products and manufactured and literary articles, and to award prizes for excellence in the same; to erect buildings for such exhibitions; to borrow money and to secure the same by the issuance of bonds or other evidence; to receive contributions from all sources; to receive and disburse the same.

Mr. McAfee moved that the chairman should select a committee of nine to select the five directors with full power to add to their number, fix compensation, etc., their selection to be reported at a subsequent meeting. A. H. H. thought this motion would cut off discussion as to whether or not a fair should be held. He would like to know something about the estimated cost and the estimated receipts, and the cost to be obtained. The Mayor favored his idea.

E. J. McLoughlin having asked whether information had been received in Chicago as to what exhibits could be brought here, the secretary read some communications on the subject. Among them was the following: Mr. Corneily—DEAR SIR: Hearing of your proposition to have a Midwinter Commercial Exposition at San Francisco, I have the honor to inform you that I am willing to give you all my personal collection and also that of my colleagues.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN.

Mrs. PATTEN'S WILL.—The will of Hannah M. Patten has been filed for probate. The estate consists of money in the bank and real property valued at $100,000. Bequests are made as follows: To G. L. Patten, deceased's house and lot on Sacramento street; to the Laura Kendall Home, $500; to Royer Patten, $500; to G. L. Patten, $2000; to the Day Nursery of Lowell, Mass., $500; some jewelry to Bessie Rowell and Mrs. L. N. Blake, and the income of the balance of the estate to the care of deceased's plat in Masonic Cemetery.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR EXCURSION.—The Society of Christian Endeavor excursion to the World's Fair left at 5 o'clock last evening. There were four tourist coaches and two first-class cars in the train, with 120 excursionists aboard. This morning five tourist cars of the Phillips excursion system will take 110 persons to Chicago.

THE HOWELL CASE.—To-day in the United States District Court the case of M. D. Howell of Stockton, who is charged with counterfeiting, will be called. This case has frequently been postponed, but both sides have indicated that they are now ready for trial.

PERSONAL NOTES. Dr. N. Sposato of Stockton is at the Grand. C. H. Ramsey, a grain merchant of Vallejo, is at the Baldwin. Judge A. P. Overton of Santa Rosa is in the city. W. Murray, a prominent stock-raiser of Pleasanton, is at the Grand. Lewis D. Wallenstein, a banker of New York City, is at the Baldwin. G. M. Batchler, a prominent Chicago railroad man, is at the Baldwin. Assemblyman W. P. Mathews of Tehama is registered at the Grand. C. J. Ainsworth, a wealthy New York wholesale merchant, is at the Baldwin. A. E. Sage of San Jose, a prominent real estate man, is registered at the Baldwin. John Stanton, a brother of Supervisor Stanton, M.D., returned Monday from Los Angeles, where he had been for some years studying art. John Mulcahey of New Orleans, a prominent mining man, is at the Occidental. He will leave by the next steamer for Sydney, Australia.

SWINDLED A YOKEL. Another Farmer Puts His Money in a Tin Box. ALBANY, Or., June 20.—William Abraham, a well-to-do German farmer living six miles east of this city, was bunked out of $1800 yesterday. Two neatly dressed strangers, under pretense of buying his farm, worked the tin-box swindle upon him. They induced him to put his money in the box along with $2000 they agreed to place in it. They then exchanged the box and gave him a box containing gravel and old paper, which he carefully examined and opened it this morning. In the meantime the swindlers had disappeared.

FRIEND OF BIG BERTHA. Chief of Police in Trouble Over the Confidence Queen. SPOKANE, Wash., June 20.—Formal charges were lodged with the city commissioners to-day against Chief of Police Mertz. Recently the commissioners called upon the Chief of Police to resign, but he refused. The charges accuse him of receiving a gold badge and silver water services from Big Bertha, the confidence queen, with shielding criminals and with general incompetency. Pending the hearing of the charges on Saturday Mertz has been suspended from duty.

THE ARMONA ROBBERY. Stokes and Gibson Held to Answer at Hanford. VISALIA, June 20.—The examination of Elsie Stokes, charged with the Armona station robbery of March 2, was concluded to-day at Hanford. Justice Randall held the defendant to answer before the Superior Court of Kings County. His bonds were fixed at $10,000. His partner, Frank Gibson, was also held on the same charge. Both men were brought to Visalia.

Strike in the Cour d'Alenes. SPOKANE, June 20.—News was received to-night from Gen. in the Cour d'Alenes, that the miners in the Gem and Frisco mines on a strike. It is the old demand of annual exhibits, and the Gem was also held on the same charge. Both men were brought to Visalia.

ROUNDERS ROUNDED UP. Police Sergeant Price and his posse descended upon the outcasts who infest Portsmouth Square last night, and arrested eight men and a woman. They were booked at the City Prison for vagrancy.

DOES NOT WANT TO SELL.—An application under an act of Legislature passed in 1887 has just been presented to Judge Lewis J. McLaughlin, at San Francisco, in the estate of Bridget Wilkenson, who died in September of last year, reports that there are certain debts on the estate amounting to $4000.

trian firms: C. Sartorelli, representing eighty-two exhibitors in the Italian section; Jose Soier, 100 exhibitors in the Spanish section; Senor Juan Espina, representative of the Madrid Society of Fine Arts; A. Macchi, commissioner for Monaco, exhibitors of that country and 200 exhibitors from Great Britain; J. H. Stiles, 200 to 300 exhibitors in all classes from New South Wales section; F. H. Vanderberre, to invite 200 exhibitors or more from the Belgium exhibition of the palace of industry; Herbet Saunders, representing 200 firms requiring 4000 to 5000 square feet; Thomas Slombay, 450 Italian houses.

M. Van Arman spoke in favor of the fair. Alexander T. Badlam said he understood that sufficient exhibits had been promised to cover the fair. San Francisco, however, could not have the pick of the World's Fair and ought to seize the chance. These exhibitors were willing to pay for space and transport.

A. H. Briggs denied that he wished to oppose the fair, and moved that it was the sense of the meeting that it should be held. J. T. Le Tournoux seconded the motion. Ex-Judge Wheeler endorsed the fair. Delegate McEroy of the Retail Grocers' Protective Union, representing 1000 grocers in San Francisco, tendered the entire moral and financial support of his organization to the movement and guaranteed a first subscription of not less than $1000 with a contingent contribution of perhaps three-fourths of all in his treasury.

Wendell Easton thought the idea had taken a right shape as a State institution. The first objection was a fear among local dealers of competition. That was dispelled, but he still thought that the best avenue of resort would be among the great comparatively small resources. He thought a certain amount of capital ought to be guaranteed. He favored Briggs' motion and thought the best course ought to be made a Pacific Coast enterprise.

It was then unanimously resolved that it was the sense of the meeting that a midwinter fair should be held in San Francisco. C. E. Grunsky moved that instead of Mr. McAfee's more complicated resolution a plan of raising money by means of a loan throughout the State by means of the sale of coupons—500,000 at $1—by means of 150 commissioners, three for each county. He thought the plan was a good one, and that numerous restaurants, saloons, retail stores, etc., the owners of which would buy largely. Already $50,000 had been guaranteed from Chicago, $20,000 by the railroad, he personally knew of one gentleman who promised $25,000, another $3000, and altogether he thought he could raise $100,000 in this city. He proposed that as to buildings all required was—not sixteen, as Chicago had, but—four at $75,000 each, with one grand building to inform the State Board of Trade that it was prepared to meet it or any other organization, having the fair in view on the most generous terms.

THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE. It Will Do Its Part to Aid the Winter Fair. At a meeting of the trustees of the Mechanics' Institute last night the cause of the failure of the institute to take an interest in the proposed Golden Gate Fair was discussed.

There has been considerable discussion over the fact that the institute was not represented in any way, shape or manner at the meeting called by the State Board of Trade on Tuesday of last week, and it was generally agreed that the institute had decided to take no interest in the proposed fair and, in fact, that the institute had snubbed the Board of Trade in not even replying to the invitation of Tuesday. But last night when the secretary opened for the first time and read to the board the letter of invitation sent by the State Board of Trade on Tuesday, the matter took on a different aspect.

Several members of the board of trustees of the institute took the floor and considered it strange that the institute had been passed over by the Board of Trade, and not asked to be represented at the meeting. He had felt rather slighted. Of course, the secretary was instructed to communicate to the Board of Trade the cause of the seeming neglect—the fact that the institute had been opened a week after the meeting was held, and that straight to the affair out. The secretary was also requested to say that if the proposed fair was held the institute would not be backward about doing its share of the work and contributing its share of the finances.

GOLDEN GATE VALLEY ANXIOUS TO ADVANCE ITS WELFARE. County Clerk M. C. Haley presided at last night's meeting of the Golden Gate Valley Improvement Club, held at Titton Hall, Union street, near Grove.

A committee was appointed to see the fifteen property-owners who have filed petitions against ex-Senator Fair's proposed improvements on Lewis street on the north side of the city, and endeavor to have as many of them as possible withdrawn their objections.

Another committee of seven was designated to appear on Monday evening at the Supervisors' meeting when the hearing of the objections comes up and the final action on the proposed improvements will be taken.

THE TAXPAYERS CONGRATULATED THEMSELVES that their oft-made complaints of the stagnant pools of water on Union street, between Van Ness avenue and Franklin street, had been effectual. Yesterday the owner of the property where one of the pools exists began preparations to fill up the stagnant pool, and remove the privy. Wonders were expressed as to why the grading of the street from Union to Grove was not being carried on. The owners of the frontage charge Contractor Beckman with the filling in of the pool, but he had done nothing for several months on the street.

Police Sergeant Price and his posse descended upon the outcasts who infest Portsmouth Square last night, and arrested eight men and a woman. They were booked at the City Prison for vagrancy.
