General Barnes Receiving Mrs. Stanford's Check.

IS IT A FRAUD?

An Officer Accused of Money-Juggling.

Paymaster Sullivan to Be Tried for a Curious but He Claims an Innocent Mistake.

The court-martial which will assemble at Mare Island on July 26 for the trial of Paymaster J. C. Sullivan presents features of exceptional interest. It will be remembered that the officer was first brought under the public notice when he delivered himself, while attached to the Mohican, of certain statements about the Bering Sea difficulty. He spoke adversely to the claims put forward by this country, and for this he was brought to task. He was furloughed by the Secretary of the Navy, but powerful friends in the East made such representations to the Secretary that Lieutenant Sullivan was ordered to the receiving-ship Independence at Mare Island. It was thought the trouble had passed, but not long after joining his ship orders were received from Washington suspending him from duty, but forbidding him to leave the Independence. Practically he was and is a prisoner. It appears that very shortly after his furlough was broken by the Secretary of the Navy, discrepancies were discovered in the accounts of the Mohican. There was a heavy shortage in the cash account, which Lieutenant Sullivan, upon being interrogated upon the point, stated was on deposit with the Sub-Treasury at New York. Investigation revealed the fact that while a considerable sum of money was on deposit at the New York Sub-Treasury there was about $5000 less than there ought to be. This important shortage was accounted for by Lieutenant Sullivan explaining that the $5000 that he understood was to be paid to his account at New York had instead, and contrary to all expectation on his part, been paid to his account at San Francisco. Sure enough when the matter was looked into here the last sum of money was found and the paymaster's accounts were made all straight. There was a mystery about this cash transaction that the naval authorities at Washington determined to solve. As a result of the investigation made Paymaster Sullivan is under arrest and will be tried for embezzlement of funds, and as a necessary adjunct of the alleged crime, of rendering false and fraudulent returns and making a false report. A pay officer is compelled to make a report each week, and it is alleged that Lieutenant Sullivan, when he reported regarding the deposit at New York, knew there was a shortage in his accounts, but he knew also that in the interim he could replace the money he had appropriated, and by claiming it had been paid to him at San Francisco explain away what would be accounted as a mistake. Possibly he had not been involved in previous trouble the detail for the court-martial would never have been appointed. It is claimed in the East that more pressure has been brought to bear on the Navy Department with a view to prevent a court-martial than in any other case for years past. Sullivan's father-in-law is a Tammany chief of importance and wealth, and the machinery of Tammany was put in motion to stop proceedings, but in vain. Sullivan claims that there are men in the office of the Judge-Advocate who desire his downfall, and that on his trial he will prove beyond doubt that the $5000 transaction was bona fide in every particular.

FAIR HANDS HELP.

The Winter Exposition Is Humming.

MRS. STANFORD'S BIG CHECK.

Businesses to Be Canvassed—The Interior Sympathetic—Government Aid to Be Asked.

Things hummed merrily yesterday for the winter fair. There were meetings of the financial committee and Press Association in the morning and of the Executive committee and all about fair matters. The first $10,000 check came to hand, the press members thought the enterprise a worthy one, the State Board patted itself on the back and told of the wonders that were coming, the various Congressmen promised to try to get the Government's assistance and the executive committee buckled down to dispose of the details, which threaten to overwhelm them. From the Art Association came an offer of help. Sympathetic voices were heard from the interior suggesting that the ordinary State and county fair appropriations be diverted to the winter fair. Last, but not least, Redwood City's ladies want to help. So, all in all, it was a great day for the fair promoters. There was a grateful sound of money in the air yesterday at the headquarters of the midwinter fair at the Mills building. General W. H. L. Barnes was presiding over the financial committee when the president of the executive committee advanced and presented him with a sum of $10,000. On opening it General Barnes announced that it was the first subscription book of the season and contained a donation of $10,000 in a check. The announcement was received with applause. There were quite a number of substantial business men present, including W. H. Easton, Vanderlip, Stow, A. G. Booth, A. W. Forster, A. E. Buckman, A. Lillienfeldt, Jabez Swan, C. S. Benedict, Samuel Hendy, W. S. Dreyfoe, Carter Tevis, A. G. Wilson, E. G. Griebner, R. H. Hart, J. H. Mahoney, M. Greenblatt, Irving M. Scott, J. R. Swain, Dr. Le Tourneau, E. W. Van Slack, Oscar Lewis, Cornelius Martin, R. F. Dunker, F. Haber, ex-Judge Pennie, J. E. Terry, N. H. Long, L. Strassberger, E. Holland, Julius Raphael, Frank Mastin, John Hammersmith, Major Powell and S. H. Dixon. General Barnes said the immediate object of the meeting was to formulate a method for the collection of funds. Jabez Swan suggested that the city should be districted, and that volunteers should apply to be assigned to different districts to canvass for the fair. He thought that trades should be canvassed by people in the same business. There were always jealousies to contend with. Vanderlip Easton was in favor of canvassing the business men as well as the district. This was to be a "people's exposition," and every one should be given a chance to subscribe. He moved that the committee proceed to outline eight or ten headings of business to be canvassed by committees of three first, and that afterward the whole city be districted and canvassed block by block. The motion was carried unanimously. Oscar Lewis taking objection to deny the trade jealousies would prevent harmonious canvassing by men of given trades among those trades. He could speak authoritatively for the foundry business. The chairman, who finally announced that he thought the banks, insurance, builders, founders, transportation companies, hotels, restaurants, stock brokers and stockbroker, shipping and insurance interests would be likely heads to attend to. He agreed with A. G. Booth that some "dist pickings" ought to be left for the "frat canvassers." Under the foregoing heads various committees were appointed. The board of trustees notified by the board of their appointment on special canvassing committees of three. The appointment of the officers—General Barnes, president, and Julius Kahn, secretary—of the finance committee, made the previous evening, was unanimously confirmed. General Barnes explained that the members of the finance committee would have only the collection and not the booking of the money to trouble them. It would be, day by day, handed over to the executive secretary, who would pay it over to the treasurer. A list of the voluntary subscriptions were then read, which have already been published, the total amount, headed by the railroad's $50,000, reaching $150,000. Wendell Easton thought the members of the committee ought to be allowed a chance to contribute. He was willing to subscribe $500; ex-Judge Pennie followed with $100; A. W. Wilson of Wilson Bros. promised another $100 in addition to that already subscribed; J. H. Mahoney of Mahoney Bros. subscribed $100; A. E. Buckman, $250. Other amounts were ready, but it was decided that they should be allowed to drop quietly into the fund in accordance with individual desire. It was agreed that afterwards were the most convenient time to meet, and the meeting adjourned until this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Mills building. At the meeting of the State Board of Trade held in the afternoon the subject of the midwinter fair was touched on. C. F. McAfee of Fresno, one of the committee appointed to take the matter up originally, reviewed the small beginning and subsequent rise of the fair. The committee had taken hold of the fair when the matter was at a low ebb. The committee had found that this lack of enthusiasm was caused by a lack of understanding. As an understanding of the project spread it was being taken hold of more and more widely. W. H. Mills reported that he had learned officially from Chicago that most of the exhibits there wanted to be at the fair. He exhibited the slideshows on the Midway Plaisance could be secured as well as the Government exhibits, including the Smithsonian Institution, which he characterized as one of the most interesting exhibitions of the world. He did not expect that many State exhibits could be secured. Mr. Mills pointed out that one objection to the fair had apparently died away. This was that it was a "warmed over show." People had begun to see that looking at anything did not necessarily make it less worthy to be seen. It was the same of learning—otherwise such great artists as Patti and Henry Irving might retire from the business. This coming show would be well worthy of close study.

MISMATED COUPLES.

One Wife Who Waited Too Long Before Bringing Her Suit.

Demetria Robinson has filed suit for a divorce from Charles L. Robinson. The complaint alleges fearful cruelty on the part of the defendant. He is said to have led his wife a miserable life for some years past, and to have not only used vile language in addressing her when others were present, but to have kicked and beaten her repeatedly. James S. Cannon seeks to have the bonds of matrimony which unite himself and Marie Cannon severed by reason of her infidelity. Louis M. Derrick wants a divorce from Marguerite Derrick by reason of her willful desertion. Judge Barber yesterday granted L. D. Dietrich a divorce from J. F. Dietrich on the ground of willful desertion. J. S. Myers was granted a divorce from Maria Myers on the ground of willful desertion. The divorce case of James P. Smith vs. Catherine Smith has been referred to Commissioner Lawler. Judge Levy has granted Josephine Hays a divorce from M. J. Heath on the ground of willful desertion. Judge Hunt has denied the petition of Ellen A. Duffy for a divorce from James A. Duffy. The ground upon which the complaint was filed was that the plaintiff's husband had deserted her sixteen years ago, and she had taken no legal steps until the present time. Judge Hunt decided that the wife should have applied to the court within a reasonable time after her husband's first desertion of her, and the petition must be denied by reason of the laches of the plaintiff.

Yosemite Commissioners.

Owing to the absence of Governor Markham the Board of Yosemite Commissioners did not transact any business at its monthly meeting called for yesterday morning. An adjournment was taken until such time as the Governor could be present, and in the meantime all applications for permits were referred to the executive committee. Colonel Irish explained that there were several matters connected with the valley which the Governor desired to be dealt with by the commission. The Governor had just returned from the East, arriving in Sacramento Monday night, and it might be a week before he could meet with the commission, so an adjournment was taken, subject to the Governor's call.

Reformed Episcopalians.

E. M. Sleater, Edward Meyer, R. Woodward, Joseph Moore, C. A. Tobey and Thomas Tunstead, who were recently appointed to effect an organization of the Reformed Episcopal church, held a meeting on Monday night and adopted a resolution accepting the constitution and discipline of the church. It was decided to adopt the name of Christ Church and notify Bishop Crilize of Vancouver of the action taken. Edward Meyer and R. Woodward were elected officers. R. Woodward clerk and E. M. Sleater treasurer.

Held for Manslaughter.

The preliminary examination of George Meyer, charged with the murder of John Caveny on June 30, was held before Judge Campbell yesterday afternoon. The defendant was held to answer before the Superior Court for manslaughter, and his bail was fixed at $5000. He was afterwards released on satisfactory bonds being furnished.

Society Notes.

THE NEW COMET.

The Celestial Visitor's Position.

JUST WHERE TO FIND IT.

A Useful Guide for Persons Interested in Astral Studies—Two Bright Planets.

The new comet was discovered by an amateur observer at Salt Lake City, and the information was telegraphed to Louis Swift, who is in charge of the Warner observatory at Rochester, N. Y., its position in the northwestern heavens being crudely given. On the next night Mr. Swift found it and then made the news public. "Last night," continued Professor Davidson, "I searched for it in the northwestern heavens and at about 8:30 p. m. found it with the naked eye and at 9 p. m. I made my drawing giving the relation to the other stars so that anybody could pick it out at that hour. The Great Bear at 9 p. m. is nearly west of the north pole, and if a vertical line be dropped from the main part of the Great Bear to the horizon, the comet will be found on that line about 12 degrees above the horizon at 9 p. m. It is the lowest star visible in that part of the heavens, being nearly north west from the city. The comet is just close to the two stars Iota and Kappa of the Great Bear, and the tail extends through two degrees of arc and is close to the right-hand side of the former of the two stars. The nucleus is not condensed enough to be seen sharply in a binocular, but its general brightness is that of a star of 3 1/2 magnitude, and the head is about 6 or 7 minutes of arc in diameter. I watched it for about half an hour and at 10:30 p. m. saw it very near the horizon to the north-northwest. It will pass 12 or 13 degrees below the horizon at lower culmination. "I do not know whether this is a new comet. I suspect it is, but in a few days there will be sufficient observations made at the different observatories to give its position at different dates, so that its orbit may be computed and compared with the orbits of other well-known comets for identification. In that part of the heavens there is no new comet, and that brightness and its brightness will apparently increase. There are one or two known parabolic comets due, but in other parts of the heavens. "People who are interested in looking at such objects will see after sunset and over the Golden Gate two bright planets. The lower one is Venus, with a diameter of 10 1/2 seconds, and the upper one is Mercury, with a diameter of 8 1/2 seconds of arc. The latter has been noticed for the last week and will increase in brightness for a few days more. It may be remarked that it is very rarely that Mercury is visible under such favorable conditions."

HAPPY DENUOUENT.

The Eloping Couple From Satcoy Are Forgiven. Charley Frank Brigham and Florence J. Madison, the 17-year-old couple who eloped from Satcoy on the Fourth and were arrested on Kearny street by Detective Anthony on Sunday morning, left the precincts of the City Prison as happy as turtles once yesterday morning. Florence's father, J. Madison, arrived from Satcoy on Monday night and was at the City Prison bright and early yesterday morning. He met Detective Anthony and they went to the prison hospital, where Charley and Florence were anxiously awaiting their fate. Mr. Madison was mad, but the detective urged him to keep cool and not make a scene, at the same time advising him to let the young people have their way. This advice was acted upon. They first entered the room where Charley was confined and he sprang to his feet. Mr. Madison, with a smile on his face, held out his hand, saying: "Hello, Charley, I suppose you are ready to go back with me and get married, eh?" Charley grasped the proffered hand and said, heartily: "Yes, sir, I'm quite ready." "Your father told me," said Mr. Madison, "so that he wanted you back, and will board, so an adjournment was taken, subject to the Governor's call. Florence was brought in, blushing violently, and was greeted affectionately by her father. The young couple and Mr. Madison then left the City Prison and went to the International, where they will remain till Saturday next. They will then leave for Santa Barbara, where the marriage will take place.
