TEMESCAL WROTH.

Irritated Over Political Interference. ITS POSTOFFICE THE CAUSE. Hutchings Sent His Wife to Bed at Seven o'clock. THE SNELL SEMINARY SOLD. The Remains of Mrs. Henshaw Buried--Her Four Sons Act as Pallbearers.

OAKLAND--The people of the little Oakland suburb known as Temescal are almost in a state of insurrection over the way in which they claim a small circle of Oakland Democratic politicians have juggled their postoffice affairs.

In the past few years the people have had to preside over their mail matters various persons. A Miss Adams held the office for some time, and it is claimed, even went so far away as Alameda to get signatures to her petition. She was not wholly satisfactory in her administration of the office and was succeeded by J. M. Pedrin, whom the people liked much because he built up the business of the office and consequently helped the business of the town. Pedrin was succeeded by Mrs. C. H. Tucker, who had as her assistant J. P. Twyman.

The Tucker reign was satisfactory because of the competency of Mr. Twyman, who gave all his time to the office and pretty thoroughly understood the business. Mrs. Tucker took the office in April, but since the appointment of J. J. White as postmaster of Oakland has had her eyes turned toward the office and has been waiting for the opportunity to take it.

appointment is a resident of Berkeley, her address in the directory being "Miss Mary E. Burdick, 2215 Vine street." "Best a country friend in Temescal, however, in the person of Mrs. Solomon, an elderly lady keeping a little notion-store, who says that Mrs. Tucker is a very rich lady and that though she lives in Berkeley, Mrs. Solomon thought it would be no trouble for her to move to Temescal, which she would do. Mrs. Solomon, however, did not know where the office would be located. She said no arrangement had been made to have it in her store. This latter is a question which seems to be worrying Temescal. Where will the office be? Mr. Twyman says he does not want it in his place, while it will not go back to Pedrin's, that gentleman having had enough of it. Merchant Moore said they might take it to Korea for all he cares, while Lewis Hager, the coal merchant, announced to depend largely on what the Oakland politicians, Messrs. White, English, Moffitt and McClair decided. The latter, it was thought, wanted near his house on Grove street, and that would make Temescal proper soil with rage, for that neighborhood is full of wags.

Several merchants were consulted about postoffice affairs, and all were very bitter over the interference of the Oakland Democrats. They insisted that it would be advisable for those politicians to keep hands off the Temescal postoffice, as the people know best what they wanted.

A Conference Concluded. The Danish-Norwegian Methodist Episcopal conference which has been in session the past week in Oakland, finished its labors last night, and Bishop Fitzgerald announced the following appointments for the coming year: The Rocky Mountain district--C. J. Larsen of Portland, president; Eureka, C. J. Larsen; Butte, J. H. Mont; Los Angeles to be supplied; Oakland, John Jacobson of Oakland; San Francisco, C. J. Larsen.

Oregon district--Marinus Nelson, president; Astoria and Skamokawa, H. O. Nordberg; La Center to be supplied; Portland, First Church, Aug. Petersen; Second Church, Marcus Nelson; Reedsville, Martin Hansen; New Era, J. Hickson.

successes of the past season. The opening play will be "Sowing the Wind," and will be on the boards again at the Wednesday matinee; Tuesday evening. Best a country friend in Temescal, however, in the person of Mrs. Solomon, an elderly lady keeping a little notion-store, who says that Mrs. Tucker is a very rich lady and that though she lives in Berkeley, Mrs. Solomon thought it would be no trouble for her to move to Temescal, which she would do. The Non-Partisan Convention. The Non-Partisans of Alameda County have decided to hold their county convention on the 15th of the present month, the same day on which the Republicans hold their primary election. There are few names as yet mentioned for county officers. J. W. Nelson has been spoken of for Sheriff and Henry P. Dalton for Assessor, but beyond these two names all seems to be at sea. If Nelson should be the nominee of the party for Sheriff and Schaefer the straight-out Republican nomination of the county would suit the election of Robert McKelician, a Democrat and the incumbent, and this, it is said, would please those adherents of the other two men who have let personal feeling carry them away. The feeling between the Nelson men and the Schaefer men is very intense and seems to be growing wider all the time.

Er-Wife and Widow at War. Mrs. Alice E. Godfrey, widow of the late George Godfrey, filed an answer yesterday to the complaint of Mary A. Neary, Godfrey's divorced wife. The latter has been divorced, recently sued the widow to recover $2575 claimed as due her as a result of a $120 per month for the Godfrey's maintenance and $4000 for household furniture contained therein. In her answer Mrs. Godfrey contends that Mrs. Neary has no claim upon the property in question, and in proof of her stand recites that on October 31, 1892, in the course of the probate of her husband's will, the court entered a decree nullifying the same, and the same and all appearances. She asks that Mrs. Neary's suit be dismissed.

For Business Reasons. A syndicate composed of members of the First Congregational Church have purchased the Snell Seminary property adjoining that of the Episcopal church, and intend to carry on the business of the city demands more room. The proposition is to move the church building from Clay street onto the lot now occupied by the school. This will leave a lot 100 feet deep, with a frontage of 200 feet on Clay street, which will be erected a large business block. The seminary will shortly be removed to more commodious and retired quarters.

over him. He received a compound fracture of the right leg below the knee and had several ribs broken. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital. Carlo is a single man, 26 years of age. For the News. There will be a grand benefit performance at the families of the men recently engaged in strike against the Southern Pacific Railroad. The play will be "The Bridge Workers," and will be presented by James and Carrie Clarke Ward and a fine dramatic company. Paired by His Father. A. W. Nicholson, who tried to kill himself at Elmhurst Friday, is still lying at the Receiving Hospital and in a precarious condition. He yesterday received a visit from his son, a boy four years old, and fell to the floor at sight of his father. Nicholson's wife has not yet called to see him.

Yachts Will Race. The California Yacht Club will hold its first annual regatta on the bay this afternoon. The races will begin at 1 o'clock, and they are expected to be most interesting contests, as there are many entries and the prizes are so well worth fighting for. Golden Gate Bonds Carried. The people of Golden Gate sanitary district yesterday held an election to vote on the proposition of issuing $40,000 of bonds to build a system of main and lateral sewers. The bonds carried by a vote of 100 to 55.

Berkeley. Columbia Gymnasium, the boys' gymnasium, corner of Shattuck and Durant avenues, held a large audience Friday evening that came to witness the gymnastic entertainment given by the young athletes. The main feature of the evening was a tug-of-war between the Columbia Gymnasium team and the team of the West Berkeley Brigade of West Berkeley, under Leo Rogers' command. After a tug of 12 minutes the brigade boys pulled the knot across their line.

A New Professor. No denotation in the university has developed with the faculty in pedagogics. Four years ago the department was not in existence, and the entrance of a teacher for higher or special work under the name of professor was the foundation of the chair of pedagogics. Since the foundation of the chair of pedagogics, the professor emeritus E. Brown in the chair three years ago, a stream of North School graduates and other teachers has been directed to the State University and the increase in their number has necessitated the enlargement of the department. Last year, besides Professor Brown, were an instructor, Mr. Kendall, and a fellow, Miss Kate Weitz. Now an assistant Professor, Thomas F. Bailey, Ph.D. of Clark University, A. B. of University of South Carolina, has been added. One of the most gratifying results of the work is that most teachers who come merely for the two years' teachers' special course remain the four years and take their degree.

will take the place of the one October 1. In Communication With the Almighty. Yesterday morning John Sanquest was taken before justice by the charge of disturbing the peace of one E. Striban, 1628 Park street, with whom Sanquest roomed. It developed that Sanquest spent considerable time in singing religious songs, much to the discomfort of Striban. He pleaded guilty, but stated he was in direct communication with the Almighty, and had been commissioned by him to sing his praise, and produced a bible to prove his point. It was made evident that too much religion has unsettled his brain in this direction. Justice Swasey withheld sentence until to-morrow.

Will Leave Alameda. Mrs. Apel, the widow of the late John Apel, who lost her home through her inability to pay off the mortgage upon the property, and who has fought so heroically to remain in her old home, has at last decided to give up and leave Alameda and seek the quietude of an Oakland home. She has become tired and worn out under the strain. Labor Day. Monday is Labor day, but not a legal holiday. The banks, postoffice and public institutions will be closed, but the transactions of business. Among the business houses of Alameda a few may observe a half holiday, but as the accommodation of the public, the public schools alone will observe the day and remain closed from Friday until Tuesday morning.

IN THE REDWOODS.

Fine Description of the Lumber Industry. Part Twenty-Seven of Picturesque California is Devoted to This Interesting Subject. Nearly everybody has, at one time or another, wondered where all the lumber that has been used in the construction of the buildings on the Pacific Coast comes from. Many have some sort of an idea that it comes from the vast forests that fringe the mountains as far north as British Columbia, but beyond that they know very little. There is, however, no longer any reason why they should not know all about this most interesting and important industry, for it is the subject of the article in part 27 of "Picturesque California," and CALL subscribers can obtain it for 10 cents and one coupon. Not only is the subject handled to show the practical side of the business, but the picturesque and romantic aspects are treated by the best artists and writers.

The reader is carried into the depths of the redwood forest and into the homes of the woodmen. The way the immense trees are taken from the spot where they have stood for years and passed along through the mills until they come out in the form of boards and are sent to market is illustrated and described in the most graphic manner. The humble lives led by the woodsmen and their families, filled with hardships but not without some compensation in the way of grand and beautiful surroundings to their homes, are described in poetical language and illustrated with the most graphic manner.

"A Logging Team in the Redwoods" is from a photograph from nature, and so faithfully depicts the scene that it is like looking at nature. "Home of a Pioneer," from a painting by Julian Ix, is a characteristic picture of these rude but comfortable houses among the redwoods. "Tatoush Mountains," after a painting by the same artist, shows the most mountain views on the Pacific Coast. The other illustrations in part 27 of "Picturesque California" are fully up to the high standard set by the preceding numbers. Each one is a perfect work of art.

Part 27 of "Picturesque California" will be ready to-morrow, and can be obtained by CALL subscribers for 10 cents and one coupon. Fire Department Changes. The Fire Commissioners met last night and decided to sell the bells of engine-houses 4, 5 and 6. The resignations of Thomas McCreath, hoseman of engine 18, and E. J. Ryan, truckman of truck 7, were rendered and accepted. The board appointed Eugene Raffertie truckman of truck 2 and James Cornell driver of engine 1. No One Knows Her. The body of the woman who jumped into the bay at Miggins wharf Friday night still lies at the morgue unidentified. Hundreds looked at the remains yesterday, but many thought they recognized the body as the mortal remains of

DIAMOND SPARKS.

Notes of the Players in the California League. The California Players' League will provide another game for patrons of the Haight-street grounds to-day. Joe Stiea, Jim Mullee and Cannon of the Californians are doing the best work in the league. Jim Mullee has a phenom and "hops success will crown him," as he brought out Tom Farratt and others. Spokers Hanley is working hard to get down for to-day's game. Loughran and McCarthy, the pony battery, expect to be on their feet; mettle to-day. The substitutes of the number contain a magnificent picture of a California grizzly bear, such as proved a terror to the woodsmen of Mendocino County. This fine picture is from a drawing by the great artist E. O. C. Darley.
