

SOLDIERS RETURN.

Troops Withdrawn From the Railroad.

TRESTLES ARE UNGUARDED.

Three Hundred Men Come Back From Sacramento.

LIGHT BATTERIES TO CAMP OUT.

There Were Courts-Martial but Little Sickness While the Troops Were on Duty.

Dust begrimed, sun burned and wearied out by nearly two months of arduous duty 300 soldiers marched into the Presidio yesterday, the last of the United States troops sent out to open up the Southern Railroad. All have been withdrawn from the line and now trestles, bridges and other valuable points no longer bear the heavy tread of the sentry. General William Graham arrived also with his staff and went to his quarters, heartily glad of being rid of the troublesome job of guarding railroads. The cavalry arrived on last Thursday, and the troops that came here yesterday were artillery—Battery A, Captain Thorr; Battery B, Lieutenant Coffin; Battery C, Captain Kelly, and Battery L, Captain Roberts. They numbered in all 300 men, and took several trips of the steamer General McDowell to take them all from the ferry depot to the Presidio. With the soldiers came two garrulous gun batteries which were in service at Sacramento. The United States troops left the Presidio under orders from General Rager on July 10, so that they have been in service eight weeks. When they were called upon the troops remaining at the Presidio consisted of the two light batteries, D and L, numbering about 120 men, and under command of Major Kuzie. Now that the others have returned Major Kuzie's men will take an outing and leave on Thursday next for, in all probability, Clear Lake. They will camp there for six weeks. The guns will be taken along and much target practice indulged in.

The arrival of the troops at the Presidio yesterday threw everything into a state of excitement. Very little time was lost by the boys in getting to the canteen, which has practically done no business in their absence. The result was that many were in an hilarious state, but after the hard siege they have had on railroad duty, these petty derelictions were winked at. A row occurred in one of the buildings used as soldiers' quarters, when the commanding solicitor for a morning paper ventured to see if he could get any subscriptions. A soldier scored the policy of his paper severely, abused him personally and drew a gun on him. The solicitor complained to Acting Post Adjutant Lieutenant John D. Miles, who made an investigation and reprimanded the man who savagely. The man who had been holding the gun in the absence of the others were overjoyed at the return of the absentees.

"How does the old warrior look?" asked one of the light battery men, "Have you seen the old warrior yet?" The soldiers appeared glad to see their commanding officer again, who goes by the sobriquet of "the old warrior." Post Adjutant Garfield came down with his chief and was welcomed by Lieutenant Miles, who lost no time in turning over the business of his office to him. The adjutant reports that on the whole the men were well behaved at Sacramento. There were about four courts-martial held for minor offenses. The heaviest punishment was given a deserter, who was discovered and arrested near Truckee. He had not deserted during the strike, but before, and was sentenced to dismissal from the army and one year's imprisonment at Alcatraz. It was learned from other sources that several of the courts-martial were on enlisted men who had pawned their pistols and got drunk on the proceeds. The hard duty of the men was taken into consideration in sentencing them, and most of them were simply blackballed.

When seen yesterday Lieutenant Miles said there was comparatively little sickness among the men, not many more in fact than on ordinary occasions at the post. "The men are all in now," said Lieutenant Miles, "and the railroad must get along in its own way. They might have been withdrawn a week or two ago, but it was thought advisable to keep them there until the last moment. The troops are in good condition, but glad to get back, and the boys who stand here are glad to see them return. Yes, I understand that the light batteries will take a camp out now."

"Will there be any relaxation in discipline for a time with these men who have been away," was asked. "Not at all," responded the lieutenant. "Military discipline must be maintained for extra duty. Of course, if men who were on duty wanted furlough for ten or twenty days I don't doubt they could get it."

Many are the stories the newly arrived warriors are telling of their experiences in the valley. The one which they seem to lay most stress on is that when they exchanged their army coats for fresh beef they had to cook the latter right away for fear of spoiling it in the heat. Though dusty and travel stained, both officers and men look in splendid condition physically. General Graham is mightily pleased at getting back home. His daughter is to be married to-day, and the general was afraid that he would not arrive in time for the auspicious occasion. The happy man is Ensign G. N. Burrage of the United States navy.

TOOK HIS OWN LIFE. Michael Contin's Second Attempt Proves Successful. Michael Contin committed suicide yesterday morning by swallowing a dose of carbolic acid in a house on Montgomery street. He was driven to the Receiving Hospital in an express wagon and died in about twenty minutes while on the stretcher. Contin used to be proprietor of the Young American Soap Works, on San Bruno road and Cortland avenue. He attempted to end his life some time ago by swallowing sulphuric acid, but was saved by his friend. His brother called at the hospital and said that domestic and financial troubles were to blame for the deed. Contin had a wife and child and their married life was not a happy one. But those who know the wife say she was not at fault. She visited the hospital and was crazed with grief when told that her husband's body was at the Morgue.

TO BE: Charles D. Keilage, the Philadelphia bird-warbler; Emily Stuart-Kellogg, contralto; Pearl Oia Humphrey of the Emerson School of Oratory; Boston; Willis E. Bachelder, tenor; Eda Blankart, violinist, and the California Maize Quartet.

BEREGO HIT HIM. How Seako Varela Came by the Wounds That May Cause Death.

The mystery surrounding the manner in which the Mexican laborer, Seako Varela, was injured on Sunday night and had a knife driven into his skull was solved last night by Officer Wren, who has been working on the case. He found the man who inflicted the injuries, and from his account it was seen that the story which Varela told was false.

The young man arrested by Wren is named Joseph Berago, and lives at 1229 1/2 Jackson street. He says that he had a quarrel with Varela last Saturday night, and that the latter drew a knife and cut several gashes in his coat. He then ran away. Last night the two men met again in front of 22 Hucklebury street, and Varela jumped at him with a knife in his hand. To protect himself Berago says he picked up a piece of scuttling that lay near the door, and struck Varela over the head with it several times. He did not know that there was a knife at the end of the scuttling, and was overcome when he learned after his arrest that Varela was so badly injured.

Varela still maintains that he does not know who hit him, and that he was struck at the entrance to Montgomery street, which is on Montgomery street, near Broadway. Varela was about the same yesterday, and his condition is critical.

MADE MANY HITS. William Wobbles' Latest Adventure.

Treated to a Shower Bath for Expecting Through a Manhole With a Flaw in It.

Disaster and a cold shower bath which came from a most unexpected quarter overtook William Wobbles, the famous Statesman, when he was treated during the busy hours of the day to a shower bath for expecting through a manhole with a flaw in it. Mr. Wobbles is now suffering from a very severe cold, but he has been cured of a bad habit of expecting through manholes. Although he is a very old man, he is a prominent and objectionable trait in Wobbles' character carelessness. It is sufficient of a daydreaming and thoughtlessness. He has acquired the objectionable habit of chewing tobacco Wobbles necessarily had to expectorate freely, and these expectorations were like unto the puffing of a small whale just venturing out upon the broad bosom of the ocean for a few preliminary blows prior to the blowing defiance from afar at the vigilant outlook on the whaler.

Mr. Wobbles is an expert expectorator and once won a prize on board the United States steamer Marion for smothering a fire in the shaft alley of the vessel. He was on board the ship when Wobbles took up his position as fireman for the occasion. Just ordinary old salt plug tobacco was used, but Wobbles was successful. Mr. Wobbles is a man who has been on the water front for ever since he was a little boy. He has seen the city grow up in the sidewalk manholes the little round glass jars are sometimes broken out by him, and he has seen the city grow up in the sidewalk manholes the little round glass jars are sometimes broken out by him, and he has seen the city grow up in the sidewalk manholes the little round glass jars are sometimes broken out by him.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY. Two Officers in Charge of Surveying Parties Return.

J. E. McGrath and E. F. Dickinson, assistants in the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, each of whom had charge of a party engaged in surveying the Alaskan boundary. The parties left included thirty-seven men and thirteen officers. Lieutenant McGrath and party had an unpleasant experience in crossing Fry Bay, near the Cape. Their boat was capsized and nearly all of their effects lost, though all of the party managed to escape with their lives. They saved a few cooking utensils and lived on the beach of the small island. The remainder of the officers and men of the surveying parties are now at Port Townsend and will come down to San Francisco in a few days. Messrs. McGrath and Dickinson state that they came across Canadian parties several times during their surveying of the boundary for the Dominion Government, but that the two forces did not co-operate in their work, the representatives of each Government going ahead regardless of the other.

OVER THE TRACK.

Prospects of the State Fair Meeting.

Never Before Have the Entries Been So Numerous.

GOOD ONES IN EVERY CLASS.

Noted Trotters, Pacers and Bang-tails to Race at Sacramento.

Never before have the entries for the various trotting and running events been so numerous and of such high class as at the coming State fair. While, of course, there are not such numbers entered in the trotting and pacing races as in the running, the contestants are as closely matched. For instance, in the 2:15 class, pacing, the gray gelding Waldie J, that astonished the turfies at Chico by pacing a mile in 2:17 1/2, will meet that game mare Lady H, who has just returned from a successful Eastern tour, and it will be a struggle worth going many miles to see.

In the 2:22 class, trotting, the Palo Alto stock farm's brown mare Vina Belle will be a hard one to beat. Of the three entries in the free-for-all pace W. Wood, who paced a mile at the Woodland fair in 2:09, apparently holds that race safe. But the one who can pick the winner of the 2:36 trot will have money enough to retire. When such good ones as Maxim Jr., Wayland W., Silver Bow and that game old campaigner Snylock meet it will indeed take a wizard to name the successful horse.

In the 2:24 class, trotting, Phalamont Boy, Abner's choice, and the first choice of the most promising, although many a dark horse has been sprung in this class, and Sacramento is not exempt from surprises. The free-for-all trot will be a grand race between Klamath and Ottinger. Chancellor, Boodle, Hillsdale and Montana are the most prominent of those who will line up for the wares in the 2:20 trot. Chancellor has defeated Boodle, but the latter is an improving horse. Hillsdale, if driven as he was at Woodland last week, is in no wise out of the race. The other heats will make every heat a race thereafter, and the one to defeat him will think he has met a champion.

Among the reports of fast work as usual are going the rounds, and judging by the list of entries it will take a pretty fast one to win. In the Sunny Slope stakes for two-year-old fillies, those who have appeared most prominently in previous races are: W. W. Murry's Circe, A. B. Spreckels' Piquante, and the California Ladies' favorite, H. A. Goehring's Miss Ratt, John Greer's Lady Jane and K. A. Ledez's filly Kitty L. Circe has shown to be possessed of wonderful speed, but there are some doubts as to her gameness. Piquante, on the other hand, is thoroughly game and on past performances should win.

The California annual stake for two-year-olds, six furlongs, will bring together a flight of youngsters, among them: A. B. Spreckels' Gallant and Piquante, W. W. Murry's Flashlight, L. G. Gonzalez's Rey Alfonso, El Trano stable's Malo Diablo and P. Siebenhafer's speedy city Sera Spray. Many horsemen claim that Flashlight, on his recent run at the Golden Gate Fair meeting, where he ran seven-eighths of a mile in 1:27 1/2, with 122 pounds up, ranks him as the fastest horse in the State; but he is a very ordinary companion, outside of his stable companion, Circe, who was simply started to make the pace. Many will give the money to Rey Alfonso, but, if reports are correct, Gallant is a very much improved colt, and if he should catch the judges' eye first the talent will get a good deal of wool out of him.

Probably one of the heaviest speculating races of the fair will be the Capital City stake, one and a sixteenth mile, for three-year-olds, to be run at the Golden Gate Van Garder's game colt Articus, who has had a long rest; Wilber Field Smith's St. Saviour colt, Glead, A. J. Smeiter's Lovers' Delight, and the California favorite, the one-eyed Pacer, who is a much improved horse under G. V. Luppert's training. The other performers from the Rincodon stable, Duke Stevens, all meet, and students of form should have a grand opportunity to figure on the winner.

The numerous over-night events will give the selling-platers a chance, and as a large number of horses now racing in Montana will be sent to the States, a week there will be no scarcity of entries, and should furnish lovers of horse-racing some of the best sport seen outside of the Bay District track.

Peter Weber has disposed of his chestnut colt, Captain Cooper, by Jim Brown-Cosette, to A. B. Spreckels, and should he regain his great speed, the colt will turn out to be a crack up. The Palo Alto yearling by Flambeau from Imp. Teardrop (dam of Imp. Brutus and Imp. Cyrenus) was purchased by the named Cassius, the Racine-Fair Rose colt Salisbury, and the brother to Cadmus has been given the name of Coloma. Dr. Ross, who formed the race, and the colors of the Pleasant stable, has been racing in Guatemala. He is now the property of F. de Ojeda. The starter at the local fairs, and the one who will wield the burning at the State Fair, is R. M. Brown, a young man whose fair is giving great satisfaction. In the case of the State Fair, it is known to fame, Mr. Brown will find he has a difficult task to fill. The Los Angeles string of trotters and pacers are being shipped to the races this season. Ketchum, a three-year-old by Gossiper, got a record of 2:17 and won a race against eleven aged horses at Woodland last Saturday.
