OUTCOME OF THE WAR IN KOREA.

According to the latest reports Japan has gained about all that had been anticipated when the struggle began with the Chinese.

That is only the beginning of the end. Japan not only wants independence for her nearest neighbor, but wants her also to move on some of the lines of progress that have done so much for Japan.

That is the entering wedge. It required many years for Japan to get rid of feudalism and to establish a constitutional government.

Accepting the Japanese view of the issue as approximately correct, the sympathies of the civilized world will be on the prevailing side.

The fact is also set in a new light that Japan had long held that Korea under the suzerainty of the Chinese was a dangerous neighbor.

At a later day this claim on the part of Japan, persistently asserted, brought on the present war.

THE SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

Labor Commissioner Carroll D. Wright has hung out a very early bulletin to the effect that the National Commission has proved a success.

Of course, Colonel Henri Waterson, the brilliant free-trade preacher of the Louisville Courier-Journal staff, isn't feeling particularly good over the tariff legislation of the Democratic Congress.

The fearless mariner who is crossing the Atlantic in a tiny craft was spoken recently in misapprehension, says and sounds. Next to Arctic explorers the cranks who attempt foolhardy journeys of this kind appear to be most in need of the restraining influences of the strong arm of the law.

Germany's resentment of the increased duty on sugar brings a new temper to our own much harried administration.

The announcement that twenty-seven hotels in Berlin have gone into insolvency this season is a sad commentary on the state of the Continental hotel-keepers' bread.

Gov. Tillman enforced the prohibitory law in South Carolina, and he carried every county but three for United States Senator.

During the existence of our reciprocity treaty with Spain, exports to Alabama were more than doubled and almost entirely shut out British and Spanish goods.
