

ENJOY THE MUD.

Al Legg Turns Two Mud-Larks Loose.

MONROVIA LIKED THE SLUSH

Motor Beat the Hot Favorite, Jack Richelieu.

JUMPERS DIDN'T LIKE THE MUD.

Florence Dickey Fooled the Knowing Ones in the Last Race by Downing the Two Favorites.

Monrovia, Motor and mud made a combination to beat to heat at the first race. Al Legg's two entries...

The hoodoo still seems to hang over the erratic Morven. Starting in the steeplechase with a lot of "mackerels," he fell at the second jump while running in front.

To see Florence Dickey galloping in three lengths in front of the 4 to 5 favorite Oakland, and the well-played Blue Banner in the last race, was a sad blow to the talent, who had overlooked her entirely.

Dockstader went to the post favorite for the first race, a short six-furlong sprint, for non-winners at the meeting. Realization was second choice at 5 to 2, but the good thing turned out to be Monrovia, who was backed down from 6 to 1 to 11 to 5, and won very handsly.

When the flag fell Dockstader showed in front, followed by King Tom and Realization. At the first realization he took in the lead, and the well-played Blue Banner in the last race, was a sad blow to the talent, who had overlooked her entirely.

Realization and Dockstader pulled out far ahead of the others, and in a drive to the wire. At the drawgate Realization had enough, and Monrovia disposed of Dockstader handsly by a length. Time, 1:30 3/4.

The most get of the maiden class in the second race, a five and a half furlong dash, opening at even money, quickly played lower to 3 to 5, the stable considering him a cinch, and such he proved to be. The field was a heavy one, comprising San Lucas, My Sweetheart, Barcarding Washoe, Wag, Miss Willoughby and Chiquito.

Of third, at the fall of the flag, Foremost went to the front and headed the procession to the wire, winning pulled up by three lengths. My Sweetheart came with a rush at the finish, getting the place from Chiquito by half a length. Time, 1:43.

The favorite in the third race, a 3 to 1 shot, defeating the 7 to 10 favorite Jack Richelieu. Pasha and Grande were considered to have a chance, but the former succumbed to the steeplechase, and the latter chance he had for first money. Sligo, Gussie and the Experiment colt also started, but cut no figure in the race.

Jack Richelieu's colts flashed in front at the start, but Grande almost immediately sailed into the lead and cut out the running down the backstretch, but at the half he was passed by Motor, the favorite running third. Round the far turn Jack Richelieu, Pasha and Motor were running well bunched.

Into the stretch Richelieu was first, closely followed by Motor and Pasha, the latter stumbling soon after, and losing several lengths, leaving Motor and Pasha in a dead heat. At the drawgate Carr saw he had struck hard game and went to the bat, but Motor, hand-riden only, won rather handsly by a length, Pasha trailing by three lengths away. Time, 1:47.

A steeplechase for maidens, with a couple of tumbles, came next, and resulted in a victory for the favorite, Haymarket, ridden by J. H. Martin. The erratic Morven, who runs on the flat and is a put over the jump the next, was second choice, and lived matters up by dumping his rider at the second jump, but continued running in the third, taking all the jumps and finished first. Time, 2:00.

When the flag fell, while running in front, looking like a winner, fell after alighting over the fifth jump. North, Nipper and Morven were also in the race. On April, followed by North and Morven, led over the first jump, when North took the lead and headed the field over the second and third jumps. The riderless Morven was first in the fourth jump, followed by April and North, the latter taking it to a very bungling fashion. April, followed by Haymarket and North, was the order over the fifth jump, the latter leading just after striking on the other side.

Stanford on Haymarket now tried to part company with North, but the latter hung on gamely until a sixth from the wire, when he was overtaken by Morven, who cantered in five lengths ahead. Mutiner finished a poor third. The time was far from the record, 3:44 1/2.

It was noticeable that after the last race the crowd bounding back to the boxes were not very lengthy, and Florence Dickey evidently slipped in unbacked by the talent or from players with 8 to 1 against her.

Oakland was considered a "mortal," while the Eastern contingent stood by old Blue Banner. Flirtilla and Garcia were well backed to get the place. Two Cheers, Morviza and Boblink also started at cheap prices.

When the flag fell Chevalier on Two Cheers cut out the running for an eighth, when the light-weight Florence Dickey, ridden by St. Clair, took the lead and there was nothing to it thereafter, as he seemed to delight in the slipping, going and won by three lengths. Oakland, who seems unable to run until he strikes the wire, came like a rocket and took the place from Blue Banner, who made a splendid race for a horse that has not started for so long a period. The distance, a mile and seventy yards, was run in 1:53.

Track News. The noted Chicago turfman, Ed Corrigan, arrived from the East yesterday. Mr. Corrigan was one of the fortunate ones and had a good bet down on Monrovia.

Pat Dunne, a nephew of Mr. Corrigan, also arrived in the city yesterday, accompanied by his newly wedded wife. Mr. Dunne is the owner of Enthusiast and other good flyers.

The Hagan sale will be continued to-day. The noted Chicago turfman, Ed Corrigan, arrived from the East yesterday. Mr. Corrigan was one of the fortunate ones and had a good bet down on Monrovia.

The fall of Morven was a very peculiar one for a good rider. The last race was a good one for the books. Dickey tickets were very scarce.

THE BANK RIGHT In Selling Friedlander's Property.

Judge Slack decides a Complicated Suit to Recover Property Pledged Years Ago.

Judge Slack rendered a valuable decision yesterday in a suit brought by T. Cary Friedlander as administrator of the estate of his late father, Isaac Friedlander, against the bank of California and William S. Chapman.

The suit was brought for an accounting from the bank and Chapman of the proceeds of the sale of certain lands belonging to Isaac Friedlander. Friedlander, on September 6, 1876, executed an absolute deed to 24,880 acres of land in Merced and Fresno counties in favor of the bank of California.

At the time this deed was given William S. Chapman, who was interested with Friedlander in certain business speculations, and who owed the bank of California $214,523 97, executed a deed to the bank in the sum of $500,358 46.

JAIL GETS HIM.

Cohen is Once More in Trouble.

IS PURGED OF CONTEMPT

Only to Be Arrested Again for Perjury.

STUFFERS AND ELECTION FRAUDS

A Witness Who is Either Stupid or Shaming Annoys the Court and the Attorneys.

Louis Cohen was purged of contempt in Judge Wallace's court yesterday morning, but in giving the testimony he flatly contradicted what he had previously said on the witness-stand, and ordered remanded to jail with bail fixed at $10,000.

Cohen Kowalski made the plea before Judge Wallace yesterday morning that his client Louis Cohen had been in jail ten days and ask that he be given the opportunity to purge himself of contempt.

"Mr. Cohen," asked Attorney Clunie, "where do you reside?" "At 824 Turk street."

"How long have you lived there?" "About four months, off and on."

"Where did you reside on the 3d of October last?" "At the Baldwin."

"Where did you reside on October 1?" "At the Baldwin, I think. I don't know."

"Do you know Louis Steinberger?" "Yes, for several months."

"You registered for the Baldwin Hotel, is that right?" "Yes, I thought I had a right to register being a citizen of San Francisco and the State of California and not having registered from anywhere else."

"That is all so far as an empty matter is concerned," said Andrew Clunie; "but I now ask that the witness be held for perjury."

"Do you want to perjure or prosecute," asked Attorney Long, "or have a chance for his life," he pleaded.

"The evidence is not sufficient to convict of perjury. A man can throw safeguards around himself and not be guilty of perjury. The defendant was advised by counsel not to answer questions which would tend to criminate himself. A man has a right to say that he lives at any place at all. The only question involved in the case of Louis Cohen was whether the names on the register ought to be there."

Judge Wallace declared that the matter was material. He recalled the contradictory statements of the witness as to his place of residence. "I dislike," said Judge Wallace, "to commit a person of my own order. I much prefer that an affidavit be filed. I will take the motion under advisement, and will return to the custody of the Sheriff until 2 o'clock."

The Steinberger case went over till Monday, and the matter of the election frauds in the Tenth Precinct of the Thirty-fifth District was taken up.

J. H. McDonald, assistant inspector in the precinct, was in the witness chair. He corrected his testimony of the previous day, declaring that it was Thursday instead of Wednesday when the witness Martinet slept in the election booth.

William B. Desmond, precinct inspector, appeared as a witness, but testified to little of value.

J. W. Maher, judge of election, testified in a clear and straightforward manner. Buckley and Conroy testified up to the time he left the booth on the night of election.

When he returned Wednesday morning to the booth he was taken up by the witness Martinet had told him that the State returns were complete. Buckley had told him the same thing.

The envelope had been broken open by the Registrar's office. This was an accident caused by the crowd. Martinet had broken the seal in the booth to correct the irregularities complained of by the registration. This might have been done by the Registrar's office on the morning. Martinet was seated by himself at the end of a table, arranging the envelopes and placing the books in the proper envelopes.

John Mahoney was called in. The Steinberger case was continued until Monday and he was instructed to appear on that day. He was also told to come back to-morrow when the Cohen perjury case was taken up.

The inquiry into the frauds in the Tenth Precinct of the Thirty-fifth District was resumed. Joseph Patrick Power, a carpenter by trade and one of the additional witnesses in the case, testified at 10 o'clock. He testified that he was in the booth at the time the State ballots in the election-box, but did not observe whether he placed the tally sheets there or not. No general return was prepared for the Registrar's office while he was in the booth.

While the examination was going on Attorney Gouges walked up to the witness stand and asked to which Clunie O'Brien objected saying: "Now, Brother Gouges, though you are so good looking, come out here, and don't be afraid to deliver an address. At Metropolitan Hall there will be a Thanksgiving service at 11 o'clock. Rev. J. Q. A. Healy will preach and at the conclusion of the service food and fuel will be distributed to the poor."

been asked in a half dozen different ways replied that he did not remember. Judge Wallace asked the question, and again the witness said he did not remember.

"Who altered the returns?" asked Clunie. "I don't know," was the response. Judge Wallace, at the request of the attorneys and the shorthand reporter, had testified that he did not remember speaking loud. Hanley persisted in speaking as low as a whisper schoolgirl.

"You must talk louder or go to jail," said Judge Wallace, finally; "I am tired of it."

"Don't you know that Buckley was soliciting votes for Higgins about the booth?" asked Clunie.

"I don't know," was the reply. Hanley suggested that this sort of examination and the court not ruling in his favor, said: "Such an examination would not be tolerated in a police court."

"You ought to know," was Clunie's sarcastic remark. "I am learning you something," said Clunie.

"Teaching, you mean," said Colonel O'Brien, while Attorney Gouges cruelly suggested that Attorney Gilfoyle procure a Lindley Murray.

There were more faint "don't know" and "I don't remember" and professed misunderstandings of the questions by the witness, which finally caused the court to remark:

"If this man is as stupid as he professes to be it was a shame to put him on the election board. Do you understand what the attorneys say?" was asked of the witness.

A faint weak "yes" could barely be heard. "Why don't you answer, then?" asked the court.

"I do what I know."

"You don't seem to know anything," was the remark of the court. "I don't know whether he is stupid or pretending to be."

Attorney Gilfoyle suggested that Hanley was "rattled," and protested against Clunie's examination as one which would confuse a witness.

"I can answer for myself," said Clunie. "I have seen a Superior Judge on the witness-stand replied by an attorney," was Mr. Gilfoyle's reply.

It was suggested that the witness was deaf and thought he was talking loudly when he answered, so Clunie pitched his voice a key above and shouted his question. The same faint, don't-know-can't-answer sort of answer resulted.

Mr. Clunie asked that the case go over until Monday to see what testimony could be extracted from the witness then.

Do not think you will get anything out of this witness, said Judge Wallace. "I am not sure whether he is stupid or merely acting this way. If I were I would put him under arrest for contempt."

The case then went over until Monday.

OH, BE THANKFUL.

For This Is the Day for Gratitude.

Some of the Ways in Which San Francisco Will Observe the Holiday.

This is the day set apart by the President of the United States as a time for returning thanks to the benign Creator for the blessings that have fallen to the people during the current year. It is a pretty and a fitting custom, and San Francisco will observe the day in the usual way.

The condition of the market during the past week has indicated that the proud, strutting peacock of a free entertainment in the evening because of the prevailing low prices of the market have evidently feared no lessening of the demand for turkeys for Thanksgiving dinners, and the sales show that they made no mistake when they concluded that the panic had left people enough money for their holiday repast.

The day will be profuse of events of one kind and another. The Regatta and the horse show and the intercollegiate football game, the former at the Mechanics' Pavilion and the latter at the Regatta grounds.

But these two events will not stand alone as great drawing cards. The ceremonies attending the unveiling of the Lick historical clock will be a grand affair. The clock will be placed in the Lick Observatory building, which will be the scene of the unveiling. The clock will be unveiled at 11 o'clock, and the unveiling will be presided over by the Rev. J. Q. A. Healy.
