The Best Eyes

Are those given the best care throughout all periods of one's life. "I used to have the best eyes," is a common expression. These people very likely have had eyes now, because neglectful of the care necessary to keep them good. Let me help keep yours good. If you haven't good ones, let me assist in making them good. Right glass aid—that's what I offer.

A. E. ANDERSON,
Graduate of the Chicago Ophthalmic College.

Farmers, ask my competitors if they can carry $1,000.00 of Insurance against Fire, Lightning, Tornadoes, Cyclones and Wind Storms for eight years for $15. That's what I can do, and in a company that has over $27,000,000 of insurance in force in this state.

E. C. HOUSE.

The washout on the railroad in the vicinity of Litchfield Sunday evening proved a much more serious matter than was at first supposed. The Building and Loan association closed out all of its equities last Saturday at auction. This will enable the association to close up the business. Several against whom equities were held bid in their property, paying cash. In this class we scribe was included, and we were thankful for the opportunity of ridding ourselves of a load, more serious than Bryan's white man's burden.

The First Nebraska Homeward Bound. The news received here Wednesday morning that the First Nebraska regiment had boarded the transport Hancock Monday to return home was hailed with joy by all our people. In honor of the event "Old Glory" whose stars and stripes have been so loyally defended by our boys in the Philippines was hoisted to the top of the liberty pole that occupies the center of the park.

Lost One Eye. We learn that Mrs. Mary Ambsberry of Mason City had one eye put out one evening last week by a beard striking her. Report is that it was during a wind storm and she was taking the board through the upper story window from some one below, when the wind caught the board and struck with such force just below the eye as to put it out. It is said that Mrs. Ambsberry suffered from it intensely for several days, but that it is giving her less pain now.

A basket dinner will be a feature of the exercises. The public is invited and all who desire are requested to join in making the occasion one long to be remembered with pleasure. The object is to have a quiet and pleasant day at home.

Letter List. Following is the dead letter list for week ending June 26th, 1899. Mrs. Patrick Logan, Mrs. Mary Long, Miss Lina Johnson, Guy W. Clark, Geo. O. Fielder, (card). Parties calling for any of the above will please say "advertised." L. H. JEWETT, P. M.

Hymen's Yoke. Wednesday morning, June 28th, at the house of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Snyder, Broken Bow Neb, were united their daughter Miss Una May, and Mr. Mervin J. Johnson, of Mullen, Neb. To the strains of their wedding march (Sousa's Selections) played by Mrs. Hornaday, the bridal pair entered the parlor at the appointed hour, seven o'clock and passed under the bridal archway where the ceremony, which launched them on the matrimonial sea, was performed by Rev. Hornaday. From the archway which was done in green foliage and white roses hung a dainty white yoke, an emblem of the occasion; from this yoke was suspended the traditional floral wedding bell. Underneath the arch stood a divan draped in white, for the occupancy of the bride and groom during the reception which followed. On either side of this beautiful palm were arranged. Cut roses formed the artistic designs of the parlor, while the dining room was beautified with potted plants. The center piece of the dining table was decorated with cut roses, and a vase of the same stood at either end. Beautiful and impressive was the ceremony, when this happy couple pledged their faith, the one to the other, with the double ring service. The rings used in the service were carried on a silver tray to the marriage altar, by the maid of honor, Miss Sarah F. Snyder, sister of the bride. After the ceremony, the bridal party repaired to the dining room, where a delicious wedding breakfast was served. From 9:30 until 11 o'clock the reception guests called at different periods. After they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, they were ushered into the dining room, where dainty refreshments were served, and the toasts were enjoyed. "The bride," "The groom," "Marriage," "Single Life" and "Courtship," each received their full share of merriment as well as seriousness. On a side table in white the bride's case was placed, and from here was served to the guests by the bride. The maid of honor was assisted in receiving by Miss X. Snyder, sister of the bride, and the pastor's wife. Beautiful was the bride, in her elegant wedding dress of pearl white brocade satin, which was prettily trimmed in chiffon and satin ribbon. Her toilet was completed with white kid gloves, white kid slippers, embroidered in pearl beads, and a fan of carved ivory. She carried the usual bridal bouquet of white flowers, wearing the half blown roses in her hair.

The bride has grown to womanhood in our city, and is one of our most accomplished young ladies. After finishing the Broken Bow High School, she attended the Nebraska Wesleyan Academy, from which she graduated in the spring of 1897. She has been an effective Sunday School worker, and from this her many friends will greatly miss her, especially as secretary of the Sunday School, which office she has filled for the past five years.

The groom wore the conventional suit of black broad-cloth. He is a young man of sterling qualities, exemplary habits and intellectual attainments of a high order. His friends are legion. He occupies the position of B. & M. agent at Mullen, Neb. We know of no young couple better equipped for the life that is before them under circumstances so auspicious and encouraging. The book, "Our Wedding Ring," served to record the names of the guests on their departure. Many valuable and elegant presents were received from their hosts of admiring friends, while congratulations by telegram were also received during the day.

After spending a few days quietly at the bride's home here, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will leave for the East on a short bridal tour. On their return, they will visit a day or two with the bride's family, before going to their home at Mullen, Neb.

The farm I offered last week for $800 is sold.
