A citizen who is in a position to know stated, a few days ago, that not near as many hogs were being hauled to Merna and sold as there were before G. R. Russom commenced buying on the Broken Bow market. Mr. Russom says he is not buying for the purpose of making a big profit, but more to give his brother farmers and hog raisers as high prices as the Omaha market will permit.

Jesse Gandy was laid up several days last week after his return from attending the Bryan Dollar banquet, but says that was not the cause of his illness. P. S.—The subject of the foregoing narrative was out on parade with the Woodmen yesterday and is "on the lift" again today, but his little bangkt for member in congress on the demo-pop-prohib social ticket goes on and on uninterrupted and unterrified.

W. P. True, of Cumro, was in the city yesterday and called to fix his subscription to the REPUBLICAN so that we would neither have to discontinue sending the paper nor affix a one cent stamp on it as the new postal law requires. That old saying of "by name as well as nature" can aptly be applied to this gentleman who is true to every trust, every duty, every friend. He is an old-time resident of the county and suffered along with the other settlers the effects of the drouth years, but stood the trials unflinchingly and is now in a position to more easily recover from such another visitation of misfortune.

A Great Opportunity.

On or about February 5th a salesman carrying fourteen large trunks, each one packed chock full of samples of carpets and rugs, will arrive in the city and remain a couple of days at the furniture store of D. C. Konkel in order to give those of our people—who so desire—an opportunity to select from the stock of a wholesale house. Here will be a variety that you may not have an opportunity of purchasing from again very soon and it certainly behooves all who contemplate purchasing a carpet or rug to call at Mr. Konkel's store on the date above mentioned.

For Sale.

Two horses and one milch cow. Inquire of Jesse Gandy. 1t.

J. W. Cook Suffers Stroke Paralysis.

J. W. Cook, who has conducted a grocery store just south of the Security State bank for a number of years, suffered a stroke of paralysis Tuesday night sometime, being discovered by his son-in-law, T. H. Sharp, at about 9 o'clock yesterday morning in a helpless condition in a room he occupied at the rear of the store. Mr. Cook is 75 years of age and has led a very active mercantile life, having been engaged in the grocery business for 51 consecutive years. He had not been feeling well for several days and during his indisposition occupied a room at the home of his daughter. Tuesday, however, he felt better and decided to remain in his own room. At 9 o'clock yesterday Mr. Sharp came up to ascertain how Mr. Cook was feeling and finding the store door locked knew at once that something was wrong. He was in possession of a key and upon entering found the aged gentleman completely helpless and unable to articulate, on account of a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Cook was at once conveyed to the Sharp residence and medical aid has restored his speech, but he still has no use of his limbs. It is thought that on account of his advanced age the attack will prevent his resuming business again.

Revival To Close.

The revival now being conducted by Fife and Son at the Opera house will close next Tuesday night. The revival has been remarkably well attended and the house is well filled at every service. Up to Tuesday night there were fifty-six conversions and additions to the church. This is certainly very gratifying success and it is expected that many others will come into the fellowship of the congregation, before the meeting closes.

On next Tuesday night, there will be a good fellowship meeting and all the new converts will be present and sit in a body to receive the hand of fellowship in a formal way, and to hear a sermon appropriate to the occasion. At this service, there will be an old fashioned hand-shaking and the general public is invited to attend this service.

Moving Pictures.

In this day and age moving pictures are almost as much of an attraction as a circus, and they are certainly well worth seeing when properly displayed. Next Tuesday evening, January 28th, at the Opera house a moving picture entertainment will be given, a first class machine being used by an experienced operator. Prices have been placed within the reach of everybody, viz: 5 and 10 cents.
