A WRITER in the Century brings up again the old proposition to make ex-Presidents United States Senators for life. He suggests an amendment to the Constitution which shall add to the two Senators from each state "such persons as shall have served to the close of a term as President or acting President of the United States" a very skillful form of words which would cover the case of R. B. Hayes. The writer would have each "President-Senator" paid a salary "equal to one half the salary which has been allowed him while President," and he urges that the cost of these supplementary Senators would be very slight, as there are seldom many ex-Presidents living at one time. The economical consideration, it may be remarked, is not the most serious obstacle to a plan that, however attractive, does not exactly fit in with the general scheme of the Constitution. Everybody will agree, however, that a man who has filled the office of President ought to have something of value to contribute to the general councils, and that a plan that would have enabled the nation to profit directly by the experience and influence of Washington for more than two years longer; of John Adams for more than a quarter of a century; of Jefferson for more than seventeen years; of Madison for more than nineteen years; of John Quincy Adams for more than eighteen years; of Jackson for more than eight years; of Van Buren for more than twenty-one years, and of Grant for more than eight years after the expiration of their several terms, would have much to recommend it. There have seldom been more than three ex-Presidents living at any one time—the largest number being at the opening of the war, when Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan were all alive—and at the present time the "President-Senators" would comprise only R. B. Hayes and C. A. Arthur. Perhaps it may be thought that a Constitutional amendment to get them into the Senate would scarcely be worth while.

THE Rev John W. Scudder, of Minneapolis, seems to be a second edition of Sam Jones. "None of your white-faced damsels for me," he recently shouted in a sermon. "Give me the nutbrown girl, who abandons her sun-bonnet, who can climb a tree with any boy, who prefers good bread to chocolate caramels and baked beans to angel cake.
The kind of an angel for me weighs one-hundred and forty pounds and has more call for crash towels than cosmetics.
Her waist is more than nine inches in circumference. She is straight as an arrow, sleeps eight hours a day, has a clear head, a bright smile and is a joy to those around her."

THE B. & M. Co. now have a force of men at work putting down a well at Bertrand, which will cost them $5,000 when completed. The well will be between 250 and 300 feet deep, and 14 feet in diameter. A depth of 200 feet has already been attained. The company will also dig a well at Elwood as soon as the present job is finished. The people of Elwood are now dependant upon the portable water works system, operated by farmers in the vicinity.

THE Hastings base ball club played at Bloomington, Saturday, when they initiated the Bloomingtonites into the hitherto unknown mysteries of the national game, with a score of 20 to 1 in their favor. Higsby of Red Cloud who caught for the Bloomington nine made their only score. McCook can rustle a "scrub nine" that can do better than that, "for money, marbles or chalk."
Chalk being the "preferred stock."

MORE than five hundred thousand cases of bowel complaint have been cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarhoea Remedy. Only think of the pain and suffering it has relieved, the agony and distress it has prevented; the homes it has made happy; the lives it has saved, and you will appreciate the good work it has done. 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles sold by M. A. Spalding and B. M. Pharmacy.

If you see a man lying down in the streets these hot days and you want to know whether he is sunstroke or drunk, pull out your thermometer and take his temperature. If he is above normal he is struck; if below, drunk.
