

SOLEMNLY LAID AWAY.

The Remains of America's Great Soldier Rest in Their Narrow Home.

A Funeral Pageant Such as Was Never Before Witnessed in This Country.

The Procession and at the Tomb.

New York dispatch: The crowd on Fifth avenue remained on the sidewalks with remarkable persistency until the long parade had passed. There were a few cases of prostration in the ranks, but so far as known, none fatal. The regimental ambulances were called into requisition for slight causes, perhaps half a dozen times. At the corner of Fifty-seventh street, where the line turned to the west, the crowd swelled from the side to the open way and blocked the thoroughfare on twenty occasions. There was some trouble when the catafalque reached that point. Everybody was more interested in the approach of this than in any other procession. It was watched for blocks away, its conspicuous height making it plainly visible from Fifth street. As it neared the corner the crowd naturally bulged to the sidewalk, and officers had to threaten with their clubs to make the spectators recede, and it was a difficult process. The people were standing eight and ten deep, and some of those in the front rank raised their umbrellas to keep off the sun's rays. Some women stood with babies in arms and fathers had hoisted their little ones to their shoulders. Obstructions were numerous, and those at the rear were becoming indignant, but as the catafalque came up the annoyance was forgotten, and only respect was felt. As it was the order of the horses were ordered to make a sweeping turn, and that was the only way in which the interested gathering could be driven back. People fell back from the horses as though a spirit had appeared and ordered a retreat. With a spontaneity that told of their reverence, they raised their hats as the first horse came abreast of him, and remained uncovered until the body had passed him.

After the president, the cabinet, judges of the supreme court, senators, members of the house of the house of representatives, governors, and state officials, ex-presidents, foreign ministers, diplomatic officers and representatives of the army and navy had passed, the procession began to break up. The veteran and civic organizations left Fifth avenue by any of the streets between Fifty-third and Fifty-ninth streets and gradually fell out of line.

From noon to-day for hours into the afternoon the vicinity of the tomb and Riverside park was a scene of discomfort for the waiting thousands. Heat followed the cool of the day and the succeeding hours added heat, and hundreds and thousands of people. The latter suffered much in their cramped positions of waiting in the blazing sun there. One o'clock came and went, but the funeral car was yet a long way off and moving very slowly. Beneath a fir tree at the crown of the knoll rested a small charcoal furnace, and nearby were tools and materials with which to seal the leaden lining of the cedar case into which the casket and remains of Gen. Grant should be placed. Down the slope nearer the vault was a portable furnace, such as is used by workmen for heating bolts. In a group near by were five men, mechanics, who should rivet fast the steel casket within which both the coffin and the box should finally be preserved. The steel case rested upon two marble blocks two and one-half feet high, three feet wide and eighteen inches thick. Similar marble blocks have been sunk in the floor, flush with the surface, and upon these the remains of Mrs. Grant are expected to repose. Many persons were permitted to peep into the tomb where the steel receptacle was waiting the body then being borne up town.

Soon after 1 o'clock the drum's beat and blare of trumpets was heard from the lower end of the park and a carriage came into view. It was Gen. Hancock. He was the only occupant, and stood erect, trooping behind him, on horseback, were the members of his staff. The general rode to a point near the tomb, when he alighted and was met by Superintendent Murray, Commissioner Crimmins and others of the park board. Gen. Hancock's staff and aides swept past. There were among them Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, major-general, to whom Gen. Sheridan met so warmly, in other times and under other circumstances. Upon a commanding slope, a hundred yards north of Gen. Grant's tomb, the staff officers and aides drew rein beneath a clump of spreading trees. Quaint helmets were glistening and plumed, and the general rode to the southward, the trapping upon the many horses shone in the sunlight, the cannon and limbers, drawn by horses that were ridden by artillerymen, came over the brow of the slope, and orderlies galloped to and fro, and sabres and accoutrements clattered and rattled. The regulars and marines with light batteries "F" of the Fifth artillery, were coming down the drive. They marched out upon the slope, where Hancock's staff were halted, and there the infantry and marines assumed positions of rest in the shade and out upon the slope toward the Claremont hotel, which was covered with blue drapery. Mounted men with plumed helmets, marines with the uniforms of the tars, the United States marine corps with bright uniforms, saddled horses, with riders dismounted, but holding their bridle rein, cannon muzzles, "om behind the lower benches of hill thrusts, pyramids of stacked guns with glistening bayonets interlocked along the drive, solid walls of people upon centering lines of bobbing umbrellas; through the trees a vista in which the brown and rugged rocks of the palisade pierced the woods and jutted above the river; the Hudson, too, glistening and flowing in the sunlight. So looked the scene northward from the tomb. The Twenty-second and Seventh regiments marched up from the east and down by the tomb and were drawn up in line on the brow of the bluff overlooking the river. The line reached beyond the view from the tomb around the slope. The two regiments stacked arms and were at rest.

A 4:20 p. m. a strain from trumpets, and soon the sound of muffled drums. The carriages came in sight, and rolled slowly through the park to the tomb. Dr. Newman and Bishop Harris were among the first, and then Drs. Douglas, Shady and Sande; the pall bearers came after these. Gen. Johnson rode beside Gen. Sherman, and Buckner and Sheridan were paired, then Gen. Logan and ex-Secretary Boutwell followed. Distinguished men came also. The pall bearers and aides in the lighted and took places near the tomb. David's Island band playing Chopin's "Funeral March" came next in view, while behind black plumes of the funeral could be seen. The car stopped abreast of the tomb. The guard of honor ascended to bear down the casket. Col. Reck formed his two companies of escort in a hollow square between the tomb and the hearse. The family carriage had drawn near, and their occupants alighted and took positions near the foot of the steps of the car. So they stood while the casket was being removed from the car and when it was borne into the hollow square toward the vault the relatives followed in this order: Col. Fred. wife, Mrs. Sartoris and the colonel's children, Julia and U. S. Grant; U. S. Grant, Jr., and wife, leading little Nellie, daughter of Jesse Grant, Jesse Grant and wife, U. S. Grant, second (son of Orville Grant), with Mr. Fred Dent and wife, Dr. Cramer and wife, Potter Palmer wife, and Hon. John A. Cross and wife. The cedar case rested on supports at the door of the sepulchre and the casket was deposited therein. Meade post No. 1, of Philadelphia, represented by fifteen, circled the casket. The commander took his post at the head, with officers and post commanders at the foot and the colors were placed in front. The ritual service was then performed by Post Commander Alexander Reed, "assembled to pay the last sad tribute of respect to the late commander and illustrious comrade, U. S. Grant, let us unite in prayer. The chaplain will invoke Divine blessing." Post Chaplain, C. Irvine Wright: "God of battles, Father of all, amidst this mournful assembly, we seek Thee with whom there is no death. Open every eye to behold him who has changed the night of death into mourning. In the depths of our hearts we would bear the celestial word, 'I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth on me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.' As comrade after comrade departs, and we march on with ranks broken, help us to be faithful unto thee and to each other. We beseech thee look in mercy on the widow and children of our deceased comrade, and with Thy tender mercies console and comfort those bereaved by the event which calls us here. Give them the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness. Heavenly Father, bless and save our country with the freedom and peace of righteousness, and through Thy great and glorious mercy, grace and Thy Holy Spirit's favor, may we all meet at last in joy before Thy throne in heaven, and to Thy great name shall be praise forever and ever. Amen." joined in by all the post.

A dirge was played, after which the service was continued by Post Commander Alexander Reed. When the service was concluded Rev. H. Clay Trumbull offered prayer. The bugle call "rest" was then sounded. Dr. Newman and Bishop Harris then read the ritual service for burial of the M. E. church. Directly behind the burial party stood Gen. Grant. At his elbow were President Cleveland, Vice President Hendricks and members of the cabinet. Near the head of the casket on the right, Sherman and Sheridan in full uniform were uncovered during the entire service. At their sides were ex-Presidents Arthur and Hayes, and Sherman. On the other side of the casket, opposite to ex-Admiral Porter, Fitz Hugh Lee, Gen. Gordon and Gen. Buckner. When the religious services had ended the trumpeter of the Fifth artillery stepped close to the casket and sounded the "tattoo." Little Julia then laid on the coffin a wreath "To Grandpa." The guard of honor bore the remains within the tomb, and at 6:30 o'clock placed the casket in the steel case, the sealings of both the leaden lining and steel case then being performed, as indicated above. The family entered the tomb, remaining only a few moments. They then sought their carriages, and when entering, the Seventh and Twenty-second regiments, in line on the bluff fired three volleys toward the river, after which a battery of the Fifth artillery fired three salvos from the knoll toward the hotel. The family carriages drove away, but were not out of sight when persons attempted to deface the tomb by writing their names on it. A number of regulations were mounted at the military marched away. The dignitaries rode away and the long chapter was ended.

MURDERED FOR INSURANCE.

Investigation of a Suspicious Case at Hunter's Point, Long Island.

The corner of Paterson, N. J., accompanied by the chief of police and the coroner of Hunter's Point, Long Island, and a couple of physicians, went to the Lutheran cemetery near the latter place to exhum the body of a woman. On the way Chief of Police Grant told a representative of the Associated Press the following story: For two years past, a family named Bauer, occupying a highly respectable position in society, resided at Haledon, near Paterson.

The Bauers had previously resided in New York City, and appeared to be people of wealth. Early last June Mrs. Bauer was taken sick, and after ten days' illness died, as reported by the attending physician of peritonitis. Mr. Bauer seemed to feel the loss of his wife deeply, and had an expensive funeral. The memory of the late Mrs. Bauer had almost died out when some strange rumors got about which started the community. It was learned that Mrs. Bauer had been heavily insured in several companies and some peculiar circumstances surrounding her illness and death led to the suspicion that she had been murdered in order to obtain the amount of insurance and defraud the companies. The total amount of insurance on Mrs. Bauer's life was $33,000. It is understood that the Equitable and New York Life insurance companies had paid amounts of their policies before rumors of the fraud got abroad. The officers of the Mutual Reserve company, after consulting other companies decided to refuse payment until a thorough investigation had been made. It was then advanced that Mrs. Bauer had been poisoned or that she had been taken away and another body or dummy buried in the cemetery.

Arriving at the cemetery the coffin was exhumed and opened. Upon being measured the body was found to be six inches shorter than Mrs. Bauer's when she was alive. One of the physicians who had examined Mrs. Bauer with the application of the microscope made, said she had a pug nose and light hair, while the corpse had a Grecian nose and dark hair, but he would not be positive of all the particulars. Dr. Satterthwaite, the coroner of New York, then opened the body and took out the intestines, which they examined and sealed up. They refused to give the result of the examination in New York, but the ostensible reason was taken. The body was placed again in the coffin and re-interred. Louis Bauer the husband, to whom all the policies are payable, carries on a grocery in New York.

GEN. GRANT'S MONUMENT.

New Yorkers Satisfied With the Progress Thus Far Made.

New York dispatch: The contributions received by the Grant monument committee on the 14th amounted to the sum of $81.35. The secretary was asked if funds weren't coming too slowly to satisfy the committee, but he replied in the negative. "You see," he said, "most of our wealthy citizens are out of the city at present. Then the committee has not had time to form its plans. It appreciates the magnitude of its work and has no idea of adopting any course without due consideration. It is no Chicago monument the committee intends to erect. It has been said that Chicago has already raised $40,000, while New York has only raised $38,000. That is true, but Chicago started out to raise $40,000, while this committee intends to raise $1,000,000. Chicago has worked hard to raise its little fund, while very little work has been done here yet. It was impossible to make any headway while preparations were in progress for the funeral of Gen. Grant. Now that that is over many of the committee are out of town, probably half of the executive committee are absent, and it is not likely that plans will be adopted for raising the necessary amount until after the meeting of the general committee Thursday. The committee is satisfied with the outlook."

Gold and bead embroidered gallions are used to trim lace dresses, as well as those of wool or silk.

GEN. GRANT'S GREAT QUALITIES.

As Set Forth by Mr. Blaine in His Memorial Speech at Augusta.

At the Grant memorial services held in Augusta, Maine, the following eulogy was delivered by Hon. James G. Blaine: "Public sensibility and personal sorrow over the death of Gen. Grant are not confined to one continent. A profound admiration for his great qualities and a still more profound gratitude for his great services have touched the heart of the people with true sympathy, increased even to tender emotions by the agony of his closing days, and the undoubted heroism with which he morally conquered a last cruel fate. The world in its hero worship is discriminating and practical if not, indeed, selfish. Eminent qualities and rare achievements do not always insure lasting fame. A brilliant orator enchains his hearers with inspired and inspiring gifts; and if his speech be not successfully used to some popular recollection, his only reward will be in the fitful applause of his forgotten audience. Grant was not a man of such an ambition, receives the cheers of the multitude and ceremonial honors of the government; but if he brings no boon to his country his fame will find no abiding place in the centuries that follows. The hero for the ages is he who has been chief and foremost in contributing to the moral and material progress, to the grandeur and glory of the succeeding generation. Washington secured the freedom of the colonies and founded a new nation. Lincoln was the prophet who warned the people of the evils that were undermining our free government, and the statesman who was called to the rescue of our institutions. Grant was the soldier, who by victory in the field gave vitality and force to the policies and philanthropic measures which Lincoln defended in the cabinet for a generation and the security of the republic. Monopoly of fame by the few, in this world, comes from an instinct, perhaps from a deep-seated necessity of human nature. Heroes can't be multiplied. The gods of mythology lost their sacredness and their powers by their numbers. The millions pass into oblivion, the units only survive. Who asked the great leader of Israel to conquer the desert and through the waters of the sea into the promised land? Who marched with Alexander from the Bosphorus to India, and who commanded the legions of Caesar in his conquest of Gaul? Who crossed the Atlantic with Columbus? Who ventured to strike the snows of the Alps with the conqueror of Italy? Who fought with Wellington at Waterloo? Alas, how soon it may be asked who marched with Sherman from the mountain to the sea?
