The KITCHEN CABINET

IDEALS.
IDEALS are like stars—you will not succeed in touching them with your hands, but like the seafaring man on the decks of a vessel, you choose them as your guides, and following them you reach your destiny.—Carl Schurz.

If the ideal of a housewife is to have a well ordered, always perfect and smoothly running household, she will find there are many disappointments in store for her, and much to forego in more important things.

Let the machinery of the house conform to the family, not the family to it. A happy, comfortable family, one that enjoys the home life, is vastly more to be worked for than that there be no dust behind the parlor pictures. Just let down a little on the eternal, never-ending grind of every-day life, have fruit for dessert with a rested body and a pleasant smile and see how much happier everybody will be. Fancy desserts and a perfectly ordered house are a weariness to the flesh and may be occasionally slighted with comfort to all concerned. This does not mean that we are justified in being slovenly; but let us learn to put right values on things. We all appreciate a well kept house, and an attractive table, but one would not have them at the expense of more valuable comforts.

The over tired mother, often over tired because of the desire to have everything perfect, is in no condition to enjoy the companionship of her husband and children. Her mind is too full of household cares and she is like Martha, "cumbered with too much serving."

Household Hints.

In ironing embroidery place a heavy Turkish towel over the ironing board, place the embroidery on it and iron on the wrong side.

To remove cocoa and chocolate stains, use cold water first by soaking over night, then pour boiling water through the stains, holding the kettle high to insure force.

Baked Mushrooms.

Wash 12 large mushrooms. Remove stems and peel caps. Put in a shallow, buttered pan, cap side up. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot over with butter; add two-thirds of a cup of cream. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven. Place on pieces of dry toast and pour over them cream remaining in the pan.

WHILE the love that you're so rich in
Build a fire in the kitchen
And the little god of love turn the spit!"

"There is a best way of doing everything even if it be to boil an egg."—Emerson.

Generalities.

The colder eggs are, the more quickly they come to a froth.

If the eggs are washed, the shells may be used to settle the coffee.

A little salt added to the egg while beating, adds to its lightness, by toughening the albumen, and this holds the enclosed air in the cells.

Good macaroni has a yellowish hue, does not break while cooking and swells to twice its bulk.

Ultramarine blue is a fine powder, insoluble in water, and unless stirred often the bluing will streak the clothes.

A bluing powder should be mixed with warm water in a cup. Find a good brand of bluing and use it. One is able to tell by the appearance of the water when the right amount has been used.

Tomato Catsup.

Take one bushel of tomatoes, boil gently half an hour then press them through a sieve to remove the seeds and skins. Return the liquid to a porcelain lined kettle and cook down to one and one-half gallons; then add one-half gallon of vinegar and cook down to one and three-fourths gallons, add one-half pound of sugar, one-half pint of salt and the following spices: One and one-half ounces each of black pepper and allspice, two ounces of mustard, one ounce of ginger, one-half of an ounce of cloves, one-eighth of an ounce of cayenne; stir until thoroughly mixed. Put one-fourth of an ounce of asafoetida into a cup and add some of the catsup, stir until well mixed, then add to the mixture in the kettle, stir until it begins to boil, then take from the fire and add one pint of alcohol. Bottle and seal while hot.

Cucumber Pickles.

Cover a hundred small cucumbers with boiling brine made strong enough to hold up an egg; let stand 24 hours. Then take them out, wipe, place in clean jars and cover with hot spiced vinegar. Use one onion, 12 cloves, one ounce of mustard seed and three blades of mace.

Broiled Mushrooms.

Place the mushroom caps on the broiler, turning often until nearly done, then add butter, salt and a dash of paprika to each cup side of the cap. Serve hot on buttered toast.

DINE well and wisely and the cares of life will slip from you; its vexations and annoyances will dwindle into nothingness.

"Since Eve ate apples much depends on dinner."

"Digestive cheese and fruit there sure will be."—Ben Jonson.

Mushrooms.

This delicious vegetable that so many people consider too expensive for the ordinary bill of fare may be grown on one's own premises, even in the cellar, for winter. Procure a few bushels of horse manure, fresh is best, then one can cure the soil and be sure it is good. Mix one-third of garden soil with the manure, and let it stand a week or more, turning each day to keep it from heating. Make a bed three feet by four and put in the spawn which may be procured at any greenhouse and plant as directed. One may then have mushrooms that are sure to be edible. There are so many nice ways of preparing them. For almost every dish just saute them in a little butter for five minutes, not longer, as too long cooking toughens them. They may then be added to a brown sauce or gravy as an accompaniment to beefsteak or in a white sauce served in patty shells, they make a suitable main dish at a luncheon.

With a little study one may be able to pick the edible wild ones that are found in such abundance in our fields.

Bluing.

There are a variety of bluing. Indigo blue is of vegetable origin and has the deep, blue color, it mixes easier with the water.

When washing delicate colors care should be taken to set the colors before washing.

There are several good ways, salt water is the most common and most used. Sugar of lead is another good agent. Repeat the process of setting the color each time before the washing of the garment.

Corn Meal Mush.

Mix one pint of corn meal with one teaspoonful of salt, and one tablespoonful of flour, and one pint of cold milk. Stir gradually into one quart of boiling water. Stir often and cook an hour. Then turn it into a wet bread-pan and when cold cut in half-inch slices; cut each slice in two and dip in flour. Fry in fresh bacon fat and serve the bacon with the mush.

ALL golden harvest days! Ye bring reward
To honest labor; tune glad hymns of praise
To Him who crowns the year with mercies,
Ye proclaim God's faithfulness to all who toil
In faith and hope.

The Wholesome Grape.

There is no fruit that is better to tone up the system and make good rich blood than the luscious grape. When preparing grape jelly the fruit must be under-ripe to make a good jelly as the pectin which is the thickening agent is changed to sugar in ripe grapes.

Green grapes make a delicious preserve of peculiarly delicate flavor.

Grape juice may be used as a drink or frappe or in combination with cream for ice cream.

The Concord grapes are the most commonly used as they are grown in great abundance. The wild grape is a general favorite for jelly and more often preferred to the tame for jelly making. The following recipes are choice and worth adding to your winter store.

Household Hints.

If a room needs to be cooled quick-ly, hang up a wet sheet in the door or window.

A simple way of keeping water cool is to place a piece of ice in a cloth, laid loosely over a jar, cover and the ice if not touching the water in the jar will last a long time and keep the water cool.

Grape Juice Ice Cream.

Use one cupful of grape juice and the juice of one lemon to a pint of cream, sugar may be added if not sweet enough. Freeze as usual. The grape juice color which is fixed by the lemon juice makes a beautiful water-melon pink ice cream.

Nellie Maxwell.

Not Giving Them Away.

"I wonder why that dressmaker, when she goes out, always wears a wrap?"

"I suppose for the same reason that the bandits have in comic opera."

"What is that?"

"She wants to cloak her designs."

Very Particular.

"I say, old man, any osculation allowed young people in this park?"

"Oh, yes, sir, young people can have as much osculation as they want if they don't go to spooning and kissing."

TAFT AND DIAZ MEET AT EL PASO

TWO PRESIDENTS EXCHANGE
GREETINGS AND HOLD PRI-VATE CONFERENCE.

IMPOSING CEREMONIES

DAY OF PAGEANTRY AND CHEER-ING CROWDS ENDS WITH GRAND BANQUET.

El Paso, Texas.—The long expected meeting between President Taft and President Diaz of the republic of Mexico occurred here Saturday. Outwardly it was attended with a display of soldiery, a flare of trumpets, a boom of cannon and a pomp of ceremony suggestive of supreme authority, but in the actual handclasp of the two executives and in the exchange of courteous words which passed from lip to lip there was simple but cordial informality.

President Taft was the first to speak. In simple American fashion he assured President Diaz of his warm personal regard and his high esteem of the man who had accomplished so much. He was glad to know the President of such a great nation; especially glad to know the present President who had made the nation great. President Diaz replied with equal cordiality.

Both Presidents dwelt upon the harmonious relations existing between the United States and Mexico. President Taft declared that this meeting was not necessary to make stronger the bonds of friendship; it merely typified the strength of the bonds as they already exist.

There were less than a score of persons permitted to witness the meeting of the two executives. Even these were excluded later when President Taft and President Diaz withdrew into an inner room of the Chamber of Commerce building, where the historic meeting occurred and were only attended by Governor Creel of the state of Chihuahua, former ambassador to the United States, who acted as interpreter.

The scene of the day's ceremonies shifted from time to time from this thriving little American city across the shallow, wandering Rio Grande river to the typical little Mexican town of Ciudad Juarez. In the Customs house there President Diaz received a return call from President Taft and again late at night entertained the American President and a large dinner party at a state banquet which in all its surroundings of lavish decorations, of brilliancy in color, of wealth of silver plate, handed down from the time of the Emperor Maximilian, and in every carefully considered detail probably was the most notable feast ever served on the American continent.

It was at this banquet that the more formal and public expressions of regard between the two executives as the representatives of the people of the United States and of Mexico were exchanged.

The banquet also marked the end of the day of international pageantry—a day of cloudless skies, a day of rushing, cheering crowds, a day of marching soldiers, a day of the journeying into foreign territory of a President of the United States, for the second time in the history of the nation. It was a day of amity between the two great nations of the United States and Mexico, a day made unusual by the first visit to American soil of the chief ruler of a nation in any way approaching the prestige of Mexico.

Pittsburg World's Champion.

Detroit, Mich.—Pittsburg won the world's baseball championship at Bennett Park Saturday by defeating Detroit by the overwhelming score of 8 to 0 in the seventh and decisive game of one of the greatest battles ever fought for the world's title. This gives the National league champions the victory by the count of four games to three. This is the third successive defeat of the American league champions in the world's series and consequently, the third straight victory for the National league, the Chicago team having defeated Detroit in 1907 and 1908.

Great Religious Gathering.

Pittsburg.—The greatest religious gathering ever held in this city and perhaps in the country occurred at Forbes Field here Sunday, when about 25,000 persons assembled at the sacrament of the Lord's supper, the event being the principal feature of Sunday's session of the convention of the Disciples of Christ, Christian Church.

Seattle Exposition Ends.

Seattle, Wash.—At midnight Saturday night the 150,000 electric lights of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition were put out, closing the world's fair of 1909, which from every standpoint was more successful than its most zealous friends had dared to hope. The final moments of the fair were as dramatic as its beginning on June 1, when 40,000 persons gathered at the natural amphitheatre and waited for President Taft's signal.

THE WONNERFUL MAN

Honerry Jones is a wonderfull man!

Yes sir!

Not many people can do what he can—

No, sir!

Honerry Jones, he can wiggle his ears—

Turnin' 'em back till he says 'at he hears

What is behind him as well as we do

What is in front. I can't do it. Can you?

Wish I could wiggle my ears just like his!

Wish I was as smart as ol' Honerry is!

Honerry Jones 'd fill you with surpris—

Yes sir!

You wouldn't hardly believe your own eyes—

No, sir!

Honerry Jones he can wiggle his hair—

Fill it will slide on his head everywhere—

He says he studied for years an' for years

Learnin' to wiggle his hair an' his ears,

Wish I could do things 'at Honerry can—

Honerry Jones is a wonderfull man.

Honerry Jones says 'at workin' is bad—

Yes sir!

He can't remember a job 'at he's had—

No, sir!

Honerry say 'at a bee is a fool.

Hustin' around when it's time to be cool.

Fillin' the hive for somebody to rob—

Honerry says it's the same with a job.

Wish I was Honerry Jones, yes, indeed—

He says his folks didn't want him to read!

Honerry Jones is a wonderfull man—

Yes sir!

Not many people can do what he can—

No, sir!

Wriggles his hair from his furred to neck;

Mebbe he'll learn me some day, I expect.

He says he practiced for years an' for years

Till he got so's he could wiggle his ears,

Wish I could wiggle my ears just like his!

Wish I was smart as ol' Honerry is!

Honerry Jones is a wonderfull man—

Yes sir!

Not many people can do what he caused by his own foolishness.

Pa says the prettier a woman is the more other women see that her hair
