FATAL HUNT FOR TREASURE

Natives Enter Old Tomb in Egypt Seeking Wealth and Perish by Suffocation.

A certain native discovered the entrance of a tomb in the floor of his stable, and at once proceeded to work his way down the tunnel. This was the end of the man. His wife, finding that he had not returned two hours or so later, went down the newly found tunnel after him. That was the end of her, also. In turn, three other members of the family went down into the darkness; and that was the end of them. A native official was then called, and, lighting his way with a candle, penetrated down the winding passage. The air was so foul that he was soon obliged to retreat, but he stated that he was just able to see in the distance ahead the bodies of the unfortunate peasants, all of whom had been overcome by what he quickly described as "the evil lighting and bad climate." Various attempts at the "rescue of the bodies having failed, we gave orders that this tomb should be regarded as their sepulcher and that its mouth should be sealed up. According to the natives, there was evidently a vast hoard of wealth stored at the bottom of this tomb, and the would-be robbers had met their death at the hands of the demon in charge of it, who had seized each man by the throat as he came down the tunnel and had strangled him.—A. E. P. Weigall, in Putnam's.

Never Let Go.

We hear much about forging to the front, taking time by the forelock, seizing the bull by the horns, and the like, and also that the man with the tail hold is entirely ignored. Nine men out of every ten wisely follow and succeed where one does who charges around at the front all the time. If you miss the forelock, seize the tail. It is the hanging on more than the peck at the head that counts. The man will go just as fast and nearly as far who has hold of the tail as the one hanging on to the horn; besides, he is hold on better and is in less danger. Young man, don't be too anxious to get rapidly to the front, but hang on to what you have and you will get ahead in the world just as fast as you deserve.—Columbia (Ain.) Breeze.

Steins Are Burglar Alarms.

In a New York rathskeller they have devised a novel way to protect the ornamental steins on the shelf running along the side of the room. Each stands upon a burglar alarm connection and when one is removed a contact is made, a drop falls on the annunciator indicating the position of the table and a bell rings. In a second half a dozen waiters are in attendance at that table and the stein goes back on its peg. The proprietors have lost so many valuable pieces of bric-a-brac that they were constrained to adopt this measure. Since the alarm system has gone into effect there have been many surprises, but no losses.

One Thing Beyond Any Power.

Tip knows other places where traveling is of the agony brand. After waiting for nearly four hours in Shannonville, Canada, between Toronto and Montreal, for a "mixed"—17 freight cars and one coach—I asked an impatient clergyman if he had been able to learn when the train would arrive. He eyed me up and down with pity. "Sir," he said, "that is the only thing that the Almighty does not know."—New York Press.

Two Maxims of Wisdom.

Learn caution in speech; there is no need of telling all you know to every casual acquaintance. Be patient to achieve the joy of enduring a few trials. We are all called upon to stand for a good deal in this life; if not in one way, then in another.

New Profession in Life.

"Naturalist and trainer of ants, bees, etc." was the description a man gave of himself at the North London (Eng.) police court.

Said Uncle Silas:

"A feller can't be hired to stay away from a girl he likes—until he marries her an' joins a club."—Los Angeles Express.

The Wonderful Amazon.

Although not the largest or longest river, the Amazon is the most wonderful river in the world, with a mouth 150 miles in width, and with a force of water that repels, or at least over-lays, the ocean to a distance of more than fifty leagues. Yet, in spite of the weight of the river, the tide makes its influence felt for 500 miles from the coast. The easterly trade winds blow almost invariably upward, so as to be ready to help the vessel against the adverse currents.

The Index has made its advent into newspaperdom, presumably without trying to fill "a long felt want" in the community, but simply to save a small community from ignorance and obscurity, and must have been a great sacrifice on the part of its editor and proprietor, as from his offer-tory he comes from an illustrious newspaper family. He offers, single handed and alone, to push this town to the front, not taking into consideration the two papers now occupying the field. He lays his large experience and superior equipment at the feet of our people and tells them that he is willing to lead them to higher thought, civilization and business success. He offers his special skill along educational lines, presumably that of school director. He does not offer any excuse for settling in a town of four hundred people where there are already two newspapers. The presumption is that like a great many other papers of the kind, that he would be doing the community a great service in coming here and establishing his paper. While he appears to have an unusual amount of courage in tackling such a proposition he has not had the courage to tell us whether he had any politics or not.

Four Reasons Why A National Bank Is Safe

1st. The U. S. Government is, in a sense, a silent partner, in the conduct of every National Bank.

In granting a charter to a bank it makes special inquiry as to the character and financial standing of the applicants.

Twice a year, or oftener, it sends an examiner, who makes an examination of all records and business methods employed, reporting any irregularities to the Comptroller of Currency.

2nd. The U. S. Government keeps a watchful, but friendly eye on all National Banks.

It requires each National Bank to make a sworn statement of its condition, five times in a year, and to publish such reports in the local newspaper.

It requires the Board of Directors to perform its duties, and to have a knowledge of the manner in which the business is being conducted.

3rd. The U. S. Government forbids National Banks to own any real estate, except its own building.

It does not allow National Banks to loan their money on real estate.

It does not allow a National Bank to loan more than ten per cent of its capital stock and surplus to any one borrower.

It holds each stockholder responsible for an additional amount equal to the stock owned, in case of any irregularities or shortage.

4th. The U. S. Government requires a National Bank to secure its currency circulation by purchasing government bonds and depositing same with the U. S. Treasurer.

It requires the National Bank to maintain at all times a cash reserve equal to 25 per cent of its deposits.

It does not allow this legal reserve to be re-deposited with other than National Banks
