This is a photograph of the great Zeppelin built by the Germans especially for a bombing trip to New York. If the war had lasted the weeks longer the American coast might have been subjected to a rain of high explosives and incendiary bombs. The picture was brought from the tin by Col. William Hensley, Jr., United States air service.

CHARGED $300 FOR A PINT; BELL BOYS NOW IN TROUBLE

Albuquerque, Oct. 29.—Elliott B. Fulton was fined $300 on the charge of being drunk and two bell boys were each given their choice of a 900 fine or 50 days in jail as a result of a fight in the Combs hotel last night, when one of the boys is alleged to have charged Fulton on for a pint of whisky. According to the report of the police, Fulton knocked Jose Aragon down, the disturbance bringing a policeman who placed all the parties under arrest. Fulton explained to the judge that he was mad because he had lost $200 in an Old Town card game and became more angry when he was asked such a price for the whisky. He admitted being drunk and could not remember just how he lost the money. Police believe that the Combs hotel bell-boys have been a source for bootlegging whisky for some time. Fulton paid his fine, but the two boys went to jail and are endeavoring to raise the money to pay their fines.
