

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo. — "I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

HARRY HILLEN DIES ON GALLOWES

BOY BANDIT CALM ON DEATH TRAP; MAINTAINED HIS INNOCENCE TO END.

DROP KILLS INSTANTLY

STOOD WITHOUT QUIVER UNTIL HOOD WAS ADJUSTED AND WEIGHT DROPPED.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

HILLEN'S MARCH TO GALLOWES. Born in Cheyenne, Wyoming, July 13, 1889. Ran away from his home in San Francisco when 14 years old. Forged checks, using his father's name. Later forged uncle's name to checks. Found guilty for first time and sentenced to serve one year in Utah penitentiary. Robbed a number of homes on a trip to the East. Robbed stores in many cities including Chicago, Philadelphia, Kansas City and San Francisco. Joined the U. S. army. Deserted from the army. Came to Colorado as a "hobo" in October, 1913. Desperate for money, he and a mysterious friend known as "Curley" planned crimes and procured revolvers. Terrorized Denver, with "Curley" during the week of Oct. 20, 1913; holding up a score of men, taking money only and returning jewelry. Murdered Thomas Chase, a Denver real estate man, in cold blood, because Chase "smiled at him" and "didn't move fast enough to suit him." Shot Pullman Conductor Clark. Robbed A. D. Hensley's grocery at 617 Twentieth street, Oct. 26, 1913. Arrested Oct. 26. Confessed to the murder of Chase, and numerous other sensational crimes, Oct. 27, 1913. Convicted of murder in the first degree, Dec. 18, 1913. Sentenced by District Court to be hanged some time in the week of April 20, 1914. Appeal denied by Colorado Supreme Court, March 1, 1915. Again sentenced to be hanged, some time in the week beginning June 20, 1915. Appeal made by committee of representative women, to Board of Pardons, to commute sentence to life imprisonment, June 15, 1915. Board refused, same afternoon. Appeals made to Governor Carlson by condemned man's uncle, H. H. Hillen, for commutation. Hillen's last hope of executive clemency dies, as governor refuses even to see his beautiful sister, Irene Hillen, June 22, 1915. Hillen looks for the last time at his sister's face, when she visits him in the death cell in Cañon City penitentiary, afternoon of June 24, 1915. Hillen hangs, night of June 24, 1915.

Cañon City, Colo., June 25.—Harry Hillen, Denver "boy bandit," slayer of Thomas Chase in October, 1913, last night took the step on the gallows drop that ended his life. A career of lawlessness, marked by half a hundred crimes, was closed when he walked upon the little square platform in the state penitentiary death chamber; a moment later he was dangling from the end of a rope. He was pronounced dead at 10:30 o'clock.

Blamed Deed on Companions. Until the final minute of his life Hillen maintained his innocence of the murder of Chase in Denver a year and a half ago. He blamed that deed upon two companions, youths who had helped him in other crimes to which he confessed to the Denver police.

The last four of Hillen's life began with the assembling of witnesses and officials in the penitentiary. The slayer had made his spiritual peace earlier in the day, with ministrations by Prison Chaplain Blake and the Rev. C. P. Haley, a Baptist pastor. His sister, Miss Irene Hillen, had spent most of the day with him, bringing confirmation of the news that the governor had refused to interfere in the case.

His spiritual adviser, Chaplain Blake and the Rev. Mr. Haley, stepped forward, and in tones audible only to the man between them, commended his soul to his Maker. Their rites performed, they retired.

Then the black cap—and from the group came shudders. Heads were averted and remained so until the end.

In a twinkling the guards had hobbled the prisoner, leaving him just enough foot freedom to step backward once more. His arms and wrists were fastened to his sides and the guards adjusted the knot carefully and then they stepped back. A low word of command was given from some one in uniform and, obedient though he knew it was fatal, Hillen took the step. He felt the little platform sink slowly and he braced himself rigidly.

The platform's sinking released an 800-pound weight in a side room. The weight fell, carrying with it the other end of the rope which was stretched over a series of pulleys.

The prison physician, Dr. Hart Goodloe, stepped forward and examined the pulse. Shortly he pronounced Harry Hillen dead.

CELEBRATED HIS PRIVATE FOURTH

How Grandfather Watts Recognized Day of Signing of Independence Declaration.

Grandfather Watts used to tell us boys That a Fourth wa'n't a Fourth without any noise. He would say, with a thump of his hickory stick, That it made an American right down sick To see his sons, on the Nation's Day, Sit 'round in a listless sort of way. With no oration and no train band, No firework show and no root-beer stand, While his grandsons, before they were out of bibs, Were ashamed—great Scott! to fire off squibs.

And so each Independence morn, Grandfather Watts took his powder horn, And the flintlock-gun his father had When he fought under Schuyler, a country lad, And Grandfather Watts would start and tramp Ten miles to the woods at Beaver Camp; For Grandfather Watts used to say—and scowl— That a decent chipmunk, or woodchuck, or owl Was better company, friendly or shy, Than folks who didn't keep Fourth of July.

And so he would pull his hat down on his brow, And march for the woods, sou' east-by sou'! But once—ah! long, long years ago, For grandfather's gone where good men go— One hot, hot Fourth, by ways of our own, Such short cuts as boys have always known, We hurried, and followed the dear old man Beyond where the wilderness began, To the deep, black woods at the foot of the Hump, And there was a clearing and a stump, And there on the stump our grandfather stood, Talking and shouting out there in the sun, And firing that feeny old flintlock-gun Once in a minute, his head all bare, Having his Fourth of July out there— The Fourth of July he used to know Back in eighteen and twenty or so.

First, with his face to the heaven's blue, He read the "Declaration" through; And then, with gestures to left and right, He made an oration erudite, Full of words six syllables long; And then our grandfather broke into song, And, scaring the squirrels in the trees, Gave "Hail Columbia" to the breeze.

And I tell you the old man never heard When we joined in the chorus, word for word! But he sang out strong to the bright blue sky; And if voices joined in his Fourth of July He heard them as echoes of days gone by. And when he had done, we all slipped back, As still as we came, on our twisting track, While words more clear than the flintlock shots Rang in our ears. And Grandfather Watts? He shouldered the gun his father bore And marched off home, nor west-by-nor!

Immune to Cold. Gouverneur Morris, the New York litterateur, said at a luncheon in Brooklyn:

"American society is the most exclusive in the world. Useless, quite useless, for a litterateur to try and force his way into it.

"I know a litterateur who, on the strength of a best seller, managed to get himself invited to a dinner at Mrs. Van Astor's."

"Well, did Mrs. Van Astor cordially stagger you?" I asked him the next day.

"Oh, no, not at all," he answered. "You see, before I took up writing, I worked in an ice-making plant."

An Old-Fashioned Idea. "I tell you," said Joshua Oldstock, "this here new feminist movement ain't goin' to pan out. The only feminist movement that ever was any good was the one we had when I was a young man."

"Why," his grandniece replied, "there was no such thing as a feminist movement when you were a young man!"

"There wa'n't, eh? That's all you know about it. The greatest feminist movement in the world is a good, sensible woman darnin' a sock and rockin' a cradle with her foot."—Judge.

LIFE IN HIGHEST ALTITUDES

Hard for Newcomer to Adapt Himself to Conditions Prevailing on "Roof of the Continent."

Prof. Alsworth Ross of the University of Wisconsin, in an article in the Century Magazine entitled, "Peru, the 'Roof of the Continent,'" tells of the difficulty of merely sustaining life in the higher altitudes among the Andes. He says:

Life at Cerro de Pasco, nearly a league up, is as trying as life under a diving bell at the bottom of the ocean. The newcomer gasps for air like a stranded fish, and wakes up at night gulping mouthfuls out of the thin atmosphere. Three quick steps put you out of breath, and after climbing a flight of stairs you must sit down for a rest. "I know," panted a "tenderfoot," "how I'll feel when I'm eighty." No employee is sent up by the company unless he has passed a physical examination, but occasionally one gets blue in the face and has to be sent down forthwith. Thus the Inca Chronicle often has such items as "Jake L., who returned here last April, has been sent home with his heart machinery in bad shape."

The young fellows play tennis and ball, and even indulge in track athletics; but the pace must be very slow. Singing is not popular, for you cannot get the breath to hold a note. Pneumonia is sure death here within 48 hours, so that the sufferer must be rushed down to the sea level in a special train that costs the company $500. The typhoid patient, too, must flee, and the northern women must descend to Lima to bear their babies.

The mining company's Americans are usually big, athletic, deep-chested men, strong of jaw, sinewy of grip, and masterful of manner. They are well paid and looked after, but too many of them squander money and vitality in fighting off the demon of loneliness.
