OUR TRIP TO STATE FAIR

(Too late for last week)

To the Public:

Since the return of the boys and girls from the State Fair, I have been questioned many times as to the why and how of the trip. I take this means of informing others who may wish to know of the plan being put forward by the Extension Department of the N. M. College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts.

The United States Government, realizing the great work done by the corn and canning clubs in various states, has provided leaders from each agricultural college to develop in the homes the industrial activities of the boys and girls. "Projects" of raising field crops, vegetables, poultry, hogs, and the canning of fruits and vegetables, sewing and baking have been formulated and Prof. T. W. Conway and Miss Dora Edna Ross of the A & M College have travelled over the state explaining and interesting the children to work out a project under the direction for the Boys' and Girls' Industrial Club.

To awaken interest in this work, the State Fair Association, appropriated a thousand dollars to entertain ten boys and girls of each county at a state encampment during the State Fair with Capt. J. H. Toulouse in charge.

Not a cent of expense for entertainment was expected of a delegate from the time he stepped off the train at Albuquerque: in our county, the local committee of the fair appropriated fifty dollars and Blanchard Bros. donated ten dollars toward the railroad fare of delegates. Three boys and three girls were taken with this sum, parents of the others paying the railroad fare.

Each morning the club leaders gave instruction in industrial subjects and in methods of the club work. Exhibits of what had been done this year by club members were shown and the delegates were sent abroad to all parts of the state to tell of what had been and what could be accomplished by any child in his own home.

Another year the delegates will be those who have faithfully worked out a project, and who will have exhibited a sample of the completed project at a county meeting. This wonderful trip being in the nature of a prize to the faithful. Address Prof. T. W. Conway, State College, as to details of the work.

As not all of those first appointed could accept, the places were partly filled by others. The party was composed of Misses Maude Bryan, Margaret Lacey, Lucy Straley, Robbie Taylor, Lorena Haley, Clara Fritz, Geraldine Tully, Franklin Bixler, Henry Peebles, Pinkney Roberts, Herman Gashwind, Mrs.

W. L. Gumm, chaparrone.

Another year we hope to take as large a number each one of whom shall take a sample of dry land or irrigated crops, poultry, sewing, baking or canning that they have raised or made by their own individual effort.

On behalf of the Lincoln County Delegation I wish to acknowledge our appreciation of royal entertainment given us in camp, and the courtesies extended by the State Fair Association, County Committee of the State Fair, Capt. J. H. Toulouse, Companies G. and L. National Guard, Mrs. Wm. C. McDonald and Messrs. Blanchard Bros.

Yours very truly,

Mrs. W. L. Gumm,
Supt. Lincoln Co. Schools.

HARD ON POOR JULIUS

Julius Rosenwald, millionaire president of the Sear Roebuck Company of Chicago, Ill., was in the city the first of the week in his private car. He laid back in his million dollar easy chair and his million dollar cushion and didn't even get up to come out and look for his old chums who have been paying him cash for such a long time that he could get rich and ride in a private car. While your home merchant was calling at your door and asking if there was anything he could do for you this morning and giving you plenty of opportunities to pay your bill when it was most convenient, the fellow who gets your cash every now and then was riding by without noticing you in a million dollar outfit.—Gallup Independent.
