Question Answered. Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mother's and grandmothers' never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious in the matter with you. For sale by H. C. Crute.

Reorganization at Normal.

A considerable surprise was sprung last Friday when through the Richmond Dispatch the news came that the Normal School chairs will all be declared vacated at the end of the present session in June. In part the following is what the Dispatch said: 'The decision to reorganize the teaching staff was reached at a meeting of the board in this city in December last, but the teachers have just been notified. Teachers will be re-elected at a meeting of the board in June.

'This action of the board applies only to the faculty of instructors. It does not apply, however, to President Robert Frazer, LL. D., who is also instructor in psychology and physics. The action of the board had been contemplated for some time. Indeed, Hon. John Jackson, of this city, vice president of the Board of Trustees, stated that but for the sudden death of President John A. Cunningham, several years ago, it would have been inaugurated during his incumbency.

'The vacation of all the chairs does not contemplate by any means the dismissal of all the present teachers, but is intended to simplify a thorough reorganization of the entire teaching staff. The real object of the reorganization is to add two male teachers to the faculty.

'In addition to Dr. Frazer, Professor of Psychology and Civics, the faculty of the institution is as follows: 'Miss Virginia Reynolds, biology and geology; Miss Martha W. Coulling, drawing and form; Miss Minnie V. Rice, Latin; Miss Mary E. Stone, grammar, composition, and American literature; Miss Edna V. Moffett, history and English literature; Miss S. Gray Patterson, mathematics; Miss Fannie F. Littleton, physics and chemistry; Miss Lela O. Andrews, history of education, vocal music, and physical culture; Miss Lela J. Harvey, assistant in mathematics; Miss Sarah E. Pritchett, shorthand and typewriting and assistant in English; Mrs. S. T. Hardy, principal of practice school and teacher of language methods; Miss Estelle Smithley, German and French.

'The faculty of the school is a strong one, but the board believes it can be made stronger by changes resulting from a complete reorganization.

'The school has done fine work ever since its establishment fifteen years ago. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction says that when a graduate of the Female Normal, takes charge of a school, the most marked improvement is at once observable. Similar testimony was borne by Hon. J. W. Todd, member of the House of Delegates from Augusta county, who stated in a speech before a legislative committee at the last session of the General Assembly, that while he did not know an officer of the school, and had never been to Farmville in his life, he had been a member of the School Board of Augusta county ever since the establishment of the public school system in Virginia, and after observing the work done in the schools of his county by two or three graduates of the school, he wanted more of them to teach in the State, and desired greater legislative aid extended to the institution. At the last session of the Legislature an appropriation of $20,000 was made to the school, which will be expended in the building of a modern equipped gymnasium, a steam laundry, an infirmary, and the installation of steam heating apparatus. The Board of Trustees purchased last fall a piece of property adjoining the lot on which the school is located, and on a part of this addition a portion of the new buildings will be located.

'In the course of his conversation with a Dispatch writer, Mr. Jackson took occasion to refer in the most complimentary terms to the wise administration of President Frazer, and also said that much of the success of the institution was due to the wisdom and sound judgment of Dr. James Nelson, of this city, who was largely instrumental in securing the passage of the bill establishing the school, and who has been a member of the Board of Trustees ever since it opened its doors.'

Scott-Fretwell. A pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening last at Antioch church, Cumberland county, when Mr. Stephen A. Scott and Miss Lizzie A. Fretwell were married. The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Walter C. Foster. The best man was Mr. Alvin Kennedy, while the maid of honor was Miss Julia Holman. The other attendants were Mr. Charles Corson and Miss Mollie Holman, Mr. Herbert Glenn and Miss Lizzie Scott, Mr. Irving Kennedy and Miss Martha Holman, Mr. Samuel Foster and Miss Annie Glenn, Mr. Samuel Selden and Miss Virginia Amos. The bride was becomingly attired in a light tan dress and carried a large bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Lizzie Foster presided at the organ and as the party entered the church, rendered in exquisite tones, a familiar bridal selection. The church was tastefully decorated for the happy occasion.

After the ceremony the entire bridal party, together with a large number of most intimate friends of the bride and groom, repaired to the home of Mrs. M. D. Foster, (a sister of the bride), where a sumptuous repast was served in true old Virginia style.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott left Wednesday for their home in Amelia county, carrying with them the loving good wishes of a host of friends.

Census Supervisor. Major A. K. Venable, Jr., has been appointed Census Supervisor for the Fourth Virginia District, as successor of Hon. Francis R. Lassiter, lately elected congressman. Major Venable's appointment was made several days ago, and sent to the Senate on Monday for ratification.

Death of a Good Citizen.

Mr. J. W. Gills died last Sunday afternoon a little past one o'clock aged 67 years.

About ten days before his death, Mr. Gills was stricken on our Main street, with what seemed to be partial paralysis. He was taken to his home from which he did not afterwards leave. Sunday morning he was able to sit up, and displayed more strength and looked more improved than at any other time during his illness. Soon after returning to bed he grew weaker suddenly and rapidly, until he had passed peacefully away. His physicians, friends and loved ones ministered unceasingly in their efforts to alleviate his sufferings and to restore him to health again, but he had finished his life work, and his Master whom he loved to serve, called him home.

Mr. Gills came to Farmville from Buckingham county, about twelve years ago, since which time he has been one of the busiest and most popular of our citizens. He was a devoted husband and father, and while we realize that no words can assuage the grief of the hearts made desolate by this providence, yet to them we offer our profoundest sympathy, and may the shadows which now hang so heavily and dark in their homes be lifted, and the precious memory of him, who has only gone before, change the sadness and gloom into peace and sunshine.

Mr. Gills leaves a wife and seven children. The children are, Mrs. R. J. Carter, of Prospect; Mrs. W. R. Smith, of Gardonia; Mrs. C. B. Cunningham, of Farmville; Messrs. C. W. Gills, J. Wiley Gills, W. J. Gills and Miss Anne Henry Gills.

The funeral took place from the Methodist church, of which Mr. Gills had long been a faithful member, last Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Mr. Edwards, assisted by Rev. Dr. Harding, of the Presbyterian church and Rev. Mr. Dey, of prospect. The burial was made with Masonic honors.

Military Company Organized. Last Tuesday night there was a very enthusiastic meeting of those who had enrolled their names as members of the proposed military company of Farmville. Several meetings had previously been held through the indefatigable efforts of those two gallant ex-Confederates, Captain S. W. Paulett and R. D. Miller. To these two gentlemen the town should feel indebted for the untiring work which they devoted to the reorganization of the Farmville Guard. The true necessity for a military company is bound to be apparent to all who give the subject serious consideration, and now that one has been organized and officered in part, to those who were chief in procuring the requisite number of names for the company the citizens, and especially property-holding citizens, ought to be deeply grateful. The meeting Tuesday night, of course, only elected its commission officers, and they were wisely selected. For Captain, John R. Martin; First Lieutenant, Robert W. Cralle; Second Lieutenant, N. M. Gill. In all there are more than sixty members to the list and it is hoped that there are numbers of young men who will enlist at the next meeting. The enlistment is for only three years, and it is promised that there shall not be more than one afternoon in each month when the boys will be called upon to do drill duty in public.

Lassiter's Majority. The whole number of votes cast in the counties and corporations forming the Fourth Congressional District of Virginia, in a special election for a Representative in the Congress of the United States, held on Thursday, April 19th, was as follows, the candidates being Major F. R. Lassiter and James Seldon Cowdon:

Table with 3 columns: Counties, Lassiter, Cowdon. Includes entries for Amelia, Brunswick, Dinwiddie, Greensville, Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Nottoway, Petersburg, Prince George, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Sussex, and a Total of 3,217.

Coming to Farmville. The Fad Photo Co., which has made over 100,000 pictures in Virginia during the past six months will be in Farmville May 7th, over Chappell's Confectionery, and will make 15 Real Photographs for 15 cents. These unheard of prices should insure them a liberal patronage.

Death of Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Adelaide Kate Brown, wife of Mr. Charles H. Brown, died at her home in Kenova, W. Va., last Monday morning at 3 o'clock, in her 29th year. The remains were brought to Farmville and taken to the home of Mrs. Tate, mother of the deceased. From there the interment was made in the Farmville cemetery Wednesday afternoon, burial services of the Episcopal church being read by Rev. Dr. Harding.

The scene about the open grave was one of unusual sadness when the bereaved young husband took the parting look at the beloved form made cold by the relentless hand of death.

Mrs. Brown leaves besides her husband, a ten-months-old baby, an aged mother and many relatives to mourn her untimely death.

BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

Over the mountains and over the hills, Over the rivers, the streams and the rills, Over the valleys that sing; Over the forest and over the wood, Over the trees that awaken to bud, Over the sweet breath of the spring.

Over the fields where springs up the grain, Over the herbs and the plants of the plain, Over the flowers that fling Out their banners of yellow and purple and blue

To the light, and look out on a world made anew, Blows the sweet breath of the spring.

Over the robins and bluebirds and all The sparrow that chirter and twitter and call, Over the crow on the wing; Over the squirrel that plays in the tree, Over his haunts—and himself—the brown bee, Blows the sweet breath of the spring.

Over the rich man and over the poor, The boy in the roadway, the girl in the door— The plants the good mothers upbring; Over the green of the swift-springing sword That awakes to the life-giving voice of the Lord, Blows the sweet breath of the spring.

Dog wood blossoms and dandelions adorn wood and field.

The town council will meet next Tuesday night when it is reported that its recently-enacted ordinance placing restrictions upon whiskey selling will be reconsidered.

We are requested to give notice that at the services Sunday night at the Baptist Church, Rev. S. H. Thompson will preach a special sermon to the Junior Order American Mechanics. The public is cordially invited.

The concert which was to have been given last week, will be had at the Opera House next Thursday night—10th inst. Remember its object—benefit of the monument fund. Everybody should attend.

The smallpox scare has entirely disappeared from our town, and the streets again show enlivened conditions. The Normal girls are given the privilege of the town and their appearance in our store and about the streets is most gratifying to all.

What has become of all the enthusiasm which seemed to thrill our friends who first attended the meetings for the proposed fair? Was it all consumed in the two gatherings, so that there will have to be another meeting of the citizens to renew interest?

Mr. Jack Williams, who lived many years ago in Farmville, was here yesterday on a visit. His home is now in Western North Carolina. It has been eighteen years since he was here before and the improvements in our town have been so extensive that the place to him was scarcely recognizable.

The base ball tea as of the Farmville High School and the Down-Town boys crossed bats Wednesday afternoon in the field near the race track. The result was that the school team was badly beaten, the score being 48 to 22. A number of three baggers were made, and altogether the game was quite enjoyable to onlookers.

Memorial services were held last Sunday in respect to the memory of the late Samuel P. Bolling. They were held in Cumberland where the deceased had for many years resided, and the eulogies paid him were many and came from both white and black. One especially good address is said to have been made by George W. Bragg, of Richmond, who was classed by Bolling during his life as a very near friend.

The Pension Board of Prince Edward met one day this week and passed upon applications for pensions amounting to about $1,000 per annum. It's a sad contrast—that of the poor, enfeebled ex-Confederate coming ten, fifteen or twenty miles to make application for a pension of some $15.00 per annum, and the yankee soldier, who lives in comparative ease and comfort receiving from the national treasury ten times this amount.

The meeting Monday night of the Farmville Business Men's Association was not an encouraging one. The good of such an organization to Farmville's interests would prove incalculable if the shoulders of its members were put to the wheel. Owing to the indisposition of the President, Mr. W. G. Venable, he was not present and Mr. G. M. Robeson presided. No business of importance was transacted and the meeting adjourned to meet on the night of the 14th inst.

Virginians are greatly blessed in their educational opportunities. The State has a good system of public schools in which the elements of a sound education are imparted, and the University of Virginia, an integral part of the system, and as such "free to Virginians" in the academic schools, affords to every one in the commonwealth an opportunity for that higher education which is more than ever before necessary.

I am as fond of good preaching as any living man, but I do believe I enjoyed last Sunday in a quiet country place where I was denied the privilege of listening to a sermon as much as any of my travelling life. I did go to a Methodist Sunday School in the morning, where I received a warm welcome and where I spent a profitable and pleasant hour, and the rest of the day I had access to good books and the comforts of an ideal Southern home. "Day of all the week the best." I wish we had two out of seven instead of one. We could all make a living and live better and nobler lives.

I never touch the soil of Appomattox that a feeling of reverence does not come over me—reverence for the immortal leader, whom the boys who wore the gray loved to follow, for the worn and wasted veterans who would have fought on if Lee had so ordered, for the tattered banners, for the heroes who were not dishonored by surrender to overwhelming number, for the brave people who have been healing the scars of war and winning, under adverse conditions, the victories of peace.

The old county gives evidence of advance on material lines and her people have just secured a moral triumph. No saloon opens its door in all the county, and at least the mothers and wives are rejoicing.

I had not been through the county of Campbell since the year 1857. Of course there are changes since then, but her people are to be congratulated on appearances and I have no doubt on solid improvements on farms and in homes. Fences are more in evidence than with us and the paint brush too. Painted homes and yard fences and barns make an attractive rural scene. I am quite sure that at least the white wash brush might be put to more active use about all our homes.

There is a quantity of tobacco in the hands of farmers in all this section, and they are rejoicing to know it is selling high. No farmer, in my opinion, can afford to have two crops of tobacco on hand at the same time. Better sell before spring work opens.

And I very much fear they are all paying too much attention to tobacco to the neglect of other crops. The scarcity of forage wherever I go is simply deplorable. This ought not to be, my countrymen. Let's make enough to eat, and then something to sell.

The wealth of blossoms gives evidence of an abundant fruit crop.

'To plan and carry forward measures which, with the blessing of God, will result in the promotion of total abstinence, and the extinction of the liquor traffic.'

The regular meeting of the Y's was held in the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, May 1st, at 4:30 o'clock. The topic for discussion for the afternoon was 'The Liquor Traffic and Foreign Missions.' The following points are taken from a paper written by Mrs. C. A. Dunham: 'The greatest obstacle to the progress of missionary work today is the liquor traffic, carried on the Christian lands, where it is legalized, to the lands where the heathen religions forbid the manufacture and use of all intoxicants. If it be true that the English-speaking people are largely responsible for the introduction of intoxicating drinks into the uncivilized portion of the world, then it is also true that the "redeemed" among them are not responsible for the putting forth of mighty effort to counteract the evil influence exerted by those of their countrymen who are hostile to the spread of Christianity, and are so diligent in laying stumbling blocks in the way. These whom we are trying to Christianize naturally attribute our vices, as well as our virtues, to our religion. Said an intelligent Hindoo to one of our missionaries: 'I do not like your people; the followers of Jesus Christ drink whiskey.' 'As drunk as a Christian' is a common proverb in all heathen lands.

'After thirty-one years spent in India, Archbishop Jeffries makes this terrible charge: 'For one really converted Christian as the proof of missionary labor, the drinking practices of England have made a thousand drunkards.'

'If the women interested in missionary work would also give their membership and work in this society the cause would so advance that heathen nations would soon feel the benefit of its own onward march, and this great obstacle to the establishment of Christ's kingdom be removed.'

Miss Pattie Estelle McGehee will give one of her interesting entertainments for the benefit of the Y. W. C. T. U., Friday evening June 1.

Charlotte, Campbell, Appomattox and Prince Edward.

Editor Herald:—Mr. R. E. Gilliam, who lives at Darlington Heights, is another of our thrifty citizens who some years ago got tired of renting and went to buying. He was paying $75.00 a year for house and 25 acres, and for $1,100 bought the entire premises, paid for it on time, and is now the happy owner of all the houses, and all the trees, and all the flowers, and all the acres.

He tells me that old Mr. Jim Mickle must have named the place Darlington Heights, but where he got the Darlington from he has no idea.

For the benefit of mothers who have restless children I must mention a bedstead I saw in this home. Nothing more nor less than a goods box, about 5 feet long by 3 wide and 12 inches deep. It had no rollers on it, but a clean tick and clean sheets and good blankets to match, and in that sleepy hollow I did see a model boy of some three summers resting more comfortably than any cricket in the corner, and he couldn't roll but a few inches either way. I saw him wake from his night's slumbers, and never were brighter eyes, or brighter cheeks, or more restful expression.

Mothers need give themselves no more concern about beds for children.

As a boy I was always interested in "Chickentown," Charlotte county, and I wondered where it got its name, as on two occasions I passed through it and there wasn't a chicken in sight.

For the third time in my life I was there again on last Friday, and found that the only change about the place was in its name—it is now called Madison. Capt. Pugh is still there, selling goods in the same old brick store where he has been selling them for 50 years and more. A son is now in active charge, and evidently the trade of the old burg is still good. The lands surrounding it are excellent, and the fences the tallest and strongest I know of. Evidently the armies didn't pass that way.

"Red House," eight miles West, is one of the few hostleries of bygone still opening its doors to welcome guests, and where the traveller finds refreshing rest and a glorious table. Mrs. Bradley, widow of the late W. O. Bradley, who lived in Prince Edward for a number of years, is in charge and "knows how to keep a hotel."

I met with a Charlotte farmer who told me to say to Prince Edward farmers that from one acre of tobacco he realized $121.80. He did not say how much it cost him to raise it but he did say he made "big money."

The farmers of this section of the county trade too much with Lynchburg. Farmville ought to look into this.
