Those wishing bill or pocket account books will be certain to find there a selection from which they will be able to fit themselves out to their satisfaction at most reasonable rates.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

Another wedding of prominent people will, it is said, soon take place here.

Our people are busily engaged in planting round potatoes and other trucks.

Charles Collins has sold his store house and stock of goods to Kendall Jester, for the sum of $1,150.

Rev. G. P. Jones will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday, and leave for conference on Wednesday.

The storehouse of Isaac Coffin, deceased, sold at public auction last week, was bid off to his son Mallory, at $905.

Mr. Eba Burch, of Assateague, was the only representative from the Islands at the inauguration of Cleveland and Stevenson, and according to his account, it was a grand affair despite the weather.

Arrivals at Atlantic hotel, this week: Frank Hanna, Wilmington, Del.; Jas. McGoatber, Philadelphia; A. P. Shirik, Lancaster, Pa.; J. E. Lyman, N. B. Greshy, New York; W. B. Fleming, Harrington, Del.; J. Kelly, Logan Henderson, Accomac.

The schooners P. J. Hart and Jno. M. Price, caught in the storm between this place and the breakwater, have not yet been heard from and the fate of the crews on board of them, therefore, is a matter of great anxiety to our people. Some think they went down in the storm, others say, they may have been blown out to sea and the crews taken off and carried to some foreign port.

The Hart, loaded with cord wood for New York, was worth about $1,000 and belonged to Capt. Jos. Pruitt. She had on board Wm. K. Collins, of Greenbackville, master, John Block, of Stockton, Md., mate, W. H. Fletcher, colored, cook, and a passenger, Lewis Logan, Greenbackville.

The Price, belonging to Capt. Jno. W. Bunting and Mrs. W. P. Burch, worth about $1,000, was loaded with oysters for Landcraft & Co., Fair Haven, Conn. She had aboard Alfred Lewis, captain, Sydney Mason, mate, Robert L. Smith and George Townsend, colored, all of this place.

The Price has been heard from through columns of the N. Y. Herald. Her crew was taken off the boat by a steamer bound from Norfolk to London, on the 23rd of February, 250 miles east of Chincoteague and landed safely at Liverpool, March 5th.

Mr. A. T. Doughty is quite sick at this writing.

Several of our citizens availed themselves of the opportunity to see Grover on the 4th and each reports a pleasant visit to the Capitol, in spite of the stormy weather.

Dr. Jno. L. Harmanson, quite sick a few weeks ago, we are glad to state, is out again and has entirely recovered.

Our farmers are busily engaged in planting Irish potatoes and bedding sweets. The latter are more plentiful than was anticipated a few weeks ago and the price for same has dropped to $1 per bushel.

The acreage in onions and peas in this section, this season, will be much larger than usual.

The number of pupils in our public schools is over one hundred and two private schools in our town also have a liberal patronage.

There has been no agitation here of the Post office question since the election.

Our oystermen are shipping very fine oysters and receiving fair prices for same.

Sweet and Irish potato seed very scarce in this section. Farmers are arranging for bedding the first fair day.

Fisherman will start their traps about the 20th of this month. Old fishermen say that fish will be very plentiful this season.

Messrs. J. C. Boggs & Son have received Mr. J. H. Turner into partnership with them under the firm name and style of Boggs, Turner & Co. They will start a lumber yard in connection with their business at an early day.

Mr. Joseph J. Sparrow and Miss Lullie Powell, were married on the 1st inst., near Middlesex. After the ceremony the bridal party and many other friends repaired to the home of the groom and were charmingly entertained. Everyone present has only words of praise for the wedding feast and the hop which followed it.

Mr. John T. Jones, brother of David W. Jones, died in Norfolk, Va., Feb. 25th, of heart failure, aged 52 years. His remains were brought to New Church, Monday, 27th, for interment, which took place at the home of his brother. Rev. W. W. Wood preached the funeral sermon to a large and sympathetic congregation.

Mrs. Monday's Baltimore Sun says: "Mrs. Corinthia Read Williams, wife of Rev. Dr. J. W. M. Williams, pastor of First Baptist Church, died suddenly yesterday of paralysis of the heart, at her home, No. 115 North Charles street. Mrs. Williams was paralyzed in September, 1891, while on a visit to Rock Eton Springs, Va." She was a native of Northampton and a sister of Littleton S. Read, deceased.

A meeting of the trustees of Margaret Academy will be held at Keller Station, on Saturday, April 1st, at 12 o'clock, at which time the location will probably be decided on.

C. S. Slocomb & Bros. Remember that Slocomb & Bros., Onancock, keep the finest and freshest groceries and confectioneries to be found anywhere.

C. S. Slocomb & Bros., Onancock, are getting in a fine line of shoes for ladies, misses and men. As buttons are only put on shoes temporarily when made, they have a patent foot power machine to put them on with, with metal fastenings that will not hurt the foot and when they set a pair of shoes they reset the buttons in a minute or two without extra trouble and labor of having to sew them on by hand. So when in need of shoes give them a call and they will certainly try to please you.

The Baptist Church house at Mappsville will be dedicated on Sunday, March 12th, at 3:30 p. m. Sermon by Rev. A. E. Dickinson, D. D., of Richmond, Va. A cordial invitation extended to all. Dr. Dickinson will also preach at Bethel on the same day at 11 a. m.

The Potato Kitchen.

Mr. EDITOR:—In a late issue of the Eastern Shore Herald, Mr. H. R. Bennett calls attention to a proposed scheme for advertising the excellencies of our Eastern Shore sweets. The plan involves a practical appeal to the palates of the world by the establishment of a Potato Kitchen in the Virginia section of the World's Exposition. Here, under the domination of suitable cooks to the manner born, the potato is to be served, secundum artem, in every style known to Eastern Shore culinary science. The suggestion appears to be eminently practical and feasible. I am glad to learn that the ladies of the Eastern Shore connected with the great exhibition have taken up the proposition, with the determination to make it a success.

It cannot be denied that, whether from circumstances or choice, the Eastern Shore has tied to the sweet potato as its staple crop. Every business interest of our county is hopelessly committed to it, and a failure in either crop or price is necessarily a public disaster. Most other vegetable crops grown here may be, and are, successfully cultivated in other sections; and the disadvantages of competition are inevitable. But the culture of the sweet potato is limited, in general, to a comparatively small area; and there appears to be something in our soil or climate that would almost secure for us the benefits of a monopoly, if the peculiar eating quality of our tuber could be duly appreciated. Unfortunately, owing to the inferior average stock shipped from the counties now, the reputation of our potatoes is gradually losing ground. The logic of the situation demands some effort to restore it. And it is easy to understand that whatever tends to promote the popularity of the sweet potato, increase its consumption, and thereby strengthen the demand for it, is a consideration of vital importance to our people. The great West, as yet, knows comparatively little of this luxury. And yet, with our present cheap freight-rates in that direction—scarcely more to Chicago than New York—there appears to be no reason why we should pour out, like an avalanche, such a perishable crop upon a few near-by markets, where "gluts" are steadily lowering the scale of prices, and thereby surely impoverishing our people.

Perhaps it would be difficult to conceive of a plan more simple than that suggested by Mr. Bennett; or one that, with so small an outlay, would advertise our crop so widely. Among the many diversified exhibits of our vast country, to say nothing of those of every other land and clime, the Potato Kitchen would furnish an unique and striking feature. It is hardly possible to estimate the material advantages to be derived from such an advertisement, and Mr. Bennett will prove himself a public benefactor if, by the successful operation of his scheme, he can even double the demand for this staple crop of the Eastern Shore.

By all means, let us have the native Eastern Shore cook—in checked apron and bandanna turban. Let us have potatoes baked, roasted and fried; hot potato bisent and potato greens and custards; and with a little genuine Eastern Shore butter and a glass of good milk, the native or alien who tastes is lost. He will never forget our Eastern Shore sweets. G. W. L.

Eastern Shore Agricultural Fair—Change of Time. It is with much regret that force of circumstances compel us to change the time which we had selected for the opening of the 16th Annual Fair, from August 15th, to Tuesday, August 8th, 1893. But with due regard for the wishes of our Baptist friends, many of whom are zealous patrons of the exposition and regular attendants thereon, we don't feel willing that so many of our friends should be deprived of the pleasure they find in mingling with us to promote our agricultural and stock interests, by permitting our time to conflict with their association, which we have been informed, comes off 16th of August.

In endeavoring to adapt our time to the time of the county court and association, which are established by law, we trust due appreciation will be manifested, and an increased attendance will be the result.

The purpose of the committee, is to conform to the wishes of our people in all consistent respects, establishing the force of what we have previously asserted—that it is the Fair of the people—not of any particular section or sect. Therefore, as the date is unalterably fixed, subject to no other change, keep your energies steadily concentrated upon helping us to success.

Some will criticize our action no doubt, for changing to August 8th, saying it is too soon, but remember it's "never too late to do good, nor too soon" to commence, "it's never wrong to do right and it's never right to do wrong," so give us your help, instead of harsh criticism, and we'll meet on the old fair grounds on the appointed day with smiles of approbation—each for the other, regardless of all past differences of opinion.

Respectfully, T. T. WESCOTT, Sec'y.

W. T. Bundick, the butcher of Onancock, is having his new ice cream parlor papered for the coming season. It promises to excel anything of the kind that has been started in that direction. He will both manufacture and handle city ice cream and upon due notice will deliver city cream to any part of the Peninsula for picnics, festivals, &c. He will also sell you ice by the 100 pounds, ton or car load at a very low figure. He will have a private refrigerator to his ice cream parlor.

When you want a good smoke, go to Slocomb Bros., Onancock, and get an American cigar, all Habana tobacco.
