Mr. Gresham has rented one of the Dondinville and Baker houses and they have moved from Mr. Fair's house into it.

Lost on Him.

"You call that building a 'fire trap'?" asked the perplexed foreigner. "How can a house be a trap for ze fire?" "It catches fire so easily. See?" said the native.

But he couldn't see—such is the unreadiness of the untrained foreign intellect in grasping the idioms of our rich and expressive language.—Chicago Tribune.

Death of Colonel F. M. Rust.

With the falling of the leaves departs from the city of Wilkes-Barre one of its most distinguished and honored citizens, Colonel F. M. Rust, who, ripe in years, brilliant in record, passed away at 11:20 o'clock last night at the home of his son, Harold Rust, 515 South Franklin street.

In the death of Colonel Rust one of the shining lights of the few remaining heroes of the Civil War is extinguished, and while the entire city will mourn his loss and pay tribute at his bier, yet there is a sweet consolation in the thought that his race has been well run and he enters into the joys of another world.

BORN IN KENTUCKY.

On January 15, 1841, in Boone county, Kentucky, was born to Quartus and Sarah Rust, two of Kentucky's pioneer settlers, a son who was destined for greater achievements than life in the mountain regions of that state. His early life was spent under the roof of his parents, who endeavored to rear their son and fit him for the duties of life. Their efforts were truly accomplished and coupled with the energy of the son his early education was obtained at the home.

When a mere boy of eighteen years a responsible position was entrusted to his care, and for the next three succeeding years he filled the position of private secretary to Senator Crittenton, of Kentucky, with much dignity and honor.

FOUGHT FOR THE NORTH.

While Kentucky blood flowed through his body, yet he possessed that love for freedom and equality which makes men great, and when the great strife between the North and the South broke out he forgot all duties to himself and took up arms for his country and enlisted as a private in Company K, Ninth Indiana Volunteers, serving until May, 1862, when he was honorably discharged.

Not content, when his services were required he organized the Fifty-fifth

DAYTONA.

Items from the Gazette-News.

Miss Florence Maley has been re-commissioned by the Governor as a notary public for the state at large.

Roy McClellan, son of H. T. McClellan, one of the managers of the Daytona Novelty Works, met with a very serious mishap Wednesday afternoon. He was changing the guide on the band saw at the mill when his left hand in some way struck the lightning saw, almost severing the thumb from the hand. He was immediately taken to a doctor's office and the injured member dressed. The doctor is not sure that he can save the thumb, so we are informed.

Captain J. B. Parkinson arrived home Tuesday from Texas where he has been for the past couple of months. He speaks very highly of that state and thinks it is one of the greatest states in the Union for business. The Captain came from Galveston to Miami by boat, stopping off at Key West. He is loud in his praises of the Key West soldier boys, who showed him every attention and courtesy during his stay in their city. Many of them called on him at the hotel and Captain Roberts drove him around the city, showing him the sights.

Mrs. Earnest Fitch of St. Ignace, Mich., is the guest of her brother, George Wray. Mr. Wray has not seen his sister for twenty-two years and the visit is the occasion of much joy to both of them. Mrs. Fitch will remain in Daytona for a couple of weeks and then go to Orlando for a visit with other relatives.

Commencing the 15th of the present month the various tonsorial artists of Daytona will not open their shops Sundays, but will remain open until 12 o'clock Saturday evenings. This is a mutual agreement among themselves, so as to enable them to have Sundays to themselves, the same as other people.

The Gazette-News publishes the annual statement of the Equitable Building and Loan Association, a local organization, financed by local capital and lending money only on Daytona property. The statement shows that the company has loans outstanding amounting to $112,893, an increase of $31,245 for the year. The company has aided in the building of many homes by Daytona people.

Indiana Volunteers and was mustered into service in June, 1862, with himself ranking as second lieutenant. The company was mustered out in the following August. He then re-enlisted in the Forty-third Indiana Volunteers as a private, in which regiment he served but a short time, when he was transferred to the Second Ohio Battery. He was later transferred to the staff of the Thirteenth Artillery Corps.

WON HIS COLONEL'S BARS.

He participated in the battles of Garrickford, Vicksburg, Champion Hills, Sabine, Cross Roads and Cheat Mountain. At the latter battle, in attempting to save the life of one of the officers in command, he fell badly wounded, but for his gallant and heroic effort he was promoted to colonel. Thus from a private by his meritorious conduct he climbed the ladder and when discharged wore the epaulettes of a commander.

When the war became a matter of history he journeyed to Washington, where he spent a short time, going later to Philadelphia, where he remained 20 years engaged in mercantile business. After a successful business career he came to this city, where he spent the greater part of his advanced life. During the winters he repaired to Florida, where he was engaged in phosphate adventures and orange growing.

APPARENTLY WELL YESTERDAY.

The last winter he spent in California, going hither for a two-fold object, first of a business nature and second for recuperation and rest. In January last he began to complain and although he suffered from heart disease the affliction was not considered serious. He appeared about the home and streets yesterday in his usual good spirit and the suddenness of death came as a thunderbolt to the family, who had just completed preparations for the winter's trip to Florida.

Colonel Rust was a member of all the Masonic bodies and was identified with Lodge No. 61, F. and A. M. He was also a member of Wilkes-Barre Lodge of Elks, No. 109.

He is survived by his wife and one son, Harold Rust, of the firm of Shepherd & Rust. Rev. J. N. Mills of Evansville, Ill., and James M. Mills of St. Louis are nephews. Mrs. Rust is a sister of attorney W. L. Raeder of this city.—Wilkes-Barre Leader, October 22.
