FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1918

Nashville residents and railroad officials have christened the train of seven cars conveying women and girl workers from Nashville, Tenn., each morning to the DuPont Powder Plant near that city "The Powder Puff Special." It was found necessary to run a special train morning and evening for those women who are putting their shoulders to the wheel, working day in and day out at a man's size job. The fact that they are holding on to their femininity, as the "Powder Puff Special" would imply, commanding from the man's world a continued recognition of their typically feminine traits, shows that in taking up the most masculine of man's work, they are not leaving the beaten path of femininity. Going into this world with women is the Young Women's Christian Association, which is preserving the ideals of womanhood against the dangers of new surroundings and occupations to which they are unaccustomed, and which are contrary to all previous conceptions of proprieties for women. It is watching over these girls, sharing with them their joys and sorrows and doing a work big enough to justify President Wilson in including the organization among the seven welfare bodies united for War Service.

Tomorrow, the last day in which to buy Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds. Have you done so? If not, get busy.

Arthur Protests.

Arthur was passing a day with his aunt. "I am going to do something to please you on your birthday," she said to the little boy, "but first I want to ask the teacher how you behave at school." "If you really want to do something to please me, auntie," said the boy, "don't ask the teacher."—Lippincott's.

Naturally Feit Important.

"Who was the lady who just now complained to the manager that a clerk had not shown her the proper respect?" "That was Mrs. Shashy." "She looked important." "She has a right to feel important. She's done this firm over $1,000 for the past six months."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Meaning of the Word.

A colored man who prided himself on definitions was asked for a definition of reciprocity by a white man. "Well, sah," said he, "you see that chicken house ova dar? Well, de hens dey lays for de white folks. I lay for de hens, and de white folks dey lays for me; dat's reciprocity."—Team Work.

Try, Try Again!

Young writers will do well to remember that Lord Bacon rewrote one of his essays 12 times; and Pascal his letters several times and one of them 13 times, while Edmund Burke had his works printed two or three times on a private press before offering them to a publisher.

No Nutrimint in Bouillon.

Bouillon has no more nourishing qualities than hot salt water. All the nutriment is still in the meat from which the broth was made. The bouillon is a stimulant, that is all. There is no more horrible waste than to throw away a piece of meat from which broth has been made.

Endure Adversity.

Flowers never emit so sweet and strong a fragrance as before a storm. Beautiful soul when a storm approaches thee, be as fragrant as a sweet-smelling flower.—Richter.

Do You?

There are three things which most women throw away: their time, their money and their health.—Mme. Goerfrin.

Too Familiar.

"Your face is certainly familiar," said the girl as she wiped a stolen kiss from her ruby lips.—Boston Transcript.

HOME CARD FOR FOOD CONSERVATION

Food Administrator Hoover has called upon the American people to set aside October 27th as Conservation Sunday. During that week there will be distributed to each home in the important features of this vital program be presented. Mr. Hoover has prepared a message to be read in all churches on October 27th, and in addition has requested that all denominations observe this day with a conservation service.

When the interallied food council was held last summer, the needs of the Allies were reckoned. Corrected as the returns from the harvest were ascertained and the shipping possibilities were developed, the schedules show that America must this coming year send for our armed forces and the allies half as much again of food supplies as last year. In place of eleven and three-quarters million tons the shipments this year will be seventeen and one-half tons. We are pledged to send fifty per cent more food and from substantially the same stocks as last year there must be increased conservation to accomplish the result. The interallied council was told that whatever the war-food program of the Allies requires we will endeavor to meet. This is an obligation measured in the terms of human life that rests on every American.

The new program is less specific but no less definite than that of the last twelve months. Then the Food Administration was meeting one emergency after another as it rose. This year it will be a long, steady pull directed to the whole food situation and not so much to particular commodities. After a year's experience the Food Administration is on a new footing here and abroad. The ways have been learned, the methods have been developed. The war conscience is active everywhere. The spirit which will carry this effort through to another triumph is alone the same, yet intensified by the year of anxiety and brightened hopes.

Distribution of the Hoover message to churches of Florida will be handled by county chairmen of conservation acting directly under Mrs. J. T. Fuller, director of organization and appeal, at Orlando Fla. Mrs. Fuller in co-operation with J. H. Whitney, director of education, will furnish copies of the message to all clergy-men who make requests, and will also send sufficient copies to women chairmen in the respective counties to supply all pulpits on Oct. 27, and it is hoped that no person in Florida will fail to hear the important words from Mr. Hoover.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Annual State Convention of the Florida Sunday-school Association will be held at Miami on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 29, 30, and 31, on invitation of the Miami Chamber of Commerce and the Sunday-school workers of that city.

The convention will include all denominations in Florida. Every Sunday-school is invited to send delegates, as there are over two thousand Sunday-schools in Florida, a strong and inspiring gathering is anticipated.

All delegates will be entertained for lodging and breakfast as the guests of the Miami Sunday-school workers.

A full program covering every phase of modern Sunday-school work has been prepared. Eighteen separate sessions will be held and about forty of the leading Sunday-school workers of all denominations in Florida have accepted places on the program.

The relation of the Sunday-school to good citizenship and the winning of the war will be emphasized. Special training school sessions will be held every afternoon for the advanced instruction of workers in the beginners, primary, junior, intermediate, senior, adult and administrative department of the Sunday-school. Instructions in these training-schools will be given by recognized experts.

No formal appointment or credentials are necessary in order to attend this convention. Each Sunday-school worker is invited and will be welcomed.

Information regarding the convention can be secured from J. O. Webb, General Secretary Florida Sunday-school Association, 413 Professional Building, Jacksonville, Florida.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF FISH

For the protection of the fishing industry in Florida, and in order that there be no misunderstanding as to the requirements of the United States Food Administration, all persons engaged in fishing, or in the business of buying, selling or shipping of fish, are hereby notified that the following special ruling has been approved:

From November 25th to December 20th, 1918, inclusive, no fishing for mullet will be permitted in the waters of the State of Florida, nor will marketing or shipping from Florida points be allowed.

This ruling is effective during the time specified in the waters of the State of Florida, and violation of this rule will result in such penalties as are or may be provided by the United States Food Administration.

This ruling does not alter or change other general rulings of the United States Food Administration applying to the fishing industry of Florida.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION MEETING POSTPONED

On account of the great amount of sickness due to influenza, over the State and country at this time, it was deemed advisable to postpone the holding of meeting of Jacksonville Baptist Association, until November 19, 20, 21. This meeting was to have been held for three days, beginning October 22. The territory covered by this association embraces Nassau, Baker and Duval counties. And a great many messengers and visitors from the thirty odd churches located in this district, attend the meeting, and in justice to the entertaining church, with a great many of their members sick, the meeting was put forward one month, at which time it is hoped that health conditions will be greatly improved. This session will be held with the Main street Baptist church in Jacksonville. The pastor and members of this church are preparing to royally entertain all who attend this session of the association, and are looking forward to a large attendance.

Animals and Proverbs.

It is singular at first sight how largely animals are referred to in proverbs, but since proverbs are built on men's lives and their observations, it is really not so odd.

The docile sheep reminds one of obedient children or tractable servants; the strutting peacocks, with their large and beautiful tails, of gaudily dressed women; the rock-climbing goats, of bold adventurers; the cunning foxes, of unprincipled and shrewd tradesmen; the chirping crickets, of care-free merry-makers, and the slippery eel, of unreliable employers.

This readiness to see resemblances everywhere shows itself in proverbial similes and comparisons—"as stupid as a snail"; a cheerful companion is "as happy as a clam"; the headstrong youth "as wild as a buck"; the diligent workman is "as busy as a bee"; the courageous soldier is "as brave as a lion"; the neighbor who is lean and tall of stature is "as gaunt as a greyhound."

Mecca for the Fat.

"Go to Mesopotamia and perspire" is the reply of a writer in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer to a person who is searching for a reliable cure for fat. In that climate a fat person simply melts and runs down. As early in the morning as daybreak one awakes to find himself bathed in perspiration. The "cool" of the night means a temperature of 90 degrees; by eleven o'clock the temperature rises to 120 degrees, and at midday the air simply burns the lungs. Nobody remains fat in Mesopotamia, and nobody works if it can be avoided, and Sulim tells me that it generally is avoided under the pretext of turning everything over to Allah. All this fat pilgrim needs in Mesopotamia is somebody to support him. If this can be arranged, the fat takes care of itself. However, one might reduce, even in this climate, quite handily while looking for somebody to support one.

Remember This.

Overwork just before serving of meals, more than any other thing, has kept women from being recognized by men as equal thinkers.

LIFE FIFTY CENTURIES AGO

Discoveries Show There Were Many Points of Resemblance to That of the Present Day.

Translation of prehistoric tablets in the University of Pennsylvania museum at Philadelphia has revealed that women mayors were regularly constituted public officials in Asia Minor 5,000 years ago. That prototypes of newspaper men got that remote time, true to more modern traditions of the profession, occasionally became involved in litigations of the present day "libel suit" character, but generally were released "on bail" is also indicated in the newly deciphered writings.

The translations which concern a once-powerful, well-organized government and people of which nearly all trace has been lost through long forgotten centuries have just been completed by Dr. A. B. Sayce of Oxford university, famous oriental scholar. He copied the tablets two years ago and took the copies to Egypt, where he was finally able to master their time-shrouded messages.

The tablets were the work of Hittites of Cappadocia, whose national boundaries 50 centuries ago extended from the Mediterranean to the Black sea and from the headquarters of the Euphrates into what is now Persia. Each province was subdivided into cities, and these were supervised by a mayor and a prefecture, whose powers, the tablets indicate, were coordinated. In one instance it appeared the woman mayor had an official status independent of the male head of the "municipal" government.

An insight into many other interesting and hitherto unknown phases of life in the ancient kingdoms whose lands comprised the present-day Mesopotamian battle grounds are afforded by Doctor Sayce's discoveries.

SINCERE GRATITUDE

Mrs. William Bell, Logansport, Ind., writes: "I deem it my duty to express my gratitude for the good Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy did me when I had a severe attack of diarrhoea three years ago. It was the only medicine that relieved me."

The Extravagant Girl.

A member of the war trade board said in a discussion of pre-war extravagance: "I heard a story the other day, a story about an extravagant Pittsburgh girl. She got engaged to a young broker, but her father put his foot down on the match. "What's your objection to Harold, papa?" the Pittsburgh girl asked, biting her lip. "My objection," fumed the old man, "is that the fellow can't support you." "But papa," said the girl, coldly, "neither can you."

Oratory.

"What's all that about the Argonauts and the golden fleece?" "Just a little flowery stuff as a starter. The senator is discussing the wool schedule."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Getting the Money.

"So your daughter is to marry?" "Yes." "Has the young man any prospects?" "I should say so. His father is one of our foremost professors."
