Norway should call for a new deck, it seems the kings are all gone out the one now in use.

Gainesville has set an example worthy of imitation by all Florida towns.—Ocala Banner.
Florida towns are booming and there hardly one in the State but has made some improvements this season.

The cotton market has been on the up for several days, the advance in price having been unprecedented.
Tampa had better watch out, as that town's exposition, which is now before the people, will be opened some time during the coming fall.

Four women were connected on one telephone line in an Eastern city, and not one of them will speak to the other and each one accuses the others of eavesdropping.
The valuable apparatus belonging to the Florida Seminary ought to be retained for the University, as the laboratory and fixtures are said to be the best in the State.

It will be a long time before the new secretary of State will be able to share a part of the success that the late John Hay attained. He was a master at diplomacy.
The True Democrat says that M. A. Brown of Jacksonville, who was supposed to be elected as C. H. Dickinson's successor as private secretary to Governor Broward, has accepted a permanent position in the comptroller's office.

The State government wants all the soldiers, but it will have to do something to do the cowardly soldiers in the army, when commanded to fire, turned their backs on the officers who gave the order.
The new cream parlors and soft drinks are sold at a profit, but the Sunday caused much trouble to the people who went to spend the day. There can be no harm in enjoying a cool temperance drink on Sunday, it would seem.

The State should refrain from continuing the employment of white men to teach negroes, especially in the South where the color line is so sharp. It was all right to do so following the freeing of the colored man, and for several years a number of colored men were employed to do the teaching. The colored people resent the employment of white teachers to instruct white children, and white people would not have their children taught by negroes, and it is time that the objectionable practice should cease.

THE UNIVERSITY.
It is unnecessary to again refer to the honest fight we made to gain it, nor is it necessary to again praise the liberal spirit of our people, who backed Mayor Thomas and his delegation so effectively in their fight to win for our city a lasting glory.

We make no vain-glorious attempt to triumphantly shout our victory over any other city in the race for the laurel we have won. But we do feel a naturally proud spirit rise within us when we consider that one of the brightest gems at the State's disposal has been reposed in the diadem of Gainesville's ambition, and that we, her citizens, have been made the custodians of a jewel whose light we hope will flood even the darkest corners of the South with the glory of the light of Florida.

The task imposed, which we knowingly and willingly took upon ourselves when we entered the fight for the University, is not yet completed, nor will it be in the memory of man. That we have the University is not all the fight. It has only opened the door to a greater one—the preservation of high ideals and the endowment of the institution itself with an atmosphere which will equip the youth with an ambition to become a member of its alumni. And the fight must be continued to a glorious sequential end. We must, by our endeavor, by our encouragement, and by our everlasting aid, so burnish and polish its purpose as to cause Florida to continue to fan the spark of faith she has kindled in the hearts of her people as to our fitness and worthiness to guard the jewel, so as to cause that spark to leap into a flame so great that the conflagration may paint on the skies of the South, "Gainesville, Alma Mater," as a beacon by which the youth of our State may be guided in the walk of a great, grand future—a future filled with human kindness and a true brotherhood of humanity.

Education is the keynote of progress. It stands as the great leveler of class, the great upbuilder of a people's civic righteousness. It opens the doors of all that is best and good in the world. It is a richness more priceless than the standard of dollars can measure. It makes leaders of men and counselors of women. A good leader cannot be other than a good man, and a wise counselor cannot be other than a good woman, and good women make good and great States.

Never lived there a man, profligate of his youthful opportunities of education, though he were crushed under the weight of millions of money, but what regretted in his last moments something his wealth could not buy—a great enlightenment—a noble education. It is a gift to youth by snowy age; it is the sacred endowment of a wise father and a loving mother to a hopeful future, and fits the youth to go forth into the battles for his people, for his commonwealth, with a stout, courageous heart, armored with an appreciation of duty as a gift from his parents to be handed as an heirloom to his own children.

Educational preeminence, like stately fortune, is carved by the chisel, not the axe, and perfection can only be attained by the delicate touch of a masterful hand, guided by a critical preceptor, to bring the whole statue to that rich thing of beauty that all men may admire and feel proud to own. We cannot expect to jump at once into the magic circle of the limelight of the educational arena and proclaim our institution the best; but in time, let us hope, with the active cooperation of our people, applauded by all the people of our grand State, we will earn the right to crown our effort with the motto that even those in the seats of the mighty may read, Gainesville, the Athens of the South!

GAINESVILLE TO LAKE CITY.
We offer condolence to the bereaved Lake City. You fought nobly for what you believed was your heritage, and here's to you:
Has she faults? Let them perish!
Has she virtues? Lift them high;
We can only say for Lake City
It's a good place in which to die.
—Gainesville Star.
Gainesville should not be unkind. She should lift high the olive branch and be void of offense to all neighboring cities.—Ocala Banner.
The Banner is assured that Gainesville is not unkind. Every man, woman and child in Gainesville, outside The Star office, (whose editor is unknown) condemns the four lines of doggerel which appeared in that paper of last week. The people of Gainesville, led by Mayor Thomas, made the campaign for the location of the State University here solely upon the merits of our town. The claims of Gainesville were set forth only as could be substantiated, and we rested our case upon these claims, not upon the demerits of any other town.

Gainesville sympathizes with Lake City in her loss, instead of gloating over it, and our people regretted the necessity which forced them to fight for the town's supremacy as the educational center of Florida. The issue was forced upon us when the East Florida Seminary was abolished, and we entered the contest determined to win. Certain men furnished the club with which their own heads were cracked; but Gainesville has only the most kindly feeling for Lake City and its good people.

HIGHLY APPRECIATED.
Mrs. H. H. McCreary is in receipt of the following highly appreciated congratulatory letter from Mrs. Hudson, wife of Senator F. M. Hudson, upon Gainesville securing the University:

TALLAHASSEE, FLA., July 8, 1905.
"MY DEAR MRS. McCREARY: I have just heard that Gainesville has been awarded the University, and, so happy am I for you, I have dropped my packing long enough to offer congratulations. Mr. Hudson joins me in wishing for Gainesville and the University unprecedented prosperity.
"Had this result been foreseen, I doubt if some of the staunchest advocates of the Buckman bill would have been so strenuous in their efforts.
"With regards to Mr. McCreary and love for you and Elmer,
"Cordially your friend,
"NORA ANDREWS HUDSON."

It is no wonder that Gainesville was successful in securing the University when such ladies as Mrs. Hudson favored her. She is possessed of that amiable disposition which makes friends of everyone, and her sweet voice was an attractive feature of the services at the Methodist church during the last session of the Legislature.

Senator Hudson, who represented Brevard and Dade counties, was also a good friend of East Florida Seminary and opposed the Buckman bill because he believed it was against the best educational interests of the State. He was one of the ablest members of the last Senate and immediately stepped to the front as a leader. Should he decide to remain in public life we predict that Senator F. M. Hudson will ere long be called to higher positions in the affairs of State.

THE RIGHT SENTIMENT.
Senator McCreary is in receipt of a letter from Hon. D. H. Baker of Orange Home, Sumter county, which is possessed of the proper sentiment. Mr. Baker represented Sumter county in the State Legislature four terms, represented Sumter and Marion counties in the Senate and was a member of the Board of Trustees of the East Florida Seminary, filling every position with credit to himself and his constituents. Florida never had a more loyal citizen to every trust reposed in him than Mr. Baker, and a word from him is the utterance of an honest man. Following is his letter:

ORANGE HOME, FLA., July 8, 1905.
"HON. H. H. McCREARY,
"Gainesville.
"MY DEAR SENATOR: Because of the decision of the State Board and the Board of Control in locating the University at Gainesville, I feel that a great benefit has been done the youth of the State. The people of the State are to be congratulated much more than the citizens of Gainesville because of the location.
"Sincerely yours,
"D. H. BAKER."

Our esteemed friend has settled down to the pursuits of orange growing at his pleasant home in Sumter county, is respected by all who know him, and looks back on his past record with a feeling that he has done his duty well. We wish Florida had more of such men.

GAINESVILLE LOYALTY.
In speaking of the University of Florida and its location at Gainesville, The Tampa Herald says that "it takes something more than fine buildings and fine grounds to make a University. That something Lake City seems to have lacked and Gainesville seems to have possessed.
"Alachua county has never sent a representative to the Legislature of Florida who has not been loyal to the East Florida Seminary and its management, and we do not believe she ever will send one who will not be loyal to the new University of Florida, and who will not be a firm defender of the institution and its management whenever they are unjustly attacked on the floor of the Legislature of our State."

WAS BEWILDERED.
E. C. Smith of Ocala furniture fame, and an auto expert, returned yesterday afternoon from Gainesville, where he happened to be on business. Thursday night he was sleeping the sleep of the good and virtuous at the Brown House when Gainesville received the news from Tallahassee that they had won out on the State University contest. He said it was about 1 o'clock when he was seized with a most terrible nightmare. The fire bells were ringing and he imagined mountains of flame were surging over his head and roaring like the Niagara in his ears, that he was in a 32-story building and the walls were falling in. As soon as he could extricate himself from this frightful mental condition, he got up and dressed, and on investigating the cause found out what it was. From that time on until the train left yesterday the town and its people were celebrating. Everything that rang, that whistled, that exploded or resounded, was called into requisition, and the hottest time in its history was abroad in the old town. Everybody was out, cheering and shouting, and their joy knew no bounds. Well they may, for it is the biggest thing that ever befell our neighbor. The Star glories in the spirit it aroused. It is an omen of an auspicious beginning for the new University, and a happy continuance of its glorious educational career for the town and commonwealth.—Ocala Star.

GOOD FOR GAINESVILLE.
The Board of Control has selected Gainesville as the site for the State University for males. The action was taken at the session last night in Tallahassee, after the claims of both Gainesville and Lake City had been eloquently presented by delegations from those cities, and the vote was six to four.
It is safe to assert that seventy-five per cent, if not more, of the people of this section were in favor of the selection of Gainesville.

the decision of the board gives very general satisfaction.—The Tampa Times, 7th.

HOW THEY VOTED.
According to information obtained from The White Springs Herald, the members of the Board of Control voted as follows:
Gainesville. Lake City,
H. Clay Crawford, Gov. N. B. Broward,
W. H. Ellis, Nathaniel Adams,
W. V. Knott, Dr. A. L. Brown,
W. M. Holloway, N. P. Bryan,
T. B. King,
P. K. Young.
According to the same authority three members of the Board of Control voted for Lake City, while every member of the State Board of Education voted for Gainesville, except Governor Broward, and we give them the assurance that they will never live to see the day they will regret their action through any fault of our people.

NO ANTI-CIGARETTE LAW.
The expression has gone out and it has been published in many papers that a law was passed at the last session of the Legislature prohibiting the sale of cigarettes and cigarette papers. It is not the fact, however, as no such law was submitted to the Governor for his signature.
Such a measure was presented at the last session, but it was never enacted into a law.

The Tampa Bay Hotel grounds will make a fine place for holding the fair and the speed contests will be an attraction that will draw large crowds, as many fine horses will be there.

A colored man of Jacksonville will test the Jim Crow law regarding the riding of whites and blacks on street cars.

Pensacola's dream of Bliss is becoming a nightmare to some of the residents.
