Tomatoes, Possums and Ducks Plentiful—Improvements About Town.

Windsor, Oct. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Howells have lately returned from the North, and Mrs. Howells, nee Mrs. Munsinger, has taken up her duties again as postmistress at this place.

Hon. J. A. Rosborough is making some improvements. Among other things he is contemplating erecting a new building shortly.

T. M. King spent several days in Windsor last week.

We are happy to state that the little daughter of I. I. Wilkinson is rapidly recovering from a very serious illness.

Oscar Green and family have moved into Windsor from Orange Heights, and expect to make this place their home.

Mr. Torode has a patch of very fine tomatoes. We understand those he has sold have netted something like $5 per bushel. This looks like there might be money in tomatoes.

Robt. Wixson and wife of Gainesville, and T. L. Boulware, spent Sunday in Windsor.

The cotton crop in this section of the county has about all been gathered. The cotton looks nice, but with reduced acreage and the loss by shedding incident to the wet weather, there will not be much over half the number of pounds there were last year.

Orange trees have made a fine growth since the rainy season began. There are quite a lot of trees that show a little sprinkle of oranges. If we have an unusually mild winter, there will be a good many boxes grown in Windsor next year.

W. H. Byles and M. J. Beckham each have a nice lot of pecans of very large size and excellent flavor this year. The soil seems admirably adapted to the culture of pecans.

Anyone wishing a nice fat duck for Sunday dinner can procure the same by addressing Mrs. Elarson or Mrs. Mann of this place.

Possums have made themselves very much in evidence here of late, and from the way they are stripping the persimmon trees Windsor neighborhood might be a good place to put in orders for fat possums.

S. B. Hardee is very ill with malarial fever.

The angel of death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Trammell on the 14th inst., and took from them their sweet little boy, Robbie, aged three years. "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Death at Newberry.

Newberry, October 20.—Our community was shocked Wednesday at the death of Gladys, the sweet fifteen-months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lute Howell, which occurred after an illness of only a few days.

Gladys was a sweet child, possessed of a most affectionate and friendly disposition, and a general favorite with all who knew her.

The remains were taken to Lake Park, Ga. Thursday, where the interment was held. The corpse was accompanied by the bereaved parents and Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Howell.

The sympathy of the community is extended in this sad hour of bereavement.

FRANK BARKLEY.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germs, which act so successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

Doctors Said He Would Not Live.

Peter Frj. Woodruff, Pa., writes: "After doctoring for two years with the best physicians in Waynesburg, and still getting worse, the doctors advised me if I had any business to attend to I had better attend to it at once, as I could not possibly live another month as there was no cure for me. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend, and I immediately sent my son to the store for it, and after taking three bottles I began to get better, and continued to improve until I was entirely well." J. W. McCollum & Co.

A Troubled One.
It is said that the expression "There is a skeleton in every closet" arose from the following incident: A young Italian student, finding he was dying, fearing to break the news to his mother, adopted the following device: He informed her that he was ill and that it had been foretold he would not recover until he had worn a skirt made by a woman who had a trouble. The widow soon discovered it was no easy task to find such a person, but at length was referred to a lady who seemed surrounded with every comfort and happiness and possessed a husband who seemed devoted to her. The widow made known her request and for an answer was shown a closet where a skeleton hung suspended from a beam. She was told it was the remains of the lady's former lover, who from motives of jealousy had been slain by her husband, and that he compelled her to visit it every day. The widow concluded that no one was without trouble, that "there is a skeleton in every closet," and became reconciled to the approaching loss of her son.

Washington's Birthday.

The first known celebration of Washington's birthday was on Feb. 11, 1784. The old style date was still adhered to. This was during the lifetime of the first president and completed his fifty-third year. The following is from the Pennsylvania Packet of Philadelphia of the date of Tuesday, Feb. 17, 1784: "New York, Friday, Feb. 13.—Wednesday last being the birthday of his excellency General Washington the same was celebrated by all the true friends of American independence and constitutional liberty with that hilarity and manly decorum ever attendant on the sons of freedom. In the evening an entertainment was given on board the East India ship in this harbor to a very brilliant and respectable company, and a discharge of thirteen cannon was fired on the joyful occasion." The observance of the day was not confined to New York city.

Newton's Telescope.

Newton fashioned a concave mirror from a mixture of copper and tin, which gives a surface with almost the luster of silver. An image of the star was produced in the focus of this mirror, and then this image when examined by a magnifying eyepiece permits the astronomer to study the star at what is equivalent to a greatly reduced distance. Such is the principle of the famous erecting telescope which bears the name of Newton. The little reflector which he constructed is still preserved as one of the treasures of the Royal society. The telescope tube had the very modest dimensions of an inch in diameter. It was, however, the precursor of a whole series of magnificent instruments, each outstripping the other in magnitude.

A Soft Answer.

Here is a story about Sir Patrick Talbot, sergeant at arms in the house of lords. He had been private secretary to the great Lord Derby when prime minister and afterward married one of his daughters. One day when a large party was present at Knowlsey Lord Derby burst out at table with the remark, "It's a curious thing one never knows what a lot of fools there are in England until one becomes prime minister." Thereupon Talbot, at the other end of the table, said, "Yes, and one never knows what a fool a prime minister may be until one becomes his private secretary." Lord Derby's reply was, "Thank you, Pat."—Dundee Advertiser.

The Rudest Man of His Age.

John Hunter, the famous British surgeon, anatomist, physiologist and medical writer, who died in 1793, was one of the rudest men of his age. He returned home late one evening from his round of professional calls and found his wife entertaining a few friends. Grimly he walked into the center of the room, stopped and looked around. "I knew nothing of this kink up," he said, "and ought to have been informed. As I have returned home for the purpose of studying, I hope the present company will retire at once." They retired.
