BUY YOUR TICKETS

Or Pay Four Cents a Mile on Seaboard Air Line.

Beginning with November the Seaboard Air Line will collect four cents a mile from passengers who board the trains at regular ticket agency stations without providing themselves with tickets.

This has been a privilege for a number of years which the Seaboard has never availed itself of, but instead has charged an additional ten cents on each passenger under the conditions mentioned and the amount was refunded upon presentation at ticket agencies of the conductor's receipt.

It has been determined to put the four-cent rate into effect and do away with the rebate system, the object being to make it advantageous for passengers to purchase tickets instead of paying cash fares.
